HITZ REFUSES TO FREE SMITH COMPANY MEN

Defense in Embezzlement Case Loses Directed Verdict Plea.

FORMER PRESIDENT BRANDS ASSOCIATES

Henry Accuses Pitts of Stealing $200,000 at One Time.

CHARGES ATTORNEY TRIED TO GIVE BRIBE

Courtroom Tense as Witness Is Threatened With Jail for Contempt.

Justice William Hitz, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon declined to free the three defendants in the F. H. Smith Co. conspiracy trial, overruling a defense motion for a directed verdict of not guilty on all four counts of the indictment. Arguments on the motion occupied almost all of the afternoon and began when the Government closed its case soon after the noon recess, the jury having been sent from the courtroom.

In its first count, the indictment charges 100 offenses, 95 of them being conspiracy to embezzle funds of the company and five to conceal records. The defendants are G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, former officers of the investment house.

Earlier in the day Justice Hitz had overruled a defense motion for a mistrial after a witness had accused one of the defense attorneys of having offered him a bribe. This motion for a mistrial was the third to have been overruled since the trial opened.

Some doubt that the defense will be ready to go ahead with its case this morning was created last night when Wilton J. Lambert, of defense counsel, announced that the defense had before it the task of examining the record in the case. Asked by Justice Hitz if this work would be finished by this morning, Mr. Lambert answered, "We may be able to go on."

Henry Creates Sensation.

It is expected that the first defense witnesses will be accountants employed to examine books and records of the Smith company.

The serene monotony of the trial which has lulled the courtroom during the last two weeks was violently torn asunder yesterday morning, when Samuel J. Henry, former president of the Smith Co. occupied the witness stand. The witness, who twisted nervously in his chair, once almost tipping himself out of it, wrangled with attorneys for Government and defense and with the Court, made point blank charges against the defendants and against one attorney, and finally received a promise that he would be committed to jail for contempt of court if he didn't behave himself. His hands moved constantly from the judge's desk to the rail, to the back of his head, to the arms of his chair, as he retorted sharply to lawyers' questions.

In the two hours he was on the stand, Mr. Henry charged that he had seen Mr. Pitts remove records of the company to his Maryland farm; that he had seen Mr. Pitts removing pages from company books with gloved hands; that Mr. Pitts "stole $200,000" from the Smith Co.; that Mr. Pitts "walked away" with $85,000 in mortgages, and that Frank G. Raichle, of defense counsel, had offered him $10,000 to turn over certain records. These charges met with a storm of objections from the defense, many of which were sustained by the Court.

Henry Turbulent Witness.

His charges as to Mr. Raichle came at the end of a lively cross-examination, in which it was often difficult to determine whether the attorney or the witness was on the stand. Mr. Henry frequently answered a question with another, and then answered his own question before Mr. Raichle could reply. He seemed moved neither by admonitions of attorneys for both sides nor by the judge until the imminence of jail threatened him.

At the end of the cross-examination nervous tension gripped the courtroom and restrained sighs of relief followed Mr. Henry through the door to the witness room almost as a barrage.

The witness, who had proved difficult even for prosecution attorneys to handle, was a veritable broncho under cross-examination. While Mr. Raichle was questioning him regarding the presence of certain account records at the Southern Maryland Trust Co. at the time it failed, December 13, 1929, he flung his accusation at the attorney. Mr. Henry is a former president of the bank as well as of the Smith Co.

Previous questioning under cross-examination had brought out that the witness had directed another of-

BLAINE TO DEMAND BOOKS OF WARDMAN

Real Estate Man Must Face Legla Action if He Again Refuses, Says Senator.

WOMEN ARE TO TESTIFY

The defiance hurled by Harry Wardman at the Blaine subcommitete of the Senate District committee will be taken up by the committee and the real estate operator and builder will be forced to produce the books and records desired by the committee or face the legal consequences, Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, chairman of the subcommittee, declared yesterday.

The Blaine committee will meet at 10 o'clock this morning when it will resume its inquiry into activities of District real estate operators, but the issue is not expected to be joined with Mr. Wardman until later.

Many persons, for the most part women, are on the witness list of the committee to tell about how they were "high pressured" into purchase of property through the operations of the County Club Properties, Inc., which is selling land in the vicinity of Silver Spring, Md.

It is expected that the session of the committee this morning will be confined largely to this particular operation.

In the meantime more detailed study is being made under the direction of counsel for the committee of the operations of the several Wardman companies. This is with a view to levying on Mr. Wardman a more specific demand for books and receipts than was made in the duces tecum subpena which brought him before the committee last week.

Mr. Wordman appeared, accompanied by his counsel and other officers of his companies, and refused to produce the books and papers demanded. His refusal, he told the committee, was based on the advice of counsel and the belief that the demand of the committee was so broad and general as to amount to unwarranted search and seizure.

Mr. Wardman was not under oath at the time and that probably would absolve him of a charge of contempt but the mere matter of the oath, Senator Blaine said yesterday, was of no importance and that technicality could be eliminated at any time by summoning be real estate operator and putting him under oath and again demanding the books and papers of his companies.

The committee evidently is determined to get around Mr. Wardman's legal point that their demand for records was not sufficiently specific and it is expected that a subsequent demand will be made for specific records of specific companies and corporations which Mr. Wardman created to handle his affairs.

When the committee will make its next move in the Wardman matter will depend on the results of the study now being made under the direction of the committee counsel.

COMMITTEE FAVORS BAN TO ALIEN ENTRY

Two-Year Suspension Now Proposed in House and Senate Bills.

DROP JOHNSON PROGRAM

(Associated Press.)

A tentative agreement to suspend immigration for two years was reached yesterday by a House committee.

The immigration committee had not completed its study of a pending measure, nor finished amending it. But the members agreed it should suspend immigration for two years instead of five, as would have been provided under the bill introduced by Chairman Johnson. The bill now conforms to the Reed proposal in the Senate.

Johnson plans legislation to establish a commission to codify and clarify immigration and naturalization laws "during the two years" the suspension measure would be in effect.

While Representative Dickstein (Democrat), New York, ranking minority member on the committee, indicated he would approve a two-year suspension, he said restriction for any time longer than that would be "dishonest," and that even the two-year measure might not be a true representation of facts.

Dickstein said if the administration could cut down immigration 84 per cent in one month, as the committee has been informed, he could see no stringent necessity for suspension legislation. Any absolute suspension, he said, would be a greater hardship than benefit.

"The better way to do it would be to deport the undesirable aliens we now have, and let worthy applicants enter the country," he said.

Widow of Cleveland Hears Son as Counsel

Newark, N. J., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The widow of an American President sat quietly knitting in court today while her son pleaded a case at the bar.

Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, widow of Grover Cleveland, was one of the interested spectators at hearing of final arguments by her son, Richard Cleveland, counsel for John E. Nicholson, of Baltimore, who seeks to prove he is the heir to a $325,000 trust fund left by William E. Emery, of Flemington.

Clark Holds Dry Fete At Embassy in Mexico

Mexico City, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—J. Reuben Clark, new United States Ambassador to Mexico, gave his first reception in the embassy this afternoon. It was without liquor, as Mr. Clark recently announced that no alcoholic beverages would be served in the embassy during his term.

The Ambassador will give his first public reception tomorrow.

METHODIST DRY BOARD OPPOSES BALLOT ON LAW

Veto of Referendum by Religious Group Is Big Surprise.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT'S DEFENSE IS HEARD

Temperance Council Gets Her View of Grape Concentrate.

LOANS TO VINEYARDS ASSAILED BY PICKETT

Two Wet Organizations, in Session, Map Outlines of Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

Dry leaders questioned a former Federal prohibition prosecutor behind the closed doors of the National Temperance Council yesterday, while, at another meeting three blocks distant, the Methodist Board of Temperance was moving to keep pace in the dry ranks by voting unanimously against a national prohibition referendum.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition, and now counsel for a grape concentrate concern, appeared before the temperance council at its own request, but only after objections had been raised against her.

Once there, however, her hearers said, she reaffirmed her belief in the efficacy of prohibition and readily submitted to questioning about the Volstead act and its relation to the making of wine from grape concentrates in the home. Mrs. Willebrandt declined to discuss her appearance.

Board's Act Is Surprise.

The action of the Methodist board in voting, late in the day, against a prohibition referendum came as somewhat of a surprise. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, its secretary, had told the group in the morning "the time has come to call the bluff of the wet propagandists by saying, 'If you wanted a real referendum, we will meet you half way.'"

Dr. Wilson himself, however, recommended the adoption of the motion which said in part that the board "joins with the allied dry forces of the Nation in accordance with the action taken by them in opposing a referendum on or a resubmission of the eighteenth amendment. We favor the coordination of all the dry forces of the country."

The motion asserted the wets have "attempted to destroy prohibition" by obstructing its administration, "by the indirect use of criminals, by the incidental causation of murder, by resistance to government."

Wets Discuss Substitutes.

In still another section of the Capital the delegates to the "national constitutional convention" had advanced six proposals as substitutes for the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act and were moving to reach an agreement upon a single one of them. They ranged from light

CAPPER MOVES TO PROBE COST OF FOOD HERE

Senate Resolution Aims to Cover All Products Used on Table.

GOVERNMENT MAKING NATION-WIDE INQUIRY

Complaints in District Figure in Initiative Taken by Kansan.

LEGGE FINDS WHEAT FARMER GETS LITTLE

He Joins Investigation Into Price of Bread, Which Remains Up.

Investigation of food prices in the District is provided for in a resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee.

The investigation would be made by the Senate District committee, and not only would go into bread prices, but also extend to all other foods.

A Nation-wide investigation of the discrepancies between the prices of wheat and flour and retail bread prices also has been begun by the Department of Justice, it was disclosed by Attorney General Mitchell.

Legge Also Probing.

Senator Capper has been joined recently in questioning the discrepancies between wheat and bread prices by Chairman Legge and other members of the Farm Board. Chairman Legge declared a survey showed only 39 cents out of each dollar paid by the consumer for bread went to the farmer, miller and others handling wheat before the baker.

Complaints about the wide discrepancies in farm and retail prices in the District partly are responsible for the investigation resolution introduced by Senator Capper. Coming from a wheat-growing State, the senator was one of those who made especial inquiry of Farm Board members at recent appropriations hearings.

The Senate is expected to adopt his resolution without delay.

Finds Prices Unchanged.

Despite the fact that the price of wheat has reached the lowest point in two decades, there has been no reflection of that decline in the retail price of bread charged consumers in Washington, Senator Capper said.

Information on local bread prices has been gathered by James Ring, clerk of the committee, and submitted to the chairman. The result of this preliminary investigation brought Senator Capper to a decision to present a resolution formally empowering his committee to go into the question.

The resolution, however, provided for investigation into prices of all foodstuffs in the District. This broadening of the scope of his original and informal inquiry Senator Capper said was decided on because of many com-

$60,000,000 AID BILL PASSES SENATE OVER CENSURE BY HOOVER

Measure Is $35,000,000 Above Sum Asked by Executive.

REED ALONE DEFENDS PRESIDENT'S POSITION

Democratic Revolt Is Seen as Threat to Harmony Plan.

ROBINSON LEADERSHIP COMES UNDER ATTACK

Leaders Say Peoples' Needs Superior to Wishes of Income Taxpayers.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover yesterday jumped with both feet upon members of Congress and others who are demanding that he do more in his relief program, and in doing so he precipitated the Senate harmony agreement to a precarious perch.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, who considered he came within the terms of the President's wrath because of his advocacy of a five-day week for Government employes and his attack upon the President Monday, made some pointed reference to Senator Joe Robinson's cooperation leadership and dared him or any other Democrat to subscribe to the sentiment of the President's statement. Senator Caraway made some characteristic comment, and Senator Pat Harrison accused the President of "trying to place the Democratic leaders in a hole, and doing it deliberately."

Robinson, whom the turn of events did seem to make uncomfortable, absented himself from the chamber.

Pass Relief Measure.

But before any of it got under way the Senate, without a roll call, passed the bill providing for $60,000,000 for food, seed and cattle relief to the drought stricken sections. The President had recommended only $25,000,000 for seed and cattle relief, being opposed to the $35,000,000 to feed the farmers themselves, and presumably his statement was aimed at this, as much as anything else.

Walsh, of Massachusetts, insisted that the President's statement laid down the principle that there would be no relief of any kind, regardless of the need, that necessitated the raising of taxes, and wanted to know what Democrat subscribed to such a program; "what Democratic leader subscribes to it?"

He later interrupted Harrison and pointed out that the President had said he had the cooperation of the leaders of both parties, said it was very "important" that the Democratic leaders should not be "misrepresented," and asked him mischievously if he knew of any Democrat subscribing to that program.

Question Evaded.

Harrison replied rather evasively:

"No and I do not believe a single Republican subscribes to it. However, I do not believe increased taxes would be necessary."

It was very probably Walsh's attitude that caused Harrison to accuse the President of trying to put the Democratic leaders in a hole.

At the end of it all, Senator La-Follette of Wisconsin, introduced a resolution which set forth the President's position as giving precedence to income taxpayers over the "human suffering" and gave it as the sense of the Senate that "human suffering" was above the interests of the income taxpayers.

Reed Lone Defender.

It was obviously just a gesture, but the President's denunciation so upset the Senate that had Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, not asked that the resolution lie over a day, under the rules, it quite likely would have been adopted then and there. No one else

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The Congress has before it two distinct problems, which, in their solution, conflict with each other. One is the necessity of providing revenue to meet obligations already incurred or any new commitments for relief. The other is to do what it can to encourage business. The obligations must be met. But that requires taxes and perhaps more taxes. That will retard business. The answer may lie in temporary borrowing to meet temporary emergency. The danger there is extravagance.

It would seem perfectly clear that business will not be improved by spending tax money. Taxes are already too high. With all the national reductions, States and municipalities have raised taxes until the grand total is about $13,000,000,000.

Nothing would so encourage business as a reduction of this local and national burden. In 1921 it was particularly the drastic cut in Federal expenses and taxes that brought economic revival.

While relief must be provided, those who now advocate taxes may be meeting the Treasury requirements but are postponing prosperity. Those who seek to improve our economic position by spending more tax money are going in the wrong direction. Rigid governmental economy would finally solve both problems.

DISARMAMENT PACT DRAFT IS COMPLETED

1932 PARLEY BASIS LAID

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The preparatory disarmament commission finished its work tonight and adjourned sine die, leaving as a legacy the outline of a general disarmament treaty, the value of which history only can assess.

This outline, or draft convention, is to form the basis for the deliberations of a world disarmament conference which will probably be called to meet early in 1932.

Before its final adjournment the commission took solemn inventory of its extensive labors and acknowledged that the results were imperfect. The draft convention, however, the majority agreed, while providing little more than the stabilization of present armaments as an immediate prospect, holds great possibilities for reduction if only governments will be of a mind to reduce.

In a series of valedictory declarations, among which that of Hugh Gibson, American delegate, struck a vigorous note, the commission summoned public opinion to tireless activity in pushing governments of the world along the road of disarmament. The hope was voiced that the political obstacles blocking the arms reduction program would grow less formidable before the world conference meets to consider the adoption of a general scheme for limitation.

Reviewing the history of the commission, speakers recalled that it was constituted by the League of Nations in 1926 and met from time to time as the opportunity seemed to offer for advancing disarmament work. The final session ending tonight began November 6.

So far as is known at Geneva the Franco-Italian naval controversy has not undergone any modifications dur-

$110,000,000 RELIEF BILL WINS IN HOUSE

Restrictions Are Placed on Spending Slashed Hoover Item.

AWAITS SENATE ACTION

(Associated Press.)

The $110,000,000 emergency unemployment construction program was passed by the House yesterday without opposition, but after attacks against the administration's attitude.

The public works unemployment relief measure now awaits Senate action, while the House plans to take up the drought bill for final passage tomorrow.

Before the drought bill can be laid before the House, the agriculture committee, which held close to the administration's proposal and approved $30,000,000 for the work, will have to consider the Senate bill. Chairman Haugen has called his committee to meet today.

President Hoover's proposal for a $150,000,000 lump sum, to be expended by a Cabinet committee for unemployment relief, was slashed by the House appropriations committee by $40,000,000 and restrictions were placed on the methods of spending the $110,000,000 given.

Opposition, led by Representative Byrns, Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the appropriations committee, to the lump sum, resulted in having the money definitely allotted, with provisions inserted requiring a report to the next Congress of the expenditures.

Federal highway aid received $80,000,000; river and barbor work, $22,500,000; flood control on the Mississippi, $3,000,000; roads in national forests, $3,000,000, and roads in national parks, $1,500,000.

All the funds are to be spent before September 1, 1931, under the revised bill.

Chairman Wood said on the floor the appropriations committee decided the items in the $40,000,000 deleted were so involved that, to expedite im-

A lot of cash came in to The Post's Christmas cheer fund for needy children yesterday and in addition there came a poem from one of the contributors which just about describes all those who have given and all who will give before the fund closes on December 21.

That little poem, entitled "Love for Children," and written by "A Friend," is as follows:

"If you love children, let me say
I'll set you down, at once, okay.
You may have faults from A to Z,
But they don't count so much with me.
You may be sporty, rough and wild,
But there's still hope; you love a child.
Though you're a tramp, and idly roam,
Some day a child will bring you home.
If children's love you really crave,
There's something left in you to save.
So that is why I always say
If you love children, you're okay."

That is the spirit of The Post's Toy Fund. It was inspired by the belief that Washingtonians love children and do not want to see any of them sad on an occasion as joyous for most of us as Christmas. This year, however, the prospects for many children was for a cheerless holiday. They

Queen of Merchant Fleet Christened by First Lady

Newport News, Va., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The steamship President Hoover was launched here today with ceremonies befitting the new queen of the American Merchant Marine.

A bottle of water collected from the seven seas and two canals, in the hands of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, christened the vessel as she gracefully glided down the ways into the James River.

The ship was said by R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Line, the vessel's owners, to be his answer to "rumors of business depression."

In an address at the launching luncheon Representative W. H. White, coauthor of the Jones-White shipping bill, asserted that American prosperity depends upon the disposal of surplus products, and the disposal of surplus products depends upon a great merchant marine. He said that he believed in "val parity with Great Britain and appealed for naval power commensurate with "America's needs, ideals and aspirations."

Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. R. Stanley Dollar filled the flagon with the waters collected by the Dollar Line's ships from the globe's great seas and a great din arose from the throats of the multitude when she crashed it against the towering prow of the ship that next summer will go into the Pacific trade between the United States and the Orient.

She said while it was not the first time she had christened a ship, to-

Doak, Sworn as Secretary, Approves 5-Day Week Here

Discloses His Labor Views and Declares All Industrial Disputes Are Susceptible of Peaceable Settlement; Green Lauds Walsh Measure.

William N. Doak, President Hoover's new Secretary of Labor, is for peaceful settlement of labor disputes and believes in the five-day week.

This much was learned soon after the successor to James J. Davis, now senator from Pennsylvania, took the oath of office yesterday. Mr. Doak was to have assumed his new duties December 1 but the Cabinet change was delayed pending the consummation of Mr. Davis' resignation.

"In my opinion," said Secretary Doak, "there never was nor will there at any future time be any labor dispute that could not or can not be settled through negotiation without resort to conflict; that is, if the parties at interest will reason together and approach their problems in the proper spirit. This conviction is based on more than 20 years experience as a representative of employes, without having actually to engage in labor warfare."

Emphasizing that he is authorized to act as mediator and name conciliators in labor clashes, Mr. Doak said he would embrace the first opportunity to assist in settlement of the Danville, Va., strike of textile workers.

That Secretary Doak, Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, are at one on the advocacy of a five-day working week also was evidenced yesterday.

The Secretary said, however, that his department can do nothing about it, adding that "the gentlemen on the hill look after fixing the hours of labor here."

Mr. Green had warm praise for Senator Walsh's bill, introduced yes-was planning to object to immediate consideration.

Reed was the only one to raise his voice in defense of the President's action and his attitude was that while he could hardly understand what prompted the President to do such a thing, the President's heart was nevertheless in the right place.

Harrison had described the statement as "unwarranted, uncalled for and without justification." He pointed out that the $60,000,000 relief bill had been passed unanimously and bore the authorship of Senator McNary, assistant Republican leader.

Sees Humanity Sacrificed.

The President in his statement had said that some members were pressing schemes "to show that they are more generous than the administration, or that they are more generous than even the leaders of their own parties. They are playing politics at the expense of human misery."

Recalling that President Hoover's work in Belgium and in the Mississippi flood regions had been made the basis of a large part of his campaign for the Presidency, Harrison declared: "There is no man in this country who has won more political favor upon the basis of the misery of the people than the President of the United States."

Reed insisted that there was nothing partisan in the President's statement.

Finance Limit Seen.

"In fairness to him, that should be said," he asserted. And he also thought that in fairness to him it should be said "that no one has more interest in relieving this situation than he, but he is also charged with working within the limits of the Government's finances."

It might be said that all sides were dumbfounded by the President's attack and hard put for an explanation of it.

The legislative situation so far has been to the queen's taste. While the Senate drought relief bill ran $35,000,000 more than the President asked for, the building bill passed by the House called for an expenditure of only $110,000,000, or $40,000,000 less than the President had estimated.

Total All Bills.

In his statement he said measures had already been introduced in Congress which would run $4,500,000,000 above his estimates. The same trick was played upon him by his advisers in this respect, however, that was played upon him at the last session and about which Congress became right sore. Obviously, some one went to the Capitol and totaled up the cost of every pending bill, bills which have no chance whatsoever of passing, and the authors of which do not intend that they shall pass.

Neither is the Walsh proposal for a five-day week for Government employes likely to pass at this session, but the President probably considered he should make some reply to the proposal itself.

Inasmuch as Secretary of Agriculture Hyde came out yesterday morning with a lambast against the $35,000,000 food relief proposal in the drought relief bill, the President evidently felt stronger against this than it had been understood he felt, and this, probably as much as anything else, brought forth his statement.

Robinson Embarrassed

But right there is where Senator Robinson is placed in an embarrassing position.

There was the general understanding and published reports at the time, that the Sunday night before Congress convened, when Robinson went to the White House, the President agreed to the $60,000,000 drought relief sum, as an evidence of his cooperation with the Democrats. It was understood to be a part of the mutual cooperation program.

Now those who are against Robinson's course are saying: "You see what we get out of it?"

Attacks Hoover's Position.

Both Harrison and Walsh referred to the United States sending $100,000,000 to feed Russia, and Walsh saying the President's statement meant no increased taxes under any circumstances, said:

"I challenge the President to name any Democrat in public life who will say that he agrees with that policy. I want that man marked and I want the American people to know who he is if any there be who agree with the President on this issue.

"There would have been a revolution long before now, in some of the States and municipalities, if the governors and mayors had taken the position against any relief for the idle and starving, if such relief meant increased taxes."

Mr. Caraway said it was up to every man to determine who all the President embraced in his message, but if he meant "the representatives of these 4,500,000 sons of America who offered to die in order that American liberty might live, the societies representing the idle who are idle because favoritism has been extended to certain industries at the expense of the entire American people" or "the women who have come here and asked that food be given to the babies in order to keep them from starving * * * he will find no response in the American heart."

Mr. Harrison dug up the time Senator Borah attacked Mr. Hoover's "disregard for the American taxpayer" when he was administering Belgian relief, and Representative Will Wood's caustic statement long ago that Mr. Hoover was the "most expensive luxury ever fastened upon the country."

Senator McKellar recalled that this was when Mr. Wood thought Mr. Hoover was a Democrat.

At the close Mr. McKellar was trying to get the floor stuttering that the President "should use his brains ——," and giving notice that he would carry on today.

terday, which provides for a five-day week as well as appropriation of Government funds to relieve suffering, hunger and distress among the unemployed.

"It is most refreshing," reads a statement issued yesterday by Mr. Green," to know that there are members of the Congress of the United States who possess a deep sense of appreciation of the seriousness of the unemployment situation and who offer real remedies for the acute economic ills from which the Nation is suffering."

Relative to the Treasury-Postoffice supply bill, pending in the Senate, the labor leader protested against a clause prohibiting the use of funds for increasing salaries of employes in the two departments. A statement by Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee, defending the clause, was criticized by Mr. Green, who declared that approval of the clause by the House "is a repudiation of the understanding reached in the President's conference."

People who are running Post Classified Ads, this morning will get "Today's results Today."

President's Statement

The text of President Hoover's statement follows:

"I observe that measures have already been introduced in Congress and are having advocacy, which, if passed, would impose an increased expenditure beyond the sum which I have recommended for the present and the next fiscal year by a total of nearly $4,500,000,000, and mostly under the guise of giving relief of some kind or another. The gross sums which I have recommended to carry on the essential functions of the Government include the extreme sums which can be applied by the Federal Government in the actual unemployment relief and are the maximum which can be financed without increase in taxes."

"No matter how devised," Mr. Hoover went on to explain, "an increase in taxes in the end falls upon the workers and farmers or alternatively deprives industry of that much ability to give employment and defeats the very purpose of these schemes. For the Government to finance by bond issues deprives industry and agriculture of just that much capital for its own use and for employment. Prosperity can not be restored by raids upon the public treasury.

"The leaders of both parties," the President pointed out, "are cooperating to prevent any such event. Some of these schemes are ill considered. Some represent enthusiasts and some represent the desire of individuals to show that they are more generous than the administration or that they are more generous than even the leaders of their own parties. They are playing politics at the expense of human misery.

"Many of these measures are being promoted by organization and agencies outside of Congress and are being pushed upon members of Congress. Some of them are mistaken as to the result they will accomplish and they are all mistaken as to the ability of the Federal Government to undertake such burdens. Some of these outside agencies are also engaged in promoting political purposes. The American people will not be misled by such tactics."

KING TO GIVE LEWIS NOBEL PRIZE TODAY

American, Who Won Medical Award, Also to Have Part in Ceremony.

KELLOGG RITE AT OSLO

Stockholm, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Three American winners of Nobel prizes will receive their awards tomorrow.

Sinclair Lewis, noted American author and winner of the prize in literature, and Dr. Karl Landsteiner, of New York, winner of the medicine award, will receive their awards at Stockholm, while Frank B. Kellogg, former American Secretary of State and winner of the 1929 peace prize, will receive the award at Oslo.

The peace prize is awarded through the Norwegian Parliament. Dr. Nathan Soederblom, Archbishop of Upsala, Sweden, winner of the 1930 peace prize, will receive his award with Mr. Kellogg.

Gathering to Be Notable.

The red-haired American author of "Babbitt" and "Main Street" will receive from the hands of King Gustaf, of Sweden, the literature award at the Stockholm Concert House in the afternoon. In addition to the American novelist, the other winners will attend the ceremony. Members of the Swedish Academy, the Swedish Academy of Science, the Carolinian Medical Institute, the royal family, the diplomatic corps and high government officials will attend.

Mr. Lewis will be the last to receive the embossed diploma and the specially engraved check for $46,350. He will be introduced by Dr. Erik Axel Karlfeldt, permanent secretary of the Swedish Academy and one of Sweden's foremost poets.

There will be a welcoming address by Gov. Hjalmar Hammarskjold of Upsala, also a member of the Swedish Academy and President of the Nobel Foundation.

Physics Award First.

The physics prize will then be kata Raman, of Calcutta, India, after awarded to Sir Shandrasekhara Venan address by Prof Henning Pleijel, of the Stockholm University, chairman of the Nobel prize committee for physics of the Swedish Academy of Science.

Next, Prof. Hnas Fischer, of Munich, will receive the hcemistry prize, following a speech by Prof. Henrik Soderbaum, chairman of the prize committee for chemistry of the Academy of Science.

Dr. Landsteiner will then be presented with the medicine award, Prof. Gunnar Hedren, president of the Carolinian Institute and chairman of the prize committee for medicine, making an address.

All Bids for Remodeling Two Schools Rejected

All bids for the remodelling of the physiotherapy rooms in the Magruder and Weightman schools for crippled children were rejected yesterday by the District Commissioners and new proposals are to be asked.

The lowest bid was $10,800, while the estimated cost and amount available was only $9,750.

$110,000,000 RELIEF BILL WINS IN HOUSE

mediate relief, they were stricken from the bill.

The house measure carries no provision for loans for food farmers; it covers only feed for stock, seed and fertilizer. Representative Aswell, Louisiana, ranking Democrat on the House agriculture committee, plans to renew his efforts to have the group accept the Senate bill.

If he fails there he intends to take the fight to the House floor.

Chairman Snell, of the House rules committee, said the drought measure would be given legislative right of way if the House agriculture committee comes to an agreement before tomorrow.

Unsuccessful efforts were made by Representative Cable, Republican, Ohio, to amend the public works bill to prevent employment of any aliens who entered this country illegally on any of the projects.

Representative La Guardia sought to amend it to limit to seven hours a day the working hours for skilled and unskilled labor on the projects.

With the powerful Republican majority behind him, Wood succeeded in defeating the amendments only after he insisted the measure would be so handicapped by them that its purpose would be defeated.

The bill, among other things, provides that States which cannot match the Federal highway funds will be advanced allotments, which will be reimbursed within five years, beginning with 1933, from future allotments.

Another step to speed up public building construction was taken by the House judiciary committee in approving the Graham Bill to authorize the Government to take possession of lands pending adjudication of claims.

The bill was sponsored by the administration.

Oakland Gives Silver To Kingsford-Smith

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Among the costly presents for the wedding of Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith and Miss Mary Powell, which takes place here tomorrow, is a solid silver cutlery service in a beautiful cabinet of birdseye maple presented by residents of Oakland, Calif.

It wa sat Oakland that the famous aviator began his circumnavigation of the globe and transpacific flights, and ended the flight around the world after crossing the Atlantic.

Austria Archduke Dying After an Injury in Street

Vienna, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The former Archduke Leopold Salvatore was this afternoon conveyed to the Wiedner Hospital in what was believed to be a dying condition. He had received numerous bruises.

It was not known whether he had been knocked down by an automobile or had slipped and fallen. He was discovered lying in the Argentinier Strasse, near his palace, unconscious.

Hit-and-Run Motorist Blamed in Man's Death

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Hugo H. J. Netzner, 55, of 222 Eleventh street southwest, came to his death Saturday night by being knocked down by an unknown hit-and-run driver at Maryland avenue and Eleventh street southwest.

Metzner was picked up by a passing motorist, who saw the accident from a distance, and taken to Casualty Hospital, where he later died. Police of the Fourth Precinct are making an effort to locate the driver of the car. The license number was not obtained.

BRUENING VICTORIES SAFEGUARD CABINET

Chancellor, by Threat, Defeats an Attempt to Unseat Curtius.

SILENCES TREATY TALK

Berlin, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Chancellor Bruening won two important victories in the Reichstag today, shutting off debate on difficult international questions and silencing threats against the foreign minister, Julius Curtius. The ministry now looks safe until after Christmas, at least.

By a rising vote the Reichstag approved Bruening's appeals and agreed the nation's best interest would not be served by discussing the Polish situation, the Versailles treaty, the Young plan or other questions running through the minds of some of the Reichstagers.

It was by an aggressive and open threat the chancellor backed down attempts to unseat Curtius. Bruening flatly told the Reichstag that if such attempts were successful he would take over Curtius' portfolio himself.

The warning was effective and a no-confidence motion on Curtius was withheld. None of the opposition wants Bruening to take charge in what would be virtually a one-man government.

At present there is no formal minister of economics or for justice, these departments being headed by undersecretaries, and for all practical purposes Bruening is already minister of economics and minister of justice, as well as chancellor.

Bruening's victory was achieved only after passions had flared up in discussions preceding a vote on a motion, offered by the Fascists, Nationalists and Communists, to debate foreign policy.

Charges of deserting the Germans in Poland by shutting off debate, hurled by the Nationalist and Fascist members, were countered with charges from the government and social democratic benches that such talk was bound to harm the cause of the minorities in Poland.

With the Curtius flare-up definitely out of the way, and Christmas recess expected by the end of the week, Bruening can steer Germany's course unhampered by party maneuvering until February at least.

Meanwhile, Curtius can prepare without interruption a plea concerning the German minorities in Poland for consideration at the January session of the league council.

Hoover Renames Moore To Fine ArtsCommission

Dr. Charles Moore was yesterday reappointed by President Hoover as a member of the Fine Arts Commission. It is his sixth appointment for a four-year term. Dr. Moore has been chairman of the body since July, 1915, and it is expected that he will be reelected.

Dr. Moore, who lives at 1719 H street northwest, was one of the original members of the commission when it was organized on May 19, 1919. He is an author and has been active in the development of the Capital.

'Princess Alice' Converted Steel Corsets Into Cruisers

Mrs. Longworth Admits Story Told by Replogle in War Days Is Accurate; He Consulted Her on "Essential Industry."

Others may boast of beating swords into plowshares, but only Alice Roosevelt Longworth can lay claim to turning corsets into crusiers.

A story, first told to acquaintances by J. Leonard Replogle, director of steel supply of the War Industries Board during the World War, only yesterday was admitted as accurate by Mrs. Longworth to an inquisitive friend.

Ardent admirers of the "Princess Alice" quote it as an apt illustration of her sometimes challenged power in both the masculine world of governmental edicts, and the feminine world of fashionable dress.

Replogle narrated that during the World War corset manufacturers came to him with an appeal for steel. Investigating, he said, he learned they had been making $42,000,000 profit per annum, using 28,000 tons of steel, "enough to build two battleships."

"Was this essential industry?" he telephoned Alice Roosevelt. It was not, replied the "princess" of sylphlike figure. The corset men got no more steel.

Strikingly contemporaneous in fashion's annals was the arrival of the uncorseted figure, which flourished for a full decade, during which matron and maid alike discarded steel stays, bobbed their hair and made it a "flapper era."

Not knowing the steel story, the psychologists analyzed and found in the change a new freedom, feministic in import. If Alice Roosevelt Longworth was indeed the moving factor in the emancipation, she was as far removed as possible from the crusader type of leadership.

Only during the last two social seasons has the corset reentered the fashionable scene to a marked degree—and the new one is far less of the cruiser type.

9,784 Visits Made By Instructive Nurses

The Instructive Visiting Nurse Society made 9,794 visits to 2,979 patients during November, according to a report presented at a meeting of the board of managers of the society yesterday.

Mrs. George R. Lockwood, vice chairman of the nurses' committee, discussed the recent study of the health facilities of Washington made by the American Public Health Association. She said it showed that both public and private health agencies of the city are inadequate to meet demands.

Watch Reported Stolen From Dead Man's Body

Police yesterday received a report from J. P. Burgess, of 2906 Twentieth street northwest, that a gold watch, valued at $25, was taken from the body of his father, Samuel E. Burgess, who was killed in an automobile accident at Seventh and Rhode Island avenue northeast Sunday night.

Mr. Burgess also told police that a billfold containing a number of railroad passes, Masonic cards, and other personal papers, was missing when his property was checked yesterday.

KEECH WILL PRESS LIGHT RATE HEARING

Memo to Gen. Patrick to Asert Law Mandatory on Utility Board.

FEDERATION MAY ACT

Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, will submit another memorandum to the Public Utilities Commission today emphasizing his request for a public hearing on the consent decree if the proposed 1931 rates submitted by the Potomac Electric Power Co. are to be adopted in general.

It is Mr. Keech's intention to brush aside any doubt in the mind of Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, as to his reference to a public hearing because the latter had expressed some uncertainty on just what the people's counsel had asked when he appeared before the commission Monday.

Mr. Keech intends to show the commission by statute and court cases that it is mandatory upon the commission to call a public hearing on utility rates when a "reasonable" complaint has been filed. The law also provides, he contends, that a public hearing should be called if the commission has sufficient evidence to indicate the injustice of rates as provided under the consent decree.

Meanwhile a movement is under way to obtain the indorsement of the demand for a public hearing among members of the Federation of Citizens Associations. William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee, was told yesterday by Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the federation, that the new executive committee was not organized and that consequently the matter could not be considered before the special meeting of the organization Saturday night.

Robber Gets 50 Cents In Holdup at Grocery

A grocery store at Ninth and G streets southwest was the scene of a holdup about noon yesterday when a man entered the store and commanded Jacob Toxen, owner and manager, to stick up his hands, meanwhile flourishing a revolver.

Toxen told police he was cleaning up when the man entered. He obeyed the command to remain where he stood while the robber went beyond the counter and opened the cash register. He found only 50 cents, and with a muttered curse slammed the drawer shut and left the building, running down Tenth street. Police of the Fourth Precinct are investigating.

HENRY CLAY STATUE GIVEN TO VENEZUELA

United States Is Donor of Friendship Token; Bolivar Figure Received.

SHEFFIELD IS SPEAKER

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Representatives of the United States Government today formally presented to Venezuela a statue of Henry Clay, American statesman, as a token of friendship for the South American republic.

In the center of a wide plaza bordered by great trees, the statue, given in return for a statue of Gen. Simon Bolivar, hero of South American independence, was dedicated by James Rockwill Sheffield, former United States Ambassador to Meico. The Bolivar statue was unveiled in New York in 1921.

In his dedicatory address tributes were paid by Mr. Sheffield to President Perez, Minister of War Gomez and Gen. Bolivar.

Spirit Still Lives.

"Clay's unquenchable spirit still lives," he said, "in the policy of our Department of State toward our neighbors and friends in the republics of South America.

"In speaking to the people of Venezuela, I am trying to interpret to all the republics of South America the friendly attitude of my country and its faith in the complete triumph of free institutions and governments in the Western world.

"We aspire to no leaderships in your affairs. We only wish to help you in attaining the highest development of your national consciousness and sovereign rights."

American Delegation.

The inscription of the statue, written in Spanish, reads:

"Henry Clay, 1777-1852, apostle of fraternity between the countries of America and valiant defender of their independence. The United States of America presents to the United States of Venezuela this statue of its illustrious statesman, speaker of the House of Representatives, Senator and Secretary of State."

Dedication of the statue marked the summation of efforts begun in 1926 in the General Assembly of Kentucky, Clay's native State. The proposal was approved by Congress last year.

Included in the American delegation at the presentation were George T. Summerlin, American Minister to Venezuela; Representative Morris K. Thatcher, of Kentucky; Col. Blanton Winship, United States military attache; Capt. Lamar R. Leahy, naval attache; Robert Phillips, of the State Department.

$500 LOOT IS TAKEN IN SERIES OF THEFTS

Cash Register and Store Amond Articles Are Reported Pilfered.

TWO WATCHES STOLEN

Police yesterday received a number of robbery reports in which loot taken was estimated at more than $500. Among the articles reported stolen was a cash register, a stove, several pieces of jewelry highly valued and merchandise from grocery stores.

Roy Frisby, of 310 East Capitol street, told police that jewelry valued at more than $135 was taken when robbers entered by a window which had been left unlocked. Ninth Precinct police are investigating.

Jewelry was also reported stolen from Zorabel Galens, of Woodley Park Towers, at 2737 Devonshire place northwest, who told police that the value of the articles taken was $40. Entry was gained by jimmying a window.

A safe which contained $4 in bills was reported stolen from Joseph Iskow, proprietor of a market at 3305 Forty-fifth street northwest, who said that a quantity of tobacco and candy also was taken. The cash register was later recovered by Fourteenth Precinct police, who found it in an alley nearby. Fingerprints were obtained.

The Peoples' drug store, located at 604 Ninth street northwest, was entered Monday night when robbers removed a porton of the rear basement wall, according to a report made by Mackall B. Petzer, the manager. A number of articles, including razors, cigarette lighters, fountain pens, perfume, and toilet articles were taken, making a total loss of more than $75.

Pete Seoris, 1117 Vermont avenue northwest, reported yesterday that a watch valued at more than $70 was taken from his apartment at that address Monday night.

A watch valued at $50 was reported stolen from Miss Rose Weeks, of 631 Eleventh street northeast, Monday night.

Thieves took more than 15 gallons of gasoline and an electric drill from a garage at Seventh and T streets northeast, according to a report made yesterday by George Hyman. The value of the stolen property was said to be $40.

JUDGE DECLINES FREEDOM FOR SMITH COMPANY MEN

ficer of the bank to deliver ledger sheets of Mr. Pitts', the Smith Co.'s and Mr. Henry's accounts to Mr. Pitts through an employe.

Challenges Other Defendants.

"Did the receiver attempt to obtain from you any of these ledger pages," Mr. Raichle asked.

"I got several letters from the bank asking for the return of them," the witness replied. "They can have mine whenever they want them. Can your clients produce theirs or will they produce them?"

A short exchange between Mr. Raichle and the witness followed.

"Have you returned them as yet," the defense attorney then asked.

"No, sir," Mr. Henry replied, "but they can have them any time they want them. You can see them also. You remember, Mr. Raichle, speaking about some of the records. You wanted to get some of the records from that bank, and you offered me $10,000 for Pitts's deposit tickets, which I refused to fall for."

"I move to strike that out," cried Mr. Raichle.

"Well, you asked me for the records."

"That is all right ——."

"Wait a minute," said Justice Hitz. Mr. Raichle turned to him.

Raichle Denies Money Offer.

"Now, if your Honor please ——."

"I do not want any more voluntary contributions," Justice Hitz said to the witness.

Justice Hitz, on Mr. Raichle's motion, struck out the testimony of the witness. The attorney then requested and received permission to address the court.

"My own integrity has been impugned by this witness——" he began. Mr. Henry interrupted him.

"Well, that is the truth," said the witness. "You did offer me $10,000," Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, one of the prosecution counsel, admonished him to restrict himself to answers to questions.

"I am an officer of this court," Mr. Raichle continued. "If what this man says is true, it is a disbarable offense; it is a criminal offense, and it seems to me that I have some rights under the circumstances. It is untrue. He knows it is untrue."

Imprisonment Threatened.

"No, I don't know it is true," interrupted Mr. Henry. "I can tell you where it occurred."

Justice Hitz check him. "Now, if you don't stop this I will lock you up, Mr. Henry, for contempt of court," the Court said.

After hearing the witness, who is under indictment on the same charges as the three defendants, but who has been granted a separate trial, explain the difficult of his situation, Justice Hitz agreed with him. Then he asked Mr. Raichle to continue.

"I want to deny here and now the statement of this witness in that regard. I assure Your Honor that it is absolutely false. I put my hand on the Bible at any time and place and say that it is false. Never before has such a thing been said about me by anybody under any circumstances, and it is pretty hard as a stranger here in your midst to take it now without being more exercised than I am."

"I will strike it out," said Justice Hitz, "and I charge the jury to disregard this circumstance. This is a somewhat difficult situation both for the counsel and for the witness, and we can only take his testimony in answer to questions."

Mr. Raichle, who had been visibly moved by the occurrence, sat down. Mr. Lambert announced that the defense was through with the witness.

Tells of Records' Removal.

On redirect examination by Mr. Dodds, Mr. Henry was decidedly docile. He gave direct answers to all questions and, when he was dismissed from the stand, apologized to the court.

On direct examination, conducted by Mr. Dodds, the witness told of a day in the middle of April, 1929, when, during a conversation in Mr. Pitts' office, the latter told him that he had learned a search warrant was imminent that he thought the records should be removed. He said Mr. Pitts said to him, "I told John Edwards to move those records out of here and they should have been out long ago."

The records, he declared, were later moved at night and that, on the day following their removal, he and Mr. Pitts went out to the latter's farm in Montgomery County, Md., to look at them. There, he said, they saw "a big decrepit truck" containing the records under guard of Joe Howard, colored janitor. Finally, according to the witness, they were moved to the farm of James Rucker Porter, near Brooksville, Md., and later to Virginia, where, Mr. Henry said, he lost track of them.

In October or November, 1929, Mr. Henry testified, he saw Mr. Pitts taking pages from record books of the firm. The defendant wore gloves during the alleged operation and, according to Mr. Henry, said that he wore them to prevent leaving fingerprints on the records.

After the company's offices had been removed to New York, the witness said, Mr. Pitts came to him in his office in that city the night of DDecember 13, 1929, and told him the Maryland Trust Co. had failed, on that occasion, Mr. Henry testified, Mr. Pitts said to him:

"Joe, I want you to sign several blank sheets of paper. And I want you to go to Winnipeg, Canada, and stay there, and take your family there, and I'll pay your expenses."

Mr. Henry declared that he refused to sign the blank letters and that same night took a train for Washington "to see what I could do about this bank." He was then turned over to Mr. Raichle for cross-examination and the fireworks started.

The cross-examination was a constant round of bickering, the witness constantly interpolating remarks in his answers to questions. At one time, he declared himself to be "indignant and disgusted" with Mr. Pitts.

Upon being asked what he did as president of the Smith company, he replied:

Charges Theft by Pitts.

"Mr. Pitts was chairman of the board and he had such a hell of a conspiracy in that company with his subofficials that I couldn't horn in there with a spear."

"Did you try?" he was asked.

"I did."

In describing his efforts, through legal proceedings, to have himself reinstated as president of the company, he added, "Hhe (Mr. Pitts) stole $200,000 a day or two before he left that company over my objections as a director."

Mr. Henry was followed on the stand by a number of witnesses, who testified to private purchases made by Mr. Pitts. One of these, Spencer M. Phillips, a cashier of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York City, told of cabling 250,000 francs to Mr. Pitts' credit in Paris. For this, he said, his company received a check for $10,090.28 on the Southern Maryland Trust Co.

In case the defense is reading to go ahead this morning, the opening statement to the jury outlining the defendants' testimony will be made by Mr. Lambert.

HARRISON TO MAKE FIGHT ON BROSSARD

Notice Given Senate When Committee Indorses All on Tariff Body.

DENNIS CONTEST LIKELY

(Associated Press.)

Notice of a contest over confirmation of Edgar B. Brossard (Republican), Utah, as a member of the reorganized Tariff Commission was given in the Senate yesterday, after the finance committee had approved all six commission nominees. Chairman Smoot reported the nominations to the Senate. Immediately Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, a Democratic member of the finance committee, announced that Brossard would be opposed.

Brossard was approved in committee by 11 to 8. One Democrat, King, of Utah, voted with ten Republicans for a favorable report, and one Republican, La Follette, of Wisconsin, joined seven Democrats in opposition.

Harrison Opposed Dennis.

The only other record vote was on Alfred P. Dennis (Democrat), Maryland. His nomination was approved, 16 to 2, with Senator Cousens (Republican), Michigan, and Harrison in opposition.

Henry P. Fletcher (Pennsylvania), chairman; John L. Coulter (North Dakota), Republicans, and Thomas W. Page (Virginia) and Lincoln Dixon (Indiana), Democrats, were approved without roll calls.

The fact that Senator Harrison also opposed Dennis in committee promised a possible contest on the Maryland, but the Democrats expect him to be confirmed. Harrison said he looked for a "very close vote" on Brossard, but Mr. Smoot expressed belief he would pull through.

Sugar underlies the opposition to Brossard. He worked on a sugar-cost report in 1923 with A. M. Fox and Frederick Turner, commission economists, which was used by former Commissioners Marvin and Burgess in reporting to President Coolidge that no reduction in the sugar duty was warranted.

Fox Heard in Secret.

Brossard was an economist, too, at that time, but later was made a commissioner by Coolidge. Fox was examined by the committee yesterday before the vote, but his testimony was given behind closed doors after the committee first had decided to hold an open session.

The fact that Brossard comes from Utah, a beet-sugar State, also had been raised by his opponents as tying him up too closely with Senator Smoot, but Mr. Smoot said he never met Brossard until he came to Washington. Brossard also says he sought no indorsement from Smoot or any one else for his post.

In addition to acting on the tariff nominees, the finance committee approved the nomination of Henry J. Anslinger, of Pennsylvania, as commissioner of narcotics, but deferred action on David Burnet, of Ohio, as Commissioner of Internal Revenue pending investigation of a complaint that he had shown favoritism in an income tax case before the Treasury.

J. Henry Burnham Sued; Spouse Charges Affinity

Alleging that her husband had left her and passed the evening in a parked automobile with another woman, Mrs. Julia Burnham, 53 years old, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her a limited divorce from J. Henry Burnham, described as an employe of the Bureau of Standards.

Mrs. Burnham, who resides on Nineteenth street near G street, told the court that recently her husband has been going out two or three times a week and returning only in the early hours of the morning. Last Saturday, the wife states, she told her husband she had learned of his alleged infidelity and was beaten so badly she was forced to place herself in the hands of physicians. The couple was married November 2, 1901. Attorney R. E. Wellford appears for the wife.

Egypt's Futures Cotton Market May Be Closed

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The government is reported planning to close temporarily the cotton futures market, owing to continued sharp decline in prices, but this is regarded by Cairo cotton traders as ineffective so long as the Liverpool market remains open.

A leading authority tonight attributed the decline to the fixing of prices on cotton sold on call last September, combined with a demand only half normal for certain kinds of staple. Apparently the government views the situation seriously, having instructed the financial undersecretary to analyze conditions at Alexandria.

Moving Stop Light Mystifies Judge

McMahon Defers Trial After Personally Viewing Traffic Sign.

A moving traffic signal yesterday caused Judge John P. McMahon in Traffic Court to postpone indefinitely trial of David G. Johanson, elderly Government worker, on a charge of passing a "stop" sign.

The judge, in continuing the case, advised the Traffic Bureau that when he viewed the sign Saturday it was in one place and that when he visited the scene Monday it was in another. The sign is supposed to be located on Fuller street near Sixteenth street northwest.

Johanson was arrested two weeks ago by Lieut. Milton D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau, on charges of speeding and passing a stop light. The speeding charge was dropped, after the motorist had complained that the police officer had manhandled him, while the judge continued decision on the other charge until he personally could view the scene. It is understood the Traffic Bureau is seeking to determine what makes the "stop" signs move.

REFERENDUM VETOED BY METHODIST BOARD

wines and beer to outright repeal of either the act or the amendment.

Meeting in a fashionable hotel, the national executive council of the Women's Moderation Union adopted a resolution that work be done to arouse the women to action in the coming presidential election. It also proposed to "call upon Congress to help relieve unemployment by passing legislation which will end prohibition and reduce taxes through the reestablishment of industries which the eighteenth amendment prohibited."

Fort Revives Referendum.

Whether the drys should support a referendum was raised again yesterday before the National Temperance Council, despite a unahimous vote Monday night against it. Representative Ford (Republican), New Jersey, was the sponsor.

Mr. Fort said his plan called for "the wet and dry advocates in Congress agreeing upon some amendment to the Constitution relative to prohibition," provided the amendment was placed before State constitutional conventions and not the various Legislatures.

"I favor having the conventions held at an early date and simultaneously," he said, adding that he already had talked to a ppromately 50 members of Congress, both wet and dry, about such a proposal. The New Jersey representative said he would be willing to "let the unofficial committee opposed to prohibition in the House pick their own poison" as to what the recommendation would be.

Loans to Grape Men Assailed.

Criticism of the Farm Board for lending "millions of dollars to the grape growers for the purpose of manufacturing their surplus stock into wine concentrate," was made before the Methodist Board by Detts Pickett, its research secretary.

"It is obvious that this is simply modification of the law by adminstrative action," Pickett said, "and we witness a house divided against itself. The Government holds a mortgage upon a business which may fairly be described as a trade in partially manufactured liquor and which it is hoped will become enormous in proportions and perhaps even become a monopoly by favor of the Government."

Earlier Dr. Wilson had criticized the transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department. He said: "We imagined that it would take two years to do this and get it on a working basis," adding that "this has proven to be the case and will be the situation for some time to come."

Dry Federation Urged.

Dr. Wilson concurred in an address made before the Temperance Council by Oliver Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, saying that "the church, as such, has no place in a contest for the election of a president." He said, however, the church would not remain silent before "weak or apologetic enforcement."

Stewart recommended the formation of an all-embracing federation of the dry forces to work in both political camps in the 1932 campaign and issued a challenge that the prohibitionists remedy their lack of "militant leadership."

"If the establishment of such a general organization of the prohibition forces," he said, "would diminish the strength and resources of societies already in the field, that fact would prove that they had passed the stage where they could adapt themselves to the new conditions which must be successfully met if our cause is to win. If change must take place, the quicker the better."

Duvall's Business Bequeathed to Son

Bulk of Realty Dealer's Property Will Found Trust Fund.

W. Clarence Duvall, local real estate broker, under the terms of his will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court, left his real estate business to his son, A. Malcolm Duvall. The testator died December 3.

The bulk of the estate, the amount of which is not disclosed, is left in trust, specifications being that fourtenths of the income is to be paid to the widow, Mrs. May G. Duvall, and the remaining six-tenths to the three children, A. Malcolm, Mildred and Ralph G. Duvall. A. Malcolm Duvall and the widow are named as trustees. Provision also is made that the trust is to continue during the widow's lifetime.

The elder Duvall canceled all indebtedness of his son, Ralph, gave his wife the lifetime use of the family home, and provides specific cash bequests of $2,500 to his widow and each of his children. Among other bequests is $1,000 to Clarence D. Brown, a namesake, and $800 to James F. Meline, an employe of the real estate firm of Duvall & Co.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

Agreement Held Near On Purchase of Land

A small strip of land which the District Commissioners have been seeking to buy for some time, to complete a site for an elementary school at Thirty-seventh and Tilden streets northwest, is epected to be acquired shortly for $2,082, Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, announced yesterday.

The tract, only 4,000 square feet, is owned by the Home for Incurables. The major portion of the school site had been acquired from Admiral Cary T. Grayson and the Sterrett family.

NEW WAR STARTED ON SLOT MACHINES

Prince Georges Orders the Sheriff to Seize All Such Devices.

KEEPING TABS ON LAWS

An ntensive drive on slot machine gambling in Prince Georges County was started yesterday by the board of commissioners when they authorized the sheriff to confiscate all machines and to bring the proprietors before justices of the peace.

These are the first specific instructions from the new board, which has a Democratic majority, to the new Republican sheriff, W. Curtis Hopkins. Slot machine gambling has been cleaned out in the county several times, and many seized machines are stored in the jail in Upper Marlboro.

A road board reported favorably to the commissioners on a projected road frm Jericho Park road to intersect with the Lemon bridge road at Arundel station. This will be considered when the commissioners draw up their road-building program in the near future. Members of the road board were Fabion Heilig, Ernest Clark, and Bernard Maenner.

Maj. A. M. Patch, commandant at Fort Washington, appeared before the board to ask construction of a payed road to connect the post with Livingston road. A representative of the citizens in that section were present to back up Maj. Patch's request.

Andrew Gasch was appointed constable in Bladensburg. Bond for $1,000 for J. Fendall Gray for constable was approved by the board. Much of the meeting was occupied with hearing assessments.

All three officers of the County Community Council were reelected yesterday at the meeting of the council in the parish hall in Upper Marlboro. Those who will serve through another year are: Dr. C. P. Close, president; Mrs. Joseph D. Blandford, vice president, and Miss Ethel M. Regan, secretary treasurer.

Lavinia Engle, delegate-elect to the House of Delegates from Montgomery County, spoke to the gathering on the subject of "Child Welfare." The biggest problem of those who attempt to improve the lot of the poorer children is that their families are migratory workers, which fact keeps the children out of school. Workers are trying to make sure that all children have at least an elementary education.

Another problem is the schooling of the mentally retarded child. It has been discovered this can be done most economically by sending a teacher to the home for two or three hours a week. The teacher can care for about twenty children, as many as could be accommodated in a class room. An appropriation of $10,000 has been made by the State for this work.

Dr. F. B. Bomberger, of the Federal Farm Board, told how the Federal Government is aiding the farmer. Present agricultural conditions are not local or transient, Dr. Bomberger said, and the United States is in a more fortunate position than many European countries.

A report on the proposal to consolidate the almshouses on the western shore was given by Mrs. J. Enos Ray. No definite plans for the consolidation have been made, she said. The council also heard an address by P. E. Clark, who said the drought had cost the county $2,000,000.

A committee to study the need for an additional judge in the county circuit court was authorized by the Bar Association of Prince Georges County at a meeting in Upper Marlboro. Legal work has increased so greatly in the county that Judge Joseph C. Mattingly is hard put to it to handle the court matters, it is said. The committee will be appointed by Judge T. Van Clagett, president of the association.

A committee also was authorized to take up with the delegation to the legislature the bills concerning the county. Arthur C. Keefer, Ogle Marbury and Frank Parran were constituted a committee to revise the by-laws of the organization.

The meeting also discussed the bill which will make the office of chief of police separate from that of sheriff. It seemed to be the opinion that all police powers could not be taken from the sheriff's office. The association will meet again January 13 at the courthouse.

Although it was expected fourteen civil cases would be heard before the circuit court when the jury returns today, the number has been reduced to two. Judge Mattingly will use a short panel and not all the jurors serving at the first term of court will be recalled. It is thought likely court business will be finished for the year today or tomorrow.

Several of the cases were continued because of nonresident witnesses who could not be found.

The regular meeting of the Municipal Officers Association of the county will be held tomorrow night in the town hall in Hyattsville.

County police had no further sight of the man, thought to be demented, who entered a barbecue stand near District Heights, Monday night, and fled when the proprietor attempted to hold him.

Walter V. Gray, proprietor of the stand, said the man, tall, raw-boned, about 45 years old, came into his place at dark. The intruder talked wildly and fled down the road toward Forestville, when Gray came from behind his counter. Gray and police took up the chase, but lost the trail.

ELECTED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Tear Bomb Traps Militia in Maryland

67 Guardsmen Rescued From Gas-Filled Armory Basement.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Dec. 9.—Sixty-five men and two officers of Company A, First Regiment, Maryland National Guard, trapped in the rifle pit in the basement of the State Armory by the accidental discharge of a tear bomb late last night, were rescued from windows by firemen with ladders.

The men were practicing on the indoor rifle range when the bomb went off. In an instant the basement was filled with fumes and on account of screens at the windows and the rear exit door being locked the guardsmen were unable to escape.

Two men made their way up to the steps and summoned firemen, who, wearing gas masks, broke the window screens and rescued the men. The men soon revived in the open. Believing it to contain only smoke a guardsman had set off the bomb.

ANNAPOLIS OFFERED BEALE PLOT AS GIFT

Capitalist's Proviso Leads Authorities to Delay Acceptance.

INTENDS IT FOR PARK

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Dec. 9.—A deed, embracing 36.6 acres, with a frontage of 2,700 feet on Spa Creek, recently was offered this city by Truxtun Beale, capitalist, through Charles F. Lee, real estate agent.

The deed proferred the property without cost, under a provision that, to gain and hold it, the city must establish a public playground and park and always maintain such area for the public benefit.

The city did not accept the deed, pending further investigation by a committee consisting of Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, Counselor George B. Woelfel, the public property committee and Thomas G. Basil, chairman of the street committee.

The city clerk, Mrs. Katherine Linthicum, was authorized to thank Mr. Beale for his kind offer and public spiritedness. The property can be reached through Silopanna and by the ferry on Spa road.

As the property is not within the city limits, doubt is expressed in the council whether the offer can be accepted. Annapolis some day may be in need of a public playground, but it was termed questionable whether the city could maintain such plot within Anne Arundel County.

Loudoun Boy Scout Fund Drive Begun

County Is to Raise $800 to Complete $1,200 for Work.

Leesburg, Va., Dec. 9.—At a meeting in Leesburg last week of a committee from Loudoun Council, Boy Scouts, composed of A. S. White, Arthur Richard, Dr. H. C. Littlejohn, E. L. McFarland, and William Langhorne Leitch, scout executive of the northern Virginia area, plans were made for a campaign beginning yesterday to solicit funds for Boy Scout work in Loudoun County. Some $400 has been raised and the full amount of $1,200 needed for the work in the county during the next year, will be solicited during the next ten days, the drive ending December 17.

Leaders are confident that the amount will be raised, as they have always found a ready response to the call for money to carry on the boys' work.

J. A. Sherman, scoutmaster of Purcellville Troop, has been appointed field executive of Loudoun County. In this work he will contact frequently the various troops in the county, and will aid in the formation of new troops.

Doctor, 90, Avoids Own Cures.

Mannington, W. Va., Dec. 9 (Special).—In an after-dinner speech at the celebration of his ninetieth birthday, Dr. T. M. Calvert declared that he ascribed his long life to the fact that he had never taken any of his own medicine.

TAX METHOD MAKES ALEXANDRIA RESTIVE

Town Talking of Going Back to Old Form of the Government.

DRIVE TO AID THE NEEDY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A move is under consideration by a group of Alexandria citizens, it is understood, to seek a change from the present council-manager form of city government to the old form of mayor-and-council administration. Rumors that petitions were being circulated, however, were found incorrect.

The reason for the proposed move at this time is said to be the general dissatisfaction with the new method of assessing property and imposing taxe. The old method of a low valuation and low tax rate hs been done away with, and the real property is now assessed at its market value, with a low tax rate, which yields the city a revenue slightly in excess of the method.

It is reported, however, the new system will reduce the taxes of corporations some $38,000, which burden will be borne by the property owners, since it is necessary that the revenue of the city be increased rather than reduced, to meet current expenses.

Corporations Balk.

It is understood the corporations will not submit to the assessment of an additional tax to make up the proportion between the amount they will pay and that phid by owners of private property.

Before a change in the form of government may be had, it will be necessary to present to the judge of the circuit court a petition signed by 20 per cent of the qualified voters, as disclosed in the last election. The circuit judge will then call for a special eleetion, and in the event of the change being voted on favorably the city officials would be those provided for in the charter, or four members of the common council and two members of the board of aldermen from each of the city wards and a mayor.

When the form of city government was changed in 1922 there were only four voting wards. Since annexation of additional territory, however, the number of wards has been increased to six.

As Things Now Are.

There are five members of the city council, elected without regard to ward lines, and these five choose one of their number to act as chairman of the council, or mayor. The council at present consists of Carroll Pierce, mayor; Edmund F. Ticer, vice mayor; Thomas J. Fannon, Clyde C. Lamond and Arthur Herbert. Pierce was elected by the council to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William Albert Smoot, and has two years more to serve, as have Councilmen Ticer and Fannon. Lamond and Herbert took their seats September 1, and have four years to serve.

The change from the old form of government to the city manager form was adopted by an overwhelming vote. It is said, however, the voters in the newly annexed territory favor a return to the old form, since this would give direct representation to that section.

A committee of the Alexandria United Charities, of which former Mayor William Albert Smoot is chairman, waited yesterday on the Alexandria Ministerial Association for the purpose of getting cooperation of that body in raising funds for the work of the charity organization. The Ministerial Association appointed a committee, composed of Mr. Smoot, the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, presiding elder of the Alexandria district of the M. E. Church South; Michael T. Dwyer, Elliott F. Hoffman and Dr. James J. Garvey, to cooperate with the United Charities in an appeal to the public for funds.

The United Charities, according to Mr. Smoot, is aware considerable money will be needed this winter to relieve the present situation, and families that never have sought aid may find it necessary to do so. It is his belief, therefore, that much more money will be required than ever before.

The executive committee of the United Charities is making plans to meet the situation so that no deserving poor in the city will suffer. This committee has the hearty cooperation of ward workers, composed of men and women, who give their time throughout the winter in looking after those in distress. There are no paid workers associated with the organization. Every dollar contributed is devoted to the relief work.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, has announced that a plant to engage in the manufacture of pajamas is expected soon to locate in Alexandria, provided suitable location can be found. Mr. Hollenga has interviewed the owner of a property and if the rent is not too high, he expects the plant to come here.

The Chamber of Commerce Monday night unanimously indorsed the report of the public relations committee and its findings after an investigation of the affairs of the Alexandria Water Co., which seeks to increase the rates for water consumption approximately 33 1-3 per cent, effective February 1. The chamber will cooperate with the city council in opposing the proposed increase.

The report of the committee indicates the average rate charged families by the Alexandria Water Co. is $21.50 a year, against an average of $14.75 for 66 American cities, or 45.5 per cent more. The gross revenue of the company in 1929 was shown to be $143,968 from 6,228 services, and based on these figures the average revenue from each would be $23.11, slightly more than the committee estimated.

The committee report also would foster a municipally-owned water plant, and the obtaining of cost figures for obtaining a supply of water from the District of Columbia, the pipes now being in Arlington County, at the door of the city.

W. L. Leitch, scout executive of northern Virginia, a member of the Alexandria Rotary Club, was the principal speaker at a luncheon of the club yesterday in the George Mason Hotel, presided over by Fred C. Goodnow.

Mr. Leitch told the club members that a year ago last May there were only 100 Boy Scouts in Alexandria, while now there are 248. The city, he said, has ten troops, one of them composed of colored boys; 800 Scouts are active in northern Virginia and more than 200 men are affiliated in this work.

Dr. H. A. Latane, a member of the club, was elected to the board of directors of the Children's Home and Day Nursery, which is a Rotary Club project. Dr. Latane succeeds John T. Worthington, resigned.

James Sharpe, chairman of the international relationship committee of Rotary, who is a member of the Washington Club, talked on the work of his committee. The club singing was led by Everett Swan, with Mrs. Anne Meeks at the piano.

Isaac Field has sold to Herbert Little and Ruby Black a house and lot on the north side of Prince street, between Fairfax and Lee streets. Miss Mary Kelly has sold to Raymond A. Bentley and wife a house and lot on the west side of Patrick street, between Wythe and Madison streets.

Funeral services for John E. Merchant, who died Monday, will be conducted at the residence, 700 South Washington street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Interment will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be James A. Hulfish, M. E. Parker, J. William May, C. C. Batcheller, James L. Foster and Alexander Bowie, the last-named of Washington.

RIOT GUNS MAINTAIN ORDER IN DANVILLE

Union Committees Protest Use of Police and of Militia.

TEN MORE UNDER ARREST

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 9.—Complete quiet, in sharp contrast with previous scenes of disorders, marked the resumption of operations today by the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills. Picket groups were down to normal size and there were no massed crowds to be dispersed with tear gas. Police with riot guns guarded the entrances when the gates opened and were on hand again this evening, while troops continued their patrol of Schoolfield, where they have been on duty two weeks.

One union committee called on Col. H. L. Opie, in charge of the troops, and protested against the use of soldiery to escort non-union workers to the mills and the dispersal of crowds on private property. Col. Opie told them that he intended to protect nonunion workers. The discussion was warm at times. The colonel denied that he had made a derogatory remark about Francis J. Gorman, strike leader and vice president of the United Textile Workers.

Policeman Is Accused.

Gorman with another committee called on Police Chief Martin and protested against the use of tear gas, the use of recruit policemen and in particular the alleged harsh action of W. D. Stamey, city police officer, who is alleged to have struck two women yesterday. Chief Martin promised to investigate, but he was unyielding in informing Gorman that he intended to preserve law and order and to disperse assemblies which refuse to scatter on command.

Gorman left Danville this evening for what a union spokesman said would be an absence of perhaps three weeks. He is going to see leaders of the railway brotherhood in Washington tomorrow to ask if they can help the Danville strikers and later he is to appear before labor groups in the North.

Ten men were arrested last midnight charged with feloniously assaulting Clarence C. McKellar, nonunion worker. All were lodged in jail except W. L. Fitzgerald, for whom a $2,500 bond was given by the union. McKellar made a deposition at the hospital today in which he said he was asked if he was going to work in the mills and when he replied that he was, he was attacked with sticks and blackjacks, his young daughter with him being hit thrice. They were waylaid, he testified, by a group of thirty men, teh of whom he knew and identified.

Woman Hit in Mouth.

Another strike victim in the hospital is Mrs. Grace Burcher, hit in the mouth by a rock hurled, it is said, by Mrs. Bertha Smith, a neighbor, who is under a bond of $300.

Twenty-five of the 45 persons arrested yesterday, have been given bond for appearance on Thursday charged with riotous assembly. Forty-seven striking families are preparing for the possibility of eviction on Saturday though it is believed that the mill management will not undertake to dispossess any families whose notices expire on Christmas Eve, and Christmas Day.

Atlanta Resident Dies On Visit to Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 9.—The body of Alfred Greenfield Wofford, 63, who died here yesterday, was sent today to Atlanta, Ga., his home, for burial. He had been visiting his son, L. G. Wofford, manager of the Lynchburg Gas Co., since last August.

Mr. Wofford is survived by his widow and a daughter of Atlanta and this son here. He was a general building contractor there.

Union Army Veteran Buried at Triadelphia

Triadelphia, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Funeral services were held today for Samuel Fleming, 87, who served in the Union Army in Company E Twelfth Regiment, Virginia Volunteer Infantry. Flemming's death leaves but one known survivor of the Union infantry division, commanded by Gen W. B. Curtis, of West Liberty. He is John Stamm, of Wheeling, the last of the original 110.

Mr. Fleming was wounded near Winchester in June, 1863, losing his right leg. He was given his honorable discharge in Baltimore April 1, 1864.

STONE IS CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY BOARD

Trust Company President Tells of Improvements Arlington Needs.

MONARCH CLUB ELECTS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Looking upon Arlington County as nearly on the threshold of one of its most progressive periods and anxious to have a part in formulating constructive plans which will aid in the uniform development of the county, Dr. Frank T. Stone, president of the Clarendon Trust Co., looms as one of the candidates for membership on the county board as a part of the new form of government effective January 1, 1932. The election will be held next November.

While not giving out any of his plans or policies, Dr. Stone yesterday declared that with the opening of the new Arlington Memorial Bridge and the completion of the approach leading to the Mount Vernon boulevard from the Highway Bridge, Arlington County will have approaches from the Nation's Capital which at this time can hardly be appreciated by its citizens. He said:

"As far back as 1916, when I first talked of plans for the establishment of a bank in Clarendon and at which time I could get no support, the question of adequate approaches to Virginia were uppermost in the minds of the citizens. Five years later the bank was organized, but to this day little or nothing has been done to improve the connections with the Nation's Capital until a few months ago when the Federal Government stepped in. It is making an excellent job and it is now up to Virginia to speed its highway program and see to it that we have an adequate approach from the Memorial Bridge through the county.

"What will mean perhaps more to Arlington County than even the improvements of the approaches from the Memorial and Highway bridges is the development of the George Washington Memorial Parkway from Mount Vernon to Great Falls, as provided in the Capper-Cramton bill passed at the last session of Congress. This project should have the united support of every citizen, not only in Arlington County but in the State. It will bring thousands of people into the State.

"While I am a great believer in bringing business into the county, the development of this parkway which is bound to mean the building of fine homes at no small cost will greatly increase the revenue of the county even more than the business that might come in, using land that will be needed for the parkway.

"With these major projects under way, the county board under the new form of government will have many problems facing it which must be solved to insure the proper development of the county."

Among these, Dr. Stone pointed out, is a constructive program looking to the installation of modern county-wide sewerage and a modern street lighting systems.

Dr. Stone stated that later he will have completed his plans and policies as a candidate for the county board which he will submit to the voters of the county for their consideration.

During November there were 387 deeds recorded in the county clerk's office, according to the monthly report given out yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $776.48.

Other items included in the report are: Wills and administrations, six, State tax, $15.60; chancery suits, sixteen, State tax, $24; actions at law, nineteen, State tax, $20; fines collected for violation of the prohibition law, $380, with costs totaling $235; fines in cases other than prohibition, $80.75, with costs amounting to $108.25.

Delinquent real estate taxes collected during the month for the State treasurer amounted to $126.90. The amount collected that goes into the county treasury totaled $1,204.59.

The newly elected officers of the Arlington County Monarch Club will be installed at its meeting to be held tomorrow at 12 o'clock in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse.

Those to be installed are: Albert H. Cohen, president; Dexter S. Hussey, first vice president; Dr. Ernest R. Hagan, second vice president; Joseph C. Anderson, secretary; Walter U. Varney, treasurer, and Dr. C. R. Royland, sergeant at arms.

The club will at this meeting take up the question of its support of the Boy Scout movement in Arlington County.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club with A. F. Thelander presiding.

Determined that Max Bregman shall comply with the ruling of Police Judge Harry R. Thomas concerning material which is now stored on his property on Wilson boulevard near the courthouse, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth announced yesterday that he proposes to bring the defendant into court again. Justice of the Peace Bryan Gordon, counsel for Bregman, stated yesterday that he has and will continue to do what he can to have his client comply with the court's ruling.

The Bethany Bible Class of the Central eMthodist Episcopal Church at Ballston will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Carence Simmons.

The Missionary Society of the Ballston Christian Church will meet at the church tomorrow night.

Advocating the installation of a modern street lighting system for Wilson boulevard, starting from a central point in Clarendon and continuing in the direction of Rosslyn, the Clarendon Citizens Association at its meeting last night appointed a special committee to take the matter up with the county authorities. The committee appointed by President E. L. Bennett comprises Dr. Frank T. Stone, chairman; Walter U. Varney and A. M. Dawson.

The association voted to take up at its January meeting the question of changing the meeting night. The secretary was instructed to so advise all members.

Following considerable discussion on the question of sponsoring educational features during the winter months with the view of creating more interest among the citizens in the activities of the association, the president appointed Mrs. Louis A. MacMahon, L. C. LeMemar and E. L. Bennett a special committee to make a study of the project and report at the next meeting.

Upon motion of J. W. Smecker, the secretary was instructed to write to the county board of supervisors and request that stop signs be erected at all intersections entered the Wilson boulevard.

Chesapeake Bank, Baltimore, Closed

State Commissioner Says an Effort Will Be Made to Aid Deposition.

Baltimore, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The State Bank Commissioner took charge today of the Chesapeake Bank of Baltimore. A typewritten notice on the door announced "This institution is in the hands of the State bank commissioner." Two branches in other parts of the city also closed.

The bank, established 19 years ago, and capitalized at $50,000, was not a member of the Federal Reserve system or of the Baltimore Clearing House. In its most recent statement, September 2, it showed deposits subject to demand of $1,833,089.

George W. Page, bank commissioner, said he had been asked by a vote of the board of directors to take over the institution. "There has been something of a run and the bank was unable to pay" he volunteered.

"It is not possible at this time to say anything about what the assets or liabilities are, but we hope to take immediate steps for the relief of the depositors."

Waldo Newcommer, president of the Baltimore Clearing House, expressed regret and said "The clearing house will do what it can in the situation."

DRY RAIDERS FIND 300-GALLON STILL

FOUND IN DENSE WOODS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Federal prohibition authorities have evidently decided that Maryland is not the only source of intoxicating beverages in the vicinity of the Nation's Capital, since Prohibition Agents Robert D. Ford, William Banford and John Mellon made one of the Federal Government's infrequent liquor raids in Fairfax County yesterday and captured a 300-gallon still and 20 gallons of alleged liquor.

The still was running full blast when the operators were surprised by the agents, it was reported. Lloyd Reed and Emery Mills were captured after a short chase. The still was located in a dense woods on the Ox road, between Fairfax Station and Lorton, near Frank Reed's store. The still and liquor were seized and the other paraphernalia, including several hundred gallons of mash, were destroyed. The two alleged operators were held for the action of the grand jury at the next term of court.

The schools in Fairfax County have established an honor roll system. To be placed on this roll, the student must make an average of 90 per cent in all subjects and not be absent or tardy during the month.

day's event thrilled her even more than the occasion when she first acted as sponsor.

To her went the priority of being the first President's wife to sponsor a ship named for her husband. On the launching stand with the First Lady of the Land were Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., and the blond, blue-eyed Herbert Hoover 3d, who missed nothing in the whole ceremony as he hung over the rail of the launching stand, high above thousands whose attention he attracted.

Others in the party included R. Stanley Dollar and Mrs. Dollar, Gov. John Garland Pollard and Miss Suzanne Pollard, Virginia's official hostess; members of the governor's staff and Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., who paid tribute in an address to Capt. Robert Dollar, founder of the Dollar Line.

MILITARY HONORS TO BE PAID FOLLIN

Funeral Services to Be Held Tomorrow for Colonel; Was Civil War Veteran.

ACTIVE CHURCH WORKER

Funeral services for Col. John M. Follin, 86 years old, who died Monday at his home, 3535 Thirteenth street northwest, will be held tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock from his late residence. Interment, with full military honors, will be held in Arlington National Cemetery.

Col. Follin was a native of Warrenton, Va., and came to Washington 65 years ago, at the close of the Civil War. He was a member of the famous Black Horse Troop of the Fourth Virginia Cavalry during the War Between the States, and took part in many of the major engagements. At the time of his death he was adjutant of Camp No. 171, United Confederate Veterans of the District of Columbia, and for a number of years served as assistant paymaster, with the rank of colonel, on the staff of the chief of staff of the United Confederate Veterans.

Among his other activities he had long been prominent in church work. He was a member of the board of stewards, and secretary of the board of trustees of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church. He had the distinction of being the oldest member of the church, joining in 1865.

He was a member of the District Association of Oldest Inhabitants, and at one time conducted a wholesale confectionery business here.

Col. Follin is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Lewis R. Steely, Mrs. George K. Baier, Mrs. B. R. Hughes and Miss Katherine Follin, of this city; two sons, E. Dorsey Follin, of Boston, and James W. Follin, of Philadelphia. He also leaves a brother, Charles R. Follin, and a sister, Mrs. Emma F. Gibson, both of Washington.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral will be W. W. Millan, Clarendon Smith, J. Everett Baird, T. V. Houston, C. M. Stoy, Judge E. K. Campbell, C. E. Ebaugh and Dr. C. P. Clark.

Col. Brown Named New Guard Head

Infantry Officer Takes Over Third Corps Area Affairs.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Dec. 9.—Col. Fred R. Brown, until recently commander of the Thirtieth Infantry, Third Division, at the Presidio of San Francisco, is the new officer in charge of National guard affairs in the Third Corps Area of the Army. He succeeds Col. Isaac C. Jenks, who is taking leave of absence prior to retirement at the age of 64 years.

Col. Brown has just returned to Baltimore after a one-month refresher course at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. He will have charge of National Guard activities in the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland.

Col. Brown was graduated from West Point in 1899 and four months later he was recommended for brevet by Maj. Gen. Lawton for gallantry in action at Guadeloupe Ridge near Las Pinas, Philippine Islands. He was later appointed provost marshal of Tarlac, Luzon. He later saw action in China as a member of the China relief expedition. For his work in the World War he has a Distinguished Service Medal.

NO TREASURY LOOT.

While the President was denouncing raids upon the Treasury and attempts to play politics at the expense of human misery, the Senate yesterday passed without a roll call the bill to appropriate $60,000,000 for drought relief. This is $35,000,000 more than was asked for by President Hoover. The excess is intended to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to lend money to farmers with which to buy food.

In devising plans for drought relief the administration found that the Red Cross was prepared to deal with cases involving human suffering, and it was decided that the Government's contribution should be confined to an appropriation that would enable farmers to buy seed, fertilizer, and live stock feed. Now the Senate shoulders aside the Red Cross and proposes that the Secretary of Agriculture shall be the administrator of the new American dole. No more deadly blow could have been struck at the Red Cross. If the Senate bill should become law the Red Cross may as well go out of business, so far as dealing with natural calamities in this country is concerned. Congress will have put sufferers upon the Treasury dole.

The House yesterday passed the emergency bill appropriating $110,000,000 for expediting work on rivers and harbors, flood control, Federal-aid highways, and roads and trails in national parks and forests. Allotments are made for each of these purposes, but it is provided that the funds can be shifted from one branch of the work to another upon order of the President. An additional $40,000,000 will probably be appropriated in deficiency bills.

If the House will now cut out of the drought relief bill the scheme to substitute the Secretary of Agriculture for the Red Cross, the relief legislation will be in good shape, notwithstanding the reckless attempts of politicians to make personal and partisan capital out of the unemployment and drought situation.

The country has taken notice of the speech of Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, advocating indefinite but immense expenditures by the Government for relief purposes, and urging the imposition of higher taxes upon rich individuals to defray the expense. Senator Walsh spoke as a Democrat who feels that his party has been placed in control of Congress with directions to enforce a new policy. He repudiates the suggestion of cooperation with an administration which, in his opinion, has miserably failed to rise to the necessities of the country, including the necessity for increased taxation.

How does Senator Walsh know that the country has given this mandate to the Democratic party? Why is he made acquainted with the country's purpose, when other Democrats are left in the dark? Several leaders of his party construe the country's mandate to be that Democrats should drop partisanship and wrangling with the party in power long enough to cooperate for the relief of public distress. Of course, if there is to be a Republican scheme of relief, and a Democratic scheme of relief, and an insurgent scheme of relief, and a Farmer-Labor scheme of relief, all the unemployed and drought sufferers will perish before Congress can compose its differences.

Some politicians in Congress are intent upon the enactment of legislation which might be suitably entitled "An act for the benefit of politicians, under the guise of unemployment relief." It is a shameful exhibition of selfishness and betrayal of the public interest. Fortunately the people recognize in the President their spokesman and servant. They know that his sense of responsibility commands him to forget partisanship in administering a public trust involving the expenditure of the public money. If Congress should run amuck and attempt to raid the Treasury in the name of unemployment relief the people would applaud an executive veto that would expose the fraud. But the raiders can not reach the veto stage. The House of Representatives, holder of the purse, is controlled by Republicans who will stand between the raiders and the Treasury.

PARTISAN OBSTRUCTION.

President Hoover studied the qualifications of many candidates before he selected six men to compose the new Tariff Commission. Some of the men he asked to serve declined because of the indignities to which nominees for positions of this kind are subjected when their names go before the Senate for confirmation. Nevertheless, the President was able to secure for these posts three Republicans and three Democrats whose competence is well recognized.

Records and qualifications of these commissioners have been scrutinized a second time by the Senate finance committee. Each of them, except Lincoln Dixon, who is in a hospital, was called before the committee and questioned at length. Every trivial objection was aired, and at the conclusion of the hearings the finance committee voted to report all the nominations favorably to the Senate.

That ought to be sufficient to bring about their confirmation; but it is well known that a handful of Democrats will oppose at least two members on the floor of the Senate. Nothing can be gained by carrying the fight further, except political vengeance. Some senators who are dissatisfied with the tariff act seem to be ready to take this method of striking against the party which is responsible for the act and the President who signed it. They have failed to establish any valid objection to any member of the commission. They have nothing left to stand upon except partisanship. Their purpose is merely to embarrass the President and to intimidate members of the commission who do not hold their views. The more responsible element in the Senate will no doubt be prepared to repulse this partisan attack.

FOR SEA INDEPENDENCE.

In an address delivered before the National Rivers and Harbors Congress yesterday, Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the United States Shipping Board, called attention to the fact that today 75 per cent of the number of American ships of 1,000 gross tons or over belong, not to the Government, but to private American interests. In the brief span of twelve years that has elapsed since the war, the Shipping Board has disposed of America's huge, hastily-built wartime fleet until, to all practical intents and purposes, the Government now is out of the shipping business.

It is vitally necessary that this fleet shall prosper. Prior to the war, America seemingly was content to use foreign flag vessels for the shipment of its goods abroad. This dependence upon other nations was dangerous, as was proved by the disruption of American trade following the declaration of hostilities by foreign powers. America must be self-sufficient with respect to the shipment of its goods to the consuming nations of the world. The Nation requires a strong and efficient merchant marine to serve as a naval reserve. The Government has more than done its part toward the creation of the merchant marine. It now remains for the public to support the new services, to the end that they may attain prosperity. Chairman O'Connor said:

> Bear in mind that our taxpayers have freely spent large sums in reestablishing American flag services to the great foreign markets, and that liner facilities are now available for the convenient, safe and dependable dispatch of cargo and passengers to the principal ports of the world. These services are rapidly being strengthened and improved. Like all other privately owned transportation systems, their continued operation—their very life and existence—will in the last analysis depend wholly on the amount of patronage they receive from the American business man and from the traveling public generally. Friends of the merchant marine should cooperate in the efforts which the Shipping Board is now putting forth to see that this patronage is freely accorded.

Chairman O'Connor's words deserve national attention. One of the most important duties confronting the American people is the encouragement of the merchant marine. The United States will not be fully independent until it is independent upon the sea.

OLD LAWS WIPED OUT.

The impossible has happened on Capitol Hill. The old machine which has ground out thousands of laws in the last century and a half has been put into reverse. Instead of turning out new legal mandates for the people to violate, it has repealed a few threadbare measures. Of course, this reversal of the process was not sufficiently extensive to draw public attention, and no one, not even the lawyers or the statisticians, will notice the diminution of dead legal timber. Nevertheless, it is significant that Congress was in the "repeal" mood for a few minutes.

The bill in question was passed by the House at the last session. The Senate acted on it just before the close of business last week. It repeals 60 obsolete laws and portions of laws. A little of everything seems to have been included. One section pertaining to the payment of officers for lost horses seems to have been forever erased from the statue books. Another regarding the rank and pay of officers in the Civil War has safely passed into oblivion. Ancient provisions as to terms of office for notaries public in Alaska, and details as to how department reports should be furnished to printers, have perished.

What does this bill mean? Does Congress intend to repeal statutes that have been out of use for half a century? The thought is too optimistic. This little wad of obsolete laws that has been thrown in the wastebasket is, when compared with that great towering heap of useless statutes, too small to arouse any such hope. It is, nevertheless, a distinct gain to have Congress recognize that some of the documents which it has spread upon the statute books of America have really become useless with age.

Law enforcement officers and law-abiding citizens hail with rejoicing any indication that Congress may some day recognize its obligation to wipe out mistakes of the past with something of the fervor which it now exhibits in creating new mistakes.

TRAFFIC LEGISLATION.

As a direct outcome of the study given the local traffic situation by the advisory council set up by the Commissioners last summer, a bill has been prepared and forwarded to the chairman of the Senate District committee, to amend the existing traffic acts so that the Commissioners would have a "flexible authority over vehicular traffic and the titling and registering of vehicles." Under existing law the traffic director has the sole authority to initiate regulations. The bill would transfer that authority to the Board of Commissioners by authorizing it to "make, modify and enforce reasonable regulations in respect to brakes, horns, lights, mufflers and other equipment, and the inspection of the same, the registering, titling, retitling, transferring of titles, and revocation of titles of motor vehicles and trailers."

One of the criticisms leveled against the traffic regulations is that they are not susceptible to modification in keeping with changing circumstances. The traffic problem is not static; it is in constant flux. When the present regulations were approved several years ago they were adequate to deal with the traffic situation as it existed at that time. Today, however, the traffic map of the city has changed in many respects. Certain modifications of the speed limit, for example, should be made, but the act binds the District to the speed limits of the days when the act was approved.

In addition to providing for flexibility in the regulation of traffic, the proposed act would restore dignity to the Commissioners' office. The Commissioners are in the final analysis responsible for the regulation of traffic in the District, but at present they have only negative power in regard to regulations submitted by the traffic director. If for no other reason than that the Commissioners, as the heads of the local government, should have authority to initiate traffic regulations, the bill submitted to the chairman of the Senate District committee demands consideration.

ANDRE TARDIEU

From the Christian Science Monitor.

That Andre Tardieu will have another opportunity of rendering great service to his country in the future can hardly be doubted, for his conduct as prime minister of France for thirteen months has placed him in the first rank not only of national but of world statesmen. Rarely has a minister revealed so swiftly and indisputably the measure of his capacity as the man whom Raymond Poincare himself designated as his successor last year.

What is more remarkable is that he should have revealed his exceptional ability despite remarkably bitter opposition. Never has he been left free to pursue his task in tranquillity, and when he was performing acts which should logically have been supported by the opposition, he was most fiercely assailed. This conflict, which at times was absurdly paradoxical, is explained by the fact that the radicals excluded themselves from the last Poincare cabinet and refused to join first the Briand and then the Tardieu cabinets. Politics required that they should constantly endeavor to overthrow the government in order to enter a new government on their own terms.

M. Tardieu was distinguished by good humor, frankness and straightforward energy that won general admiration. He has brought before Parliament a project for the reequipment of the nation economically, and without waiting for its passage he has done much to stimulate industry and improve finance. Lately the franc has been slightly affected by the world crisis and indirectly by weakening of the cabinet. Banking troubles, though relatively unimportant, helped in the defeat of M. Tardieu. But the fundamental stability of France, with its gold reserves and the absence of unemployment, has been increased. A firm hand was used against the Communist agitators, with the result that social disturbances which at one time threatened have been averted. The Tardieu government put into operation an insurance act which applies to all workers—a notable achievement.

In the foreign field M. Tardieu's record is remarkable. At The Hague he helped to work out and accepted the conditions of the application of the Young plan, which, although perhaps not final and definitive, marks an important stage in the settlement of the reparations and debts problem. Under his leadership, and with his unreserved support, Briand was enabled to forward the policy which led to the evacuation of Rhineland five years before the occupation should have ceased under the strict terms of the treaty. It was Tardieu who headed the French delegation at the memorable London naval conference, and indeed it was his preoccupation with this conference that was taken advantage of by his adversaries to outvote him for the first time. M. Tardieu has been particularly active in devising the naval plans to which Italy may adhere.

No legend is more ludicrous than that which would represent Tardieu and Briand in disagreement. In the supreme matters of the Young plan and evacuation, is it conceivable that the government chief would permit his foreign minister to pursue an independent policy? Is it conceivable that his foreign minister would continue to serve under a leader who thwarted him? In disarmament, too, their views are identical, as they both put security first and believe in a strong army and fortifying the frontiers.

With the exception of the Socialists, practically all members of Parliament have just expressed themselves on this question in a virtually unanimous vote. By his brilliant personality, by sound policies, by a rare capacity of execution, Tardieu has proved himself to be the outstanding French statesman, and although in the vicissitudes of party politics he has temporarily succumbed, he has successfully established his claim to be one of France's leaders in the difficult days that doubtless lie ahead.

What a Team!

St. Louis Post Dispatch: Now that the choosing of all-star football teams is the order of the day, we nominate our own "mythical eleven," confident that it could reduce to wreckage any gridiron group that took the field against it. Here they are: Ends, Wallace Beery and Adolf Hitler; tackles, H: L. Mencken and Tom Heflin; guards, Babe Ruth and Paul Whiteman; center, Primo Carnera; quarter-back, Benito Mussolini; half backs, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney; full back, Strangler Lewis.

Our Federal Lords.

Nebraska State Journal: The racketeers of Chicago have been at the business longer than the racketeers of New York, but the facts seem to be that they may learn much from them. The juice grape industry in California has been compelled to pay $30 before the door of any car landed in Chicago could be opened, the penalty being beating up or disappearance of truckmen. In New York the truckers charged $100 a car for unloading, or about $60 a car more than the job was worth. How long the people of this country will stand for such a revival of the feudal lord system depends on whether they have lost their intestinal fortitude.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SPINSTER'E STORY.

Yes, I was courted in my day,
But let love come and go away.
"Oh, wed not him," my parents said,
"Beneath your station was he bred."
And, heeding them, I answered "no,"
And let him to another go.

Oft was I counseled to be wise,
"Love side by side with danger flies,"
They told me: "Play the safer part;
Trust not your life unto your heart."
Came one to whom I was inclined,
I let their reasons change my mind.

Aunts, uncles, brothers, all combined
To fill with fear my youthful mind,
Poured harsh comparisons and sneers,
By day and night into my ears.
Thus frightened off from love was I
Till the last wooer passed me by.

Now, in my spinsterhood I see,
How cold the reasoning mind can be.
Pride rules the calculating brain,
Which thinks in terms of loss and gain.
Love came, but only to depart,
Because I would not trust my heart.

The Knight in Quest of Adventure Isn't Looking for Sheep.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE church is no longer the dominant factor in American life. Its loss of prestige is attributed by some critics to the fact that the pulpit no longer enoys a monopoly of education, and by others to the cynical contempt for authority that commonly develops as an aftermath of war.

Both explanations are plausible, but neither is complete. Neither takes account of man's delight in self-sacrifice.

Every child is born with an innate fondness for martyrdom. The small boy enjoys feeling abused; the youth finds morbid satisfaction in the thought that nobody understands him; the man must be ever on his guard to avoid self-pity.

This inherent tendency to enjoy martyrdom is an unmanly weakness while it finds its enjoyment in imagination, but it is manly and noble when it prompts self-sacrifice.

And the nobility of it is so easily perceived by man himself that he never feels more content or more respectable than when he is sacrificing himself for a great cause—a great cause being any idealistic enterprise to which he has devoted himself.

The Christian religion thrived on persecution. It demanded of its converts the sacrifice of all worldly ambition, and, thanks to the stupidity of its enemies, offered them the privilege of martyrdom. To those who loved the under-dog and those who gloried in a fight against odds, its appeal was irresistible.

That same trait of human nature has time and again filled the ranks of the Socialists when the stupidity of officials offered opportunity for martyrdom.

And it explains much of the zeal that was called patriotism when America was at war with Germany. The people enjoyed self-denial and sacrifice. It made them feel respectable. For the first time in their lives they were practicing unselfishness, and they enjoyed it.

Today the town people in Russia are enjoying the greatest adventure in self-sacrice the world has ever seen. They are enduring hardship and poverty to buy the equipment that will make their nation great, and they do it with a glad light in their eyes because martyrdom in a cause greater than themselves makes them feel more noble than they ever felt before.

There is your explanation of religion's failure. It no longer demands anything. In its effort to win by pleasing, it threw away the greatest attraction it had.

What man enjoys defeating a child?

You can't enlist men in a great adventure if their part is to sit on cushions and talk about it.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Democratic Duty.

Atlanta Constitution.

The problem that the Democrats in the present session of Congress have to handle is whether they will do their best to help the people back to work, to earnings and to general prosperity. Democratic fundamentals laid down by Jefferson and practiced by his greatest Democratic successors in control of the Government have the one great objective of "the greatest good to the greatest number."

The Democratic party was organized to be the party of the common people, and not the party of aristocrats, plutocrats, or plundercrats. The common people are now in distress and they do not want to remain so for another one or two unnecessary years while their lawmakers and governors are playing political chess with the game pieces of partisan expediency.

Engaging Frankness.

Baltimore Sun.

Three of President Hoover's appointees to the United States Tariff Commission have shown such commendable frankness in their examination by the Senate finance committee, relative to confirmation, that one might almost dare to hope they could accomplish something—if they did not have an impossible flexible tariff scheme with which to work.

Chairman Fletcher, first off, said that he had never studied the tariff or paid any particular attention to its operations prior to his appointment. Perhaps a strange qualification for the job, but also a qualification of frankness that is engaging.

But He's Played Out.

The chief business of an insurgent senator is to find out what to keep Congress from doing.

Running From Office.

New York Times.

Politicians will rub their eyes over a dispatch from Hookset, N. H. It reports the effort, thus far unsuccessful, of a citizen of the Granite State to escape having public office forced upon him. The Rev. Napoleon J. Gilbert was nominated for the Legislature over his own protest because everybody in the parish wrote in his name on the ballot. He was elected as Democratic candidate because his refusal to run reached the secretary of state too late. Now he intends to insist that the house unseat him!

Picayunish Opposition.

Detroit News.

Facts graphically true amply support the Republican leaders of House and Senate in their defenses of the bill appropriating $150,000,000 outright and giving President Hoover latitude in allocating the money on public works in ways to do the utmost toward relieving unemployment and bettering the economic conditions. It follows that, in attempting to tie the President's hands and distribute the money in specific sums for specific works, the Democrats are put into a picayunish and obstructive position.

An Old Dodge.

We know a congressman who, if you give him time, can dig up something in Abraham Lincoln's collected speeches, revealing a firm stand on Muscle Shoals.

Balling Up Congress.

One thing seems certain. If the world court wrangle gets into the short session Congress won't be able to make a judicial decision on anything else.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Unsightly Trees Lining Pennsylvania Avenue Should Be Replaced With Oaks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read your editorial about replacing those unsightly Oriental plane trees on Pennsylvania avenue with elms. I wrote to the District Commissioners about the condition of the street trees during the drought, and suggested that they discontinue planting Norway maples and plane trees. I received an answer signed by the acting secretary of the Board of Commissioners in which he stated: "In regard to the Norway maple and Oriental plane trees, these two varieties are considered by all authorities as being unsurpassed for use on city streets. Incidentally it may be mentioned that of the 86,000 trees in Paris, 26,00 are Oriental planes."

I beg to differ with the secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia. In the past the Norway maples on Sixteenth street had a serious blight, with many dead branches. I ask tree lovers and lovers of the National Capital to take a ride down Pennsylvania avenue and look at those dirty, unattractive-looking plane trees that line the Avenue. The balls of seed hang on all winter, and probably account for the starlings congregating in them. Those magnificent looking plane trees at the base of the Capitol grounds near the Peace Monument are an ornament to the city and should be preserved. They are in a desirable location, with space for full development, and possibly receive moisture from the Capitol grounds. I am not referring to those trees, but to the miserable, scraggly-looking specimens that line and desecrate Pennsylvania avenue as street trees.

Oriental planes used to be on Eleventh street northwest. They attained such a large growth that they were severely pruned, and looked like skeleton trees in winter. Compare those dirty, scraggly, Oriental plane trees that line Pennsylvania avenue from the Treasury to the Capitol with those magnificent oak trees on Pennsylvania avenue southeast. These street trees are the finest in Washington.

I notice that some of the plane trees on Pennsylvania avenue northwest are being replaced with young oak trees. Possibly that means that the superintendent of trees intends to have magnificent oaks line the Pennsylvania avenue of the future. If this is so, hurrah for his judgment!

BLANCHE C. HOWLETT.

Dr. H. W. Bleacher Speaks Up for Pop-Eyed Fans Who Want the Rabbit Ball.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by the sport columns that an effort may be made to deaden the so-called lively ball at the winter meetings of baseball magnates. One of the chief reasons given for this seems to be that there are too many home runs over the fence, the home run record is punky because the fences are not equidistant from the home-plate, and there are too many home runs anyhow.

Other reasons are offered for de-rabbiting the ball.

I have even seen it intimated, though it is beyond my belief, that infielders would welcome a ball with less pep and, consequently, less perversity in its activities.

After all, it is the same old controversy which goes on from season to season between those who think a close pitchers' battle the peak of baseball perfection and those who dote on basehits and consider fielding a worth-while feature of their favorite pastime. In other words, between the cold-hearted mathematical patrons of the game and the pop-eyed fans, among whom I sit when the summer sun peps up the animated precincts of the ball yard.

I side with my fellow-fans in favor of the lively ball.

Baseball is full of more kinds of action than any game I know of, and pep is what makes it the characteristically American game it is. Pep in the ball augments pep in the game, and pep in the game puts pep in the roars and yelps of fandom, which it does me good to hear.

The lively ball is just about right as is, and, if they have an eye to business the club owners will not reduce its liveliness. What they should do is to agree to a parity of home run chances in the matter of fences and let the infielders in pursuit of the rabbit ball take care of themselves. HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Quaker Thinks This Country Can Promote Peace Best by Keeping Out of Foreign Entanglements.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am, heart and soul, in sympathy with the movement to bring about world peace, but at the same time I think our country can do more good as a free moral agent than in permanent political alliance with the empires, kingdoms, dictatorships and republics of the Old World. If Europe as a whole may be said to have a polity, it seems fair to say that it is inimical to our own, and, although modified by the growing desire for peace, of necessity, it will be for many years to come colored by a decided trace of defensive militarism, so called.

The admonition that evil communications corrupt good manners is as true now as it ever was, and it applies to nations as well as to human beings. Human frailty in our diplomacy might easily involve us in a war in defense of despotism if we should ever be tied tight to European politics.

In any case, I very much mistrust the wisdom of any foreign policy which might involve a loss of spiritual strength in the individuality of the Republic.

Indeed, of Uncle Sam in his so-called isolation I for one am proud, and in consideration of his international attitude hitherto, I recall the divine tribute to Job, "a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God and escheweth evil, and still he holdeth fast his integrity."

OVERHEAD CROSSING TO BE OPENED TODAY

New Bridge Spanning B. & O. Tracks at Gaithersburg Costs $118,000.

TRAFFIC TO BE ROUTED

Opening of the new Gaithersburg grade crossing overhead bridge to traffic is expected this morning. Although the approaches to the bridge have not as yet been paved, the roadway will be covered with cinders and made available to traffic on the Rockville-Frederick road.

The bridge span is about 150 feet long, the section actually over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks being about 92 feet. The bridge is constructed of steel and concrete. The cost of construction amounts to $118,000, the T. D. Claiborne Co., of Baltimore, having been low bidders and awarded the contract.

The overhead bridge will result in several changes in main thoroughfares. Maryland State roads commission plans the widening of the north approach to the bridge approximately to the front piers of the Standard Oil station on the east side of the highway. Routing of westbound traffic through the center of Gaithersburg's main business section and south to Rockville or west to Darnestown to use the overhead bridge by way of the widened approach opposite the gas station or turning north from the main business street one square east of the old grade crossing and then west to the north end of the approach is planned.

State and county officials estimate that most of the traffic originating in the center of Gaithersburg and rounted from Rockville will continue to use the crossing at the railroad station. The plans of the commission provide for the keeping open of the Darnestown-Quince Orchard road under the southern approach of the bride so that traffic using this road will pass under the southern approach and continue south past Partin's garage and then either onto the bridge or south to Rockville.

Elimination of this dangerous crossing is a feature of the commission's effort to do away with grade crossing.

James C. Christopher, of the Western or Bethesda suburban district, and Ward W. Caddington, of the Eastern suburban or Silver Spring district, were reappointed clerks to the county commissioners for their respective districts yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of County Commissioners at its meeting in Rockville. The appointments are to run until June 1, 1931.

The contract for the construction of the storm sewer along Brookeville road, Chevy Chase, was awarded to Raymond H. Burrows, of Chevy Chase. The low bid was $3,000.18. Work is to be started immediately and is to consume 30 days. The new sewer will avert the serious inconvenience caused by lack of drainage facilities. The surface water following storms has flowed into Brookeville road from connecting streets, heretofore and there was no outlet for the water, causing serious flooding of many places on the road.

The new sewer will be 800 feet long and extend from Shepherd to Taylor street. The pipe drain will be from 24 to 36 inches in diameter, which will accommodate a heavy flow of water. Seven other firms bid on the contract.

The county comissioners lowered the rate to be paid for horses killed by dogs $100 to $75 and raised the rate on cows from $60 to $75. Rates on other live stock and fowls remains the same. The money is obtained from the tax on dogs.

Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, presented to the commissioners a detailed report of the county's financial standing, which showed the some 70 county funds to be in healthy condition.

The Montgomery County Police Court collected fines of $1,703 and costs of $272 in criminal cases in the month of November, the report of Judge Charles W. Woodward, presented to the county commissioners yesterday, shows. Civil costs collected totaled $25.20, the report shows.

The sum of $520 was collected for automobile fines and muts be deducted from the total fines and forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles at Baltimore.

Contracts for the construction of several improvements to the county school system were awarded yesterday at the meeting of the Montgomery County Board of Education held in the Rockville High School in the offices of the board.

J. Herbert Johnson, of Colesville, was awarded the contract for the building of a fire escape and toilet at the Woodside Elementary School. The low bid was $11,985. Three other firms competed. The contract for drilling a well at the Poolesville School was awarded to W. T. Hilton & Sons of Barnesville, who offered the low bid of $3.98 per foot. The well is to be constructed in accordance with the specifications of the State Department of Health. W. A. Wagner was the low bidder for furnishing additional heat units at the Kensington Elementary School.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. J. W. Martin, a teacher at the Poolesville School, and of Mrs. Rebecca Graham, of the Takoma-Silver Spring High School. The resignations will become effective December 26.

The annual election of officers of the Montgomery Agricultural Society, which sponsors the annual Rockville Fair, will be held this morning at the Farm Bureau office in Rockville. Clarence L. Gilpin, of Olney, is the present head of the society.

Two suits for limited divorce were filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of the circuit court at Rockville. Mrs. Evelyn B. Renshaw filed suit asking divorce from Vernon A. Renshaw, alleging cruelty and brutal treatment. The wife alleges that the husband even accused her of infidelity before a gathering of persons at a party they had attended, and that he on several occasions struck and cursed at her. The wife is represented by Attorney F. B. Welsh, of Rockville.

Mrs. arolyn Rinker Kenner alleges in her suit for divorce from Edwin Augustus Kenner, Washington druggist, that he had been insanely jealous and had frequently abused, swore at and struck her, and that after a bitter quarrel in the winter of 1928-1929, he left her and went to the home of his mother to live for about four months before he returned to their home. She further alleges that he deserted her April 3, 1929, and has not contributed to her support since that time. The wife is represented by Miss Vivian V. Simpson, Rockville attorney.

B. & O. Trains Discontinued.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 9 (Special).—Permission has been granted the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad by the State to discontinue the operation of trains Nos. 146, 147, 148 and 149 between Century and Century Junction in Barbour County; Nos. 51 and 52 between Weston and Buckhannon, and Nos. 753 and 754 between Weston and Buckhannon.

ing the five weeks' deliberations here. Representatives of both countries are understood to have had occasional contact but no agreement or even near agreement was announced.

Mr. Gibson summarized the American estimate of the commission's achievements in his closing statement. He called attention to the "anxieties and worries that have arisen from the special preoccupation felt by numerous governments for their national security."

See French Claim Realized.

By this expression, observers said, the American Government for the first time acknowledged the existence of the problem of security which forms the basis of French policies and is supported by a strong group of France's allies.

The draft convention, Mr. Gibson told his colleagues from 30 States, "falls far short of our hopes and expectations." He spoke of the failure to incorporate in the draft convention the various methods which Americans regarded as essential to real disarmament.

By this he was understood to refer chiefly to the absence of provisions for limiting trained reserves and 'or the direct limitation of land materials. He consoled himself, however, with the belief, he said, that the scheme adopted would permit at least the stabilization of armaments, the setting up of machinery to receive and spread information on armaments, and "to prepare systematically for the work of future conferences."

Girl Reserves Repairing Toys for Needy Young

The Girl Reserves of the Young Women's Christian Association are working in daily shifts to complete work on the many old toys that have been sent to their Christmas toy shop, where they are being repaired and made ready for distribution, through various social organiztaions, to the children in the hospitals, children's homes and other juvenile institutions.

Members of the Boys' Club of the Young Men's Christian Association and of various other local clubs are assisting in the work. Men of Fire Engine Company No. 1 have also volunteered their services. The city-wide distribution will follow the exhibition of toys Sunday afternoon, December 21, in the toy shop on the third floor of the Y. W. C. A. Building.

Sale of Work of Blind To Last Through Month

The annual Christmas sale of the handwork of the city's blind has opened at the Annie and Henry Hurt Home for the Blind, 3050 R street northwest, and will extend throughout the month, the board of managers of the Aid Association for the Blind announced yesterday.

At the same time the board called on all blind folk of the city who have produced anything they would like to sell, to notify the home so they might include their work in the Christmas sale. Each will receive the full amount realized.

Entertainments Begun By Southeast Center

The Southeast Citizens Association opened its winter series of competitive entertainments given under the auspices of the Southeast Community Center, last night at the Hine Building.

A. G. Herrmann, president of the association, appeared on the stage in an interesting number and George E. Glick, the association secretary, gave an impersonation. Music was provided by an orchestra, composed of Southeast citizens, led by Joseph Romeo.

Rhodes Scholarship Candidates.

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 9 (Special).—Dudley L. Harley, of Martinsburg, a student at Harvard University and graduate of Lehigh, and Cadet W. S. Jones, of Wheeling, a first classman at West Point, have been chosen as West Virginia's nominees for the 1931 Rhodes scholarship competition, the district finals for which will be held December 13 in New York City.

plaints lodged against the distributors of foodstuffs in the National Capital.

Consumers have complained that if the farmers are not getting enough for their produce to pay the cost of shipping, some one else is getting too much from the ultimate consumers.

Reductions Elsewhere.

In the past year, the resolution said, prices of wheat and wheat flour have decreased appreciably throughout the country, and in "many cities the reduction in the prices of wheat and wheat flour has led to a fair reduction in the retail price of bread in such cities."

On the other hand, District consumers have complained to the committee they are "paying as much for this commodity as in years when wheat and flour prices were considerably higher than at present," the resolution said.

The resolution emphasized that "Congress has seen fit in the past to authorize inquiries and investigations by its committees into alleged exhorbitant prices of foodstuffs in the District of Columbia."

To Make Full Inquiry.

The committee would be authorized to "make a full and complete investigation of prices of bread and other foodstuffs in the District of Columbia and to report to the Senate as soon as practicable the results of its investigations, together with its recommendations, if any, for necessary legislation."

Senator Royal Copeland (Democrat, of New York, a member of the committee, said he would want to know the quality of flour and other foodstuffs sold in the District and the quality and nutritive value of flour used in bread.

Another point the committee would want information about, Senator Copeland said, was the bakers' observance of the law fixing the weight of loaves of bread.

Girl Scouts to Present Clothing They Made

Thirteen troops of District Four, Girl Scouts of America, will hold a rally at the Paul Junior High School Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when children's clothing made by the members will be formally presented to the Council of Social Agencies for Christmas distribution.

Following the presentation there will be scouting games. Gold and silver attendance stars will be awarded by Mrs. Henry H. Flather, of the National Board of Girl Scouts; second class badges, by Mrs. Frank Sherman, of the executive committee for District Four; and merit badges by Mrs. H. A. Swanson, chairman for District Four.

Teachers' Pocketbooks Stolen; Police Seek Boy

Miss Clara Charice, 331 Quakenbos street northwest, last night reported to police that her pocketbook containing $10 in bills and her pay check for $40 was stolen from her desk at McKinley High School, where she teaches.

At the same time Miss Rhoda Watkins, of 1429 Clifton street northwest, another teacher at the school, reported her pocketbook containing $8 in bills, keys, and a fountain pen, also was stolen. Twelfth Precinct police are seeking a colored boy.

Railway Porter Dies Suddenly.

James E. Hunter, 43-year-old colored man thought to live in Brooklyn, N. Y., a porter employed by the Pullman Co., died suddenly while in the porters' quarters at Washington Terminal yesterday afternoon. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was called and pronounced the man dead from a heart attack.

Missed at Office, Dead at His Home

Federal Employe, Who Lived Alone, Victim of Heart Disease.

Robert L. Carter, a member of the General Accounting Office staff, was found dead yesterday in his apartment at 219 H street northwest, where he had lived alone. He apparently was stricken with heart disease Sunday. The discovery of his death came about through his failure to report for work this week.

About 41 years old, Mr. Carter had made Washington his home during the last fifteen years. For several years he was a civil service attache in the Marine Corps and was with a detachment of the corps on the Vera Cruz expedition in 1914.

He had been in the General Accounting Office since its establishment. He was a native of Atlanta, the son of Josiah Carter, a distinguished newspaperman. Mr. Carter is survived by his mother and two brothers, who live in Atlanta, and by a sister, Mrs. A. H. Ulm, of this city. He was unmarried.

George W. Hoover, 76, Dies in New Paris, Pa.

Special to The Washington Post.

New Paris, Pa., Jan. 9.—George W. Hoover, aged 76, a justice of the peace, died suddenly yesterday. He was president of the Bedford County Fire Insurance Co. and for years was master of the New Paris Grange. He was a trustee of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a Sunday school superintendent for a long time.

He is survived by the following children: Mrs. D. E. Bowser, Schellsburg; H. Faustin Hoover, principal of Dale High School, Johnstown; Mrs. N. F. Richards and Miss Lulu Hoover, New Paris. Burial took place today at Schellsburg.

Mine Experiment Station At Maryland U. Urged

Establishment of an experimental station at the University of Maryland by the United States Bureau of Mines is provided in a measure introduced in the Senate yesterday jointly by Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough (Republican), both of Maryland.

The measure authorizes $350,000 for establishment of the expermiental station on the campus of the university, provided the site is dedicated to the Government. The measure was referred to the committee on mines and mining.

Woman Seeks Receiver In $6,000,000 Case

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The case involving $6,000,000 in mining securities alleged to be missing after the six-weeks disappearance of Charles V. Bob, New York capitalist, switched to Baltimore today with the filing of a suit by a woman shareholder.

Letty J. Duryea, of New Jersey, brought action against Metal and Mining Shares, Inc., owner of the stock, asking a Maryland receivership, dissolution of the company and injunction proceedings to prevent disposal of assets. The company was incorporated in Maryland, May 24, 1928.

Montvale Bank Fails To Open for Business

Montvale, Va., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The Bedford County Bank here did not open its doors for business today and J. W. Calwell, cashier, announced that the State banking division was in charge.

Caldwell attributed the closing to inability of the bank to realize upon securities. He said he hoped arrangements could be made for the institution to reopen. The bank was capitalized at $20,000, its surplus was $20,000 and deposits approximately $250,000, Caldwell stated. It was organized in 1910.

Oil Stove Explosion Burns Elkton Woman

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Elizabeth Price, wife of Otto Price, of Elkton, Va., is at University Hospital for treatment after receiving severe burns about her body when a stove into which she was pouring kerosene oil exploded.

The accident happened yesterday afternoon at the Price home. Burning oil set fire to her clothing, but fortunately her body was partially protected by her full attire, including a heavy top coat.

Highway Bridge Spans Are Near Completion

Completion of the last two spans of the Highway Bridge within the next few days will eliminate the traffic delays that have been experienced for some time at that point. A wooden trestle to be used while the last two spans of the bridge are being replaced with a concrete structure was placed in use on Monday.

Difficulty was experienced in the removal of the old bridge and the connecting of the trestle to it. While it has been necessary to cause some delay to traffic during rush hours, this condition will continue for a few days only.

Broom Corn Purchased For Lorton Prisoners

The prisoners in the District penal institution at Lorton, Va., won't be among the unemployed this winter. The District Commissioners have seen to that.

A bid for providing 70 bales of broom corn at 5½ cents per pound was yesterday approved.

Ousted Policeman Loses His Appeal

Commissioners Refuse to Change Sentence for Intoxication.

The dismissal of Private W. F. Burke, of the Sixth Police Precinct, for being intoxicated October 9 while on duty, was approved yesterday afternoon by the District Commissioners.

Burke was tried November 19 by the Police Trial Board, found guilty and sentenced to be removed from the force. He appealed to the Commissioners.

The dismissal goes into effect today. It was approved on the recommendation of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner in charge of the Police Department.

Mrs. Lula A. Critzer, 22, Is Dead at Arrowhead

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Lula A. Critzer, wife of Lucian C. Critzer, of Arrowhead, this county, died yesterday at a local hospital. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from a local undertaking parlor, the service being conducted by the Rev. Francis L. Robertson, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Cismont.

Mrs. Critzer was Miss Lula A. Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Mitchell, of Albemarle, and was 22 years of age. Besides her husband, she is survived by her parents and four sisters, Mrs. Ethel L. Smith, of Keswick, Va.; Mrs. Estelle Bond, of Arrowhead; Miss Winifred Mitchell, of Charlottesville, and Miss Louise Mitchell, of Arrowhead.

Mrs. Margaret Brown Dies in Massachusetts

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 9.—Relatives here have received news of the death, in Fitchburg, Mass., of Mrs. Margaret Murray Brown, following seevral operations necessitated by an infected finger.

Mrs. Brown was born in Scotland 77 years ago and was the widow of John Brown. She is survived by three sons, all of Fitchburg, and five grandchildren, one of whom, Murray Cox Brown, is a student at William and Mary College. Lieut. Thomas Brown, father of Murray Brown, gave his life in the service of his country while with the expeditionary forces in France during the World War.

Vice President Entertains for The President

Noted Company Guests of Mr. Curtis to Meet Hoovers.

ENTERTAINING at the first of the annual series of state functions extended by members of the President's official family to the President and Mrs. Hoover, they were guests at dinner last evening of the Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, whose sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, was hostess.

Each member of the Cabinet will, in order of precedence, extend to the Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover a similar compliment.

The company included the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, the Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the United States Ambassador to France and Mrs. Walter Evans Edge, who had planned to leave Washington yesterday, but remained over especially for the dinner.

Also the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith and her son-in-law, Mr. Frederick O. Bohen, of Des Moines; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone, of Akron, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Lammot du Pont, of Wilmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mr. Adolph S. Ochs and his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hayes Sulzberger, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Moss, also of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Nutt, of Cleveland; Mr. Charles M. Schwab, of Loretto, Pa.; Mrs. Sydney A. Cloman, Mr. David W. Mulvane, of Topeka, Kans.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, of Philadelphia; former Senator and Mrs. Henry F. Lippitt, of Providence, R. I., the latter the sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Peck, of Providenc; Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Babcock, of Pittsburgh; Gen. W. W. Atterbury, of Philadelphia; Maj. and Mrs. Charles P. George, Maj. John M. Eager, U. S. A., and Mr. Edward E. Gann.

Dinner was served in the Chinese room of the hotel, the company being seated at a large oval shaped table decorated with plaques of pink roses and a rare variety of crotons. Pink candles were also used to carry out the general color scheme.

Coffee was served in the Pan-American room of the hotel, after which the company returned to the Chinese room for a showing of Will Rogers' picture "Lightnin'." A section of the Marine Band played throughout the evening.

Adamses and Jahnckes Have Guests at Dance.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke will be the honor guests at the second of the series of four Navy and Marine Corps dances Saturday evening, December 20, at the Willard.

The dance will be attended by a large number of high-ranking officers of the Navy and Marine Corps and their wives.

Mrs. F. Lamont Belin and Mrs. Richard Southgate will pour tea this afternoon when Mrs. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, will be at home. The wives of other officials of the State Department will assist.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, will be assisted in receiving today in her apartment at the Mayflower by Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., Mrs. Walter Ewing Hope, Mrs. David S. Ingalls, Mrs. Joseph Dixon and Mrs. Charles C. Teague, who will pour.

Senator Joseph E. Ransdell was toastmaster at the dinner given last evening at the Willard by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, meeting in Washington this week. Among the honor guests were the Chief of Engineers and Mrs. Lytle Brown, the Assistant Chief of Engineers and Mrs. George B. Pillsbury, Rear Admiral and Mrs. William A. Moffett, the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Clarence M. Young; former Representative and Mrs. John H. Small.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Thompson, Lieut. Stanhope Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson H. Compton and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Knappen. Representative Riley J Wilson, president of the organization, greeted the guests, who numbered 400.

Representative and Mrs. Edward W. Pou, of North Carolina, have leased an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel for the winter. They have with them their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Pou Moran, and her children.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Egyptian Legation and Mme. Aly Ismail Bey returned to Washington last night from Newport News, Va., where they went by special train to attend the christening of the steamship President Hoover by Mrs. Hoover yesterday. The new steamship will run between this country and Egypt.

Mrs. Dale David Drain will entertain at tea this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock for her niece, Miss Margaret Ames, of Lincoln, Neb., who is spending the winter in Washington with her.

Owing to illness Mrs. James E. Watson has canceled all social engagements for two weeks.

Former Margaret Sutherland Here From Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallis B. Dunckel arrived yesterday in New York on the Ile de France from Paris where they have been making their home for the last two years. Mrs. Dunckel is the daughter of the Alien Property Custodian and Mrs. Howard Sutherland and was before her marriage Miss Margaret Sutherland.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunckel will make their future home in New York. Mrs. Dunckel will come directly to Washington and will leave her infant son with her parents, and will return to New York to find an apartment. She will return with Mr. Dunckel to spend Christmas with her family.

Mrs. Harrison Tweed has concluded a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs at Newport and has returned to New York. Mrs. Tweed, the former Mrs. John Barrymore, has given up the house she leased here last winter and does not expect to return to the Capital except for brief visits this season.

Capt. Harvey Delano, U. S. N., and Mrs. Delano, will go to New York on Friday to attend the Army and Navy football game. They will return to Washington on Sunday evening.

Mrs. John Marshall has returned to Washington after passing a week in Wheeling, W. Va., with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Paull.

Mrs. Armstead Davis has taken an apartment at the Westbury, in New York, for the winter, and will not open her home here.

Minister Wu Mentioned for Home Honor

If He Leaves Capital Mr. Frank Lee May Succeed Him.

If the rumors current are true, that the Minister of China, Dr. C. C. Wu, will shortly become chairman of the Dwangtung provincial government at Canton, then Washington will lose one of the most inetresting diplomats from the Far East, and his picturesque wife, Mme. Wu.

Since Dr. Wu's term of service in this country, he and Mme Wu have established many warm friendships among the intelligentsia of Washington. Two years ago, Dr. Wu succeeded Mr. Sao Ke Alfred Sze.

Coming to Washington was like arriving in a second home to Dr. Wu who spent the days of his youth here as a student at Western High School. He also attended high school in Atlantic City and then went to England to receive his higher education. During the years spent is this country, Dr. Wu's father, the late Dr. Wu Ting-Fang was serving as Minister in Washington.

In the event of Dr. Wu's departure, word comes from Nanking that Mr. Frank Lee, who will soon become vice minister of foreign affairs, would be named Minister to Washington. Mr. Lee formerly served as Consul General in New York and Minister to Mexico.

Commander Charles C. Gill, U. S. N. and Mrs. Gill, whose marriage took place Monday in Elizabethtown, N. Y., will be at home in Washington after January 2 at 2409 California street.

Capt. A. B. Lambdin, U. S. A., of New London, Conn., spent the weekend in Washington with his parents, the Rev. M. B. Lambdin and Mrs. Lambdin. Capt. Lambdin has recently been appointed to the staff of Governor-elect Wilbur L. Cross, with the rank of colonel.

Club Will Entertain Harpist and Cartoonist.

Miss Sylvia Meyer, harpist, and Mr. John M. Baer, cartoonist, will be the honor guests at the reception which will be held at the Congressional Club on Friday afternoon.

The Belgian Ambassador and the Princess de Ligne have extended their patronage to a card party to be held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street, for the benefit of the Rev. Father van Ingelgem, pastor of St. James' Catholic Church, of Falls Church, Va.

Many years ago, Father van Ingelgem was the vicar of the Church of St. Gudule at Brussels, when the Prince de Ligne was altar boy, and the friendship between them was renewed when the Ambassador came to this country and found "Father Van," as he is affectionately called, pastor of the church near Washington. Father van Ingelgem, who is over 80 years of age, has been in failing health for some time, and his friends have organized the card party to raise funds in order to give him a mark of their affection by sending him to Florida to recuperate.

The prize to be given will be autographed by the Belgian Ambassador.

Miss Carolyn Keene, of Rome, will arrive today to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parson Erwin at their home, Arbremont. Miss Keene will remain ten days and will be the guest of honor at numerous festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin will entertain at a buffet supper for 30 guests on Saturday evening in honor of their guest.

Miss Keene has visited Mr. and Mrs. Erwin on previous occasions. Her father for many years was American Consul General in Italy.

Mrs. James Reeve Bell entertained a company at luncheon at the Shoreham Hotel yesterday in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Frank A. Pell, of Denver, Colo.

The guests included Mrs. Robert E. Quirk, Mrs. Michael J. Gormley, Mrs. Raymond A. Walsh, Mrs. Herbert Muckley, Mrs. William J. Leahy, Miss Irene Wright, Mrs. Pinckney J. Harman, Mrs. George P. Graham, Mrs. John T. Marchand, Mrs. Jefferson Myers, Mrs. Fred A. Rasche, Mrs. Millard F. West, Mrs. Clarke D. Case, Mrs. Mary Quirk, Mrs. Parker Horn, Mrs. J. W. Jacobs, Mrs. C. C. Bane, Mrs. Harry Carroll and Mrs. Junior Owens.

Mr. Tracy Dows was among the passengers sailing on the Conte Biancamano yesterday for Gibraltar.

Civil Service Official To Make Inspection Trip.

Mr. Lewis H. Fisher, chief of the service record and retirement division of the Civil Service Commission, will sail from New York tomorrow on an official inspection trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Mr. Fisher's work will cover the administration of the civil service act and rules in the islands. He will visit the more important communities of both Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Mrs. Edward Hart is spending a few days in New York at the Weylin.

Mrs. Paul E. Howe, Mrs. W. P. Roop, Mrs. Harold Palmer and Mrs. Nellie Boyd Taylor are in charge of an informal tea to be given by the education committee of the American Association of University Women at their clubhouse today at 4 o'clock. Plans for cooperation with the Parent-Teacher Association in the organization and leadership of study groups for parents will be discussed.

Miss Pollard To Be Married On January 3

Brilliant Event Will Take Place at House of Governor.

The climax of the winter social season in the capital of the Old Dominion will be the wedding of Miss Suzanne Pollard, daughter of Gov. John Garland Pollard, and Mr. Herbert Lee Boatwright, jr., Washington lawyer, which will take place in the executive mansion in Richmond at 8 o'clock on the evening of January 3.

The wedding will be the first in more than 40 years in the fine old mansion that has been the home of Virginia's governors for over a century. It will unite two of the best known families of the State.

The wedding will take place in the presence of members of the immediate families, and will be followed by a reception to which hundreds of additional guests have been invited.

Miss Pollard, who has been her father's official hostess during his term of office because of her mother's illness, will have only one attendant, Miss Emily Pollard, a cousin, from Marion, Pa. Mr. Boatwright has not named his best man and ushers.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. W. A. R. Goodwyn, rector of historic Bruton Parish Episcopal Church at Williamsburg.

Miss Pollard became official hostess of the executive mansion this year at the age of 23, stepping naturally into the role, although the youngest mistress ever to preside in the stern old mansion.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Greenleaf will spend the week end in Richmond, Va., as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Remon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel A. Blair, of Media, Pa., have been at the Dodge Hotel during a brief sojourn in Washington.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Holiday Thrills.

At the Christmas season children look forward to having special good times, treats and privileges.

They expect the rules to be relaxed, bed-time to slip back an hour or so, and dietary restrictions to be temporarily much modified in favor of the candies and cakes and ice creams that appear at parties.

It is quite right for children thus to look forward to the holidays with anticipation of a temporary realization of their dearest wishes.

Childhood should have many high lights of the special good times that somehow mitigate the harships of being a child.

The question which parents must decide in each case is just how much of this holiday joy the child can be permitted without injury to his health, his nerves and his acceptance (when the good times come to an end, as they must) of the routine which is necessary and wholesome in the long run.

Some children can stand very little dietary indiscretion; others seem to be able to assimilate a good deal of it without injury.

Some children are readily fatigued so they become cross, unhappy and difficult to manage. Obviously this sort of child should be tactfully kept away from big children's parties, from shows and outings following closely upon each other.

It is also safe to say that no child under eight is really any happier for being led about much into the festivities that are so delightful to his older brothers and sisters.

Even they need to be closely watched lest an aftermath of illness and behavior troubles follows upon the fatigue of too much fun and dissipation.

Dare Interprets the Mode

All in shades of white, gray and black is this stately evening gown, and solidly beaded with beads in the same tones. The coat is solid black beads. (Courtesy of Dupouy-Magnin, Paris.)

Aboard S. S. Ile de France, Dec. 9.

"STYLES may come and styles may go, but we woiking golls, as you yourself say, Dare, go on forever—on our so much per for dressing. Give us some more help, things that we can buy and ways that we can be well dressed!"

Thus writes a fan friend, and I am glad.

Briefly, the most important thing is to study yourself. Then, buying wisely and piece by piece for the perfect ensembles, every single garment and accessory in lines and colors that you know are becoming to you, you can not go wrong. Experimenting with lines and colors to find out if they suit you is only for those who can afford to make errors. If you can't, don't experiment—stick to the things you know, and save experimenting for a later day.

And, most important, know yourself in relation to clothes so definitely that no well, or not well, meaning friend, relative or sales persons can steer you wrong. Know what you want and insist upon it.

Thus can you be sure that your one or two or three or three hundred outfits are right—for you.

More another day!

A perfect example of cool, sheath-like stateliness is this Dupouy-Magnin evening gown which I have sketched for you today. I just couldn't resist the opportunity of showing it to you in all the beauty of its classic simplicity! It is of white and black and light and dark gray, the whole is beaded solidly, giving the gown its appearance of a sheath. And the short jacket which completes the ensemble is of black entirely covered with black beads. Oh, yes, all put on by hand were these glittering beads, and each bead in "time" language put on the bill. (You know, even at a penny a bead, this would cost a pretty penny, what?)

Fashion French.

Sable (Sahbl)—sand. Sac (sak)—back. Sache (sahsh)—sash. Saillant (sieyanh)—prominent. Saison (say-zonh)—season.

Put personality into the wrapping of your Christmas gifts—let your gifts be the ones that stand out in the pile of other presents! Thus does a Lovely Lady express her loveliness and good taste in everything she does. Thus is everything that she touches distinctly hers.

Save yourself the bother of figuring out novel ways to wrap and seal Christmas gifts by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet of ideas! There are almost a hundred different ways to wrap and seal your gifts and give them real personality, and all are ideas that will be just as original and lovely ten years from now, too. Hurry!!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return, stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DEBATE VENTILATION.

THE long drawn-out battle between the ventilation engineers and the New York commission on ventilation continues unabated. The commission continues to report in effect that mechanical ventilation is a total loss so far as improving health is concerned. They supply proof of their contention. The engineers reply by picking holes in the proof.

A late report made in July of this year by Dr. Cole and six associates is based on a long study of absenteeism due to colds in a group of schools equipped with modern mechanical ventilating apparatus well operated, and in a comparison group of schools ventilated by windows and gravity ventilation only. An effort was made to take into account the racial characteristics of the children, their sex, their age, their economic status, and all other influencing factors. Among their conclusions are these:

1. There is no evidence that slight difference in the temperature of schoolrooms exerts an appreciable effect on the prevalence of acute respiratory diseases.

2. There is no evidence that cutting the air flow in fan ventilated rooms from 30 cubic feet per pupil per minute to one-half that rate adversely affected the health of the pupils.

3. The illness absenteeism of school children falls steadily with increasing age. It is twice as high among pupils 5 to 9 years of age as it is among those 10 to 14 years old.

4. The sickness absentee rate caused by acute respiratory infections is higher among girls than among boys. At age 5 to 9 it is 10 per cent higher among girls. At age 10 to 14 it is 25 per cent higher.

5. Foreign-born children have lower sickness absentee rates than have the native born. The all-native stock children have rates that are 65 per cent higher than those of all-foreign born, and 40 per cent higher than those of children of mixed racial groups.

6. The children in the old-fashioned schools with furnace inlets and gravity exhausts have lower absentee rates caused by acute respiratory diseases than prevails among children attending schools with up-to-date ventilating systems.

7. Conclusions from these reports should be drawn with caution.

The next move is up to the ventilation engineers.

COATING ON THE TONGUE.

K. C. writes: With reference to J. R.'s complaint about the coating of the tongue, I would not advise the use of chewing gum. If I were in Hindustan, where I came from, I would advise chewing beetle nuts with all kinds of spices and a bit of calcium dioxid, but a chewing gum would form more coating. I have been noticing a coating on my tongue, and I have been eating apple with salt, which helps much. I think it is caused by smoking dozens of cigars of a kind which are sweetened with molasses. Alas, how I miss the beetle nut to supply the calcium in my system.

REPLY.

Eating apple with salt may help.

Chewing beetle nut and lime has drawbacks that might be worse than having a coated tongue.

WORK ON BRIDGE

THE DUCKING SEASON.

The Auction Bridge bidding of the above hand would be South pass, West pass, North two Hearts, East two Spades and South three Hearts, which would be passed by all.

The contract bidding (and it was at Contract that the hand was played) would be exactly the same first round, but South would start the second round with a bid of four Hearts and North would play at that contract.

East, put to it for a lead and not wishing to open with a singleton trump or one of his King suits, elected to lead from his Ace-Queen-Jack of Spades. East selected the Ace as his card for the first trick; West played the Nine and North the Eight. East suspected that North had played a false card and continued with the Queen. South covered with the King; West ruffed and led a Diamond. South took this with the Ace and one round exhausted the remaining adverse trumps; then the Declarer was obliged to give up one Diamond and one Club and as he had lost the first two tricks he failed to make game.

Do you see his rather obvious error?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Playing to the second trick Declarer did not know whether West had any more Spades or not, but it was rather probable that he had not and game would not be made if the King were played; but if South ducked and surrendered the trick whether West had a Spade or not, Declarer must win the succeeding one and would have an opportunity to discard closed hand's Jack of Clubs on South's King of Spades after exhausting trumps. The only tricks that the Declarer would lose if he ducked the second Spade would be one Diamond and two Spades. If was a sure game played in that way.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled the "Playing Problems." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"Playing Problems" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of The Washington Post by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address Milton C. Work, care Washington Post.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GIFTS FOR THOSE WHO GARDEN.

AND, I might add, "Who does not?" It may only be a wee garden planted in a box and growing in some window ledge far above the roar of city traffic, or it may be the garden whose vast expanse of blossoms covers acres. In any case, any one raising even one plant will welcome a garden gift.

If the gift is to be small, why not send a few packages of seeds, choosing perhaps new varieties? Or varieties which you know the recipient of your gift does not have. Or, again, choose blossoms that you know will do well in a shady garden or those that do best in poor soil. In other words, make your choice of seeds suitable for the garden in which you will expect them to grow. Six packages of seed tied together with some Christmas ribbon will be an attractive gift and one that will mean more and more as the months roll by. Then what could be gayer or giddier than a jolly, long-spouted "watering can of painted tin with a bright nosegay of blue?" One of these modern sprinklers will bring joy to the heart of any gardener.

A garden magazine is always appreciated. Each year there are more and more magazines on floriculture being printed and most of them are exceedingly practical, as well as artistic. And a magazine, you know, makes us more than thrice glad.

A garden book is another practical gift for any lover of flowers. There are literally hundreds of perfectly splendid books to be had for a price well within the limits of the person with little money to expend on gifts. As a word of warning when selecting a garden book, be sure that it has a well-arranged index. A garden book is a book to be used as you would use a cook book and, to be practical, should have an index.

And for the shut-in whose garden is, of necessity, on some window ledge, a bulb or two of Chinese lilies in a colorful bowl will add a ray of sunshine to one who at times must lead a drab existence. A garden umbrella to shade a tea table will be sure to please the friend whose garden is a part of the great outdoors.

Don't Blame the Begonia

if it is losing its glossy leaves and producing few flowers. For a tropical plant it does pretty well, don't you think?

But if you would like to have a healthy, blossom-laden plant why not write for a leaflet on begonias, which has proved very helpful to numerous readers? Be sure to inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope when you write to Jane LESLIE KIFT, care of The Washington Post.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF DECEMBER 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:40 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will make you feel "up and coming," and an active time is predicted, both mentally and physically. A workable inspiration will take you out of what you considered a tight hole. Health-giving forces.

The child born on this December 10 will have a simple, frank, outspoken nature. It will have the mind of an executive, although not an original one. It will be generous to the point of extravagance. It will sometimes be quarrelsome and petulant.

You have a very simple, very delightful nature, and it is not hard for the world to please you. You have the eye and soul of an artist, and can find beauty out of things, that seem to most of us commonplace. There are few things which are boring or futile to you, and your good nature and attendant interest, is responsibly met by other people. You never allow your joys to make you selfish, neither do you allow your sorrows to make you bitter. There is thunder as well as sunshine in your nature, and you can show lightning flashes of temper, when your toes are pinched too hard. You can show your displeasures, as well as your pleasures.

You take your work seriously, enough so for profit, but not seriously enough to make yourself a drudge. You know how to discriminate between the important and non-important details, and you know how to use your head to save your feet. You know how to cooperate intelligently with others, and gain much through reciprocity of ideas. You never talk down to people, no matter how much they may seem to be your inferiors—you are truly democratic. You have too frank and open a nature to be an artful or illusive lover. You will, however, make a staunch and loyal lover. Your horoscope reveals that you will have the home of your dreams.

Successful people born December 10:

Thomas H. Gallaudet, deaf mute educator.

Levi Heywood, manufacturer and inventor.

Zachariah Chandler, merchant and politician.

William J. Rolfe, author.

Melvil Dewey, educator.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS - - - By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Jean Meiba, a small town girl from Kelsey, Conn., who sometimes thinks she is in love with Phillip Baldwin, an ardent suitor who promises to appear Christmas morning with a marriage license. Losing her Kelsey stenographic job, Jean looks for work in New York, planning to live with Mollie Wilder, a more sophisticated friend. To her dismay, Jean learns that Mollie has married and left town. The situation is saved by Sandy Clause, a handsome but enigmatical young man who protects her from a masher's advances, and since he has lost her traveling bag in the shuffle, arranges for Jean to spend that night at the apartment of Marcia White, whose quasi-hospitality does not blind Jean to the fact that her needs is no haven of safety. Sandy leaves but Jean's fears are indorsed by the appearance of two sinister men, Slim Diggers, and Pargeson, alias Sampson. Jean flees the apartment and observes Sandy reigning. The next day he gets her a job with the F. P. F. and learns that Pargeson was murdered the night before in Marcia's apartment. Sandy tells Jean he did not return, although she knows she saw him and he later tells her he did come back—but not to Marcia's apartment. The F. P. F. is the Institute of Practical Philanthropy which Sandy manages; it aims to fulfill the wish of an eccentric but benevolent millionaire to encourage motherhood ideals among little girls by giving them Christmas dolls, to be known as miniature babies. Jean maps out a campaign to give every poor little girl in New York a miniature baby, and also locates Mollie, whose marriage has ended disastrously. The two girls live together. In the meantime Lionel Gilman, Sandy's assistant, takes advantage of the latter's absence in Boston to make love to Jean. Phil Baldwin arrives in town to look over the situation and when Lionel and he start fighting Jean realizes she can never care for either of them. Sandy returns from Boston and accidentally meets Jean on Fifth Avenue where she is staring covetously at an ermine wrap in a show window. Jean discovers little Ellen, daughter of Pargeson, and coming home one night finds Mollie mysteriously disturbed. Soon after, while taking Sandy on a visit to little Ellen, Jean learns that Marcia is the child's mother. Marcia accuses Jean of the murder; the latter tells Sandy that Marcia is lying. Is rebuked by Sandy for attacking Marcia's character—and slams out of the office.

Still furiously angry with Sandy, Jean writes Phil suggesting a reconciliation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI.

December 10th.

Twelve working days to Christmas * * * and I have written to Phil. * * * Pride or no, I have written to him, and he must decide whether we will return to the old understanding. * * * I was fearfully hungry for him all day yesterday. * * * Hungry for his sympathy, as much as anything else, I suppose. * * * But will he answer? * * *

Jean's diary was interrupted by a gentle tapping on the door. It was Lionel and a more despondent Lionel Jean had never seen.

"Do you mind if I come in for a few minutes, Jean?"

There was no dodging him here. This was her home and she did not know how to be other than hospitable and polite in it.

"If your face indicates the state of mind, I'd say you've just lost at least six best friends. Sit down, Lionel, and brace up. A national calamity wouldn't warrant that woeful countenance."

He tried to smile, with but little success. "You've refused to let me talk to you at the office," he told her with a touch of bitterness. "You know as well as I do that your boy friend from the sticks was responsible for that racket up here. Why are you treating me as if I had staged the whole show alone?"

Jean had expected more tragic news. "Is that what you've worried about? I thought something serious was wrong. Marcia accuses Jean of the murder; the latter tells Sandy that Marcia is lying. Is rebuked by Sandy for attacking Marcia's character—and slams out of the office. I've forgotten the whole mess. If that's any relief to you."

But she knew by his eyes that he was not relieved. Then there was something serious on his mind. "Apparently you aren't any better off now that we've disposed of that. Are you working up to something big, Lionel?"

"Nothing bigger than that," he declared unconvincingly. "But if you're honest in saying that you've forgiven me, why * * * there's the other thing * * *"

She knew very well what he meant, but she asked: "What other thing, Lionel?"

He had been sitting on the edge of one of the two chairs, but now he got to his feet, walked to the nearest window and stood gazing down into the street. There was something about his posture, the slight droop of the shoulders, perhaps, that touched Jean. She wanted to go to him and hold his head against her breast, to stroke his soft hair and offer him what comfort she could.

He seemed to her now not so much a man as a well meaning but overpampered child. Life had tricked him, and he hadn't the character to adjust himself to the new conditions.

Lionel had not spoken when Jean said quietly: "Your mother and father are calling for a showdown about the wife?"

He turned pleading eyes to hers. "It's just as bad. Or worse. They kept after me until at last I had to be specific. I told them she would come back from her alleged visit to Massachusetts * * * tomorrow!"

"Oh!" He had reason to be worried, Jean told herself. Having committed himself, he had either to produce said wife or admit the truth. "And you still look to me for help, Lionel? Do you realize what it means to me? I'm not an actress. Pretending to be something that I'm not is the hardest thing I do."

"I know, Jean. If I had an ounce of courage, I'd simply go to mother and tell her what happened. But I can't. It's impossible. * * * You know how mothers are. Why, she * * *"

Jean nodded quickly. "I understand, I don't remember much about my own mother, but * * * she must have been like that, sweet and innocent, and thinking because she's good, the world's good."

Lionel came back from the window and stood before her.

"You'd only be pretending for the time being, Jean. In a month or two we'd be married. * * *

"But if we weren't, Lionel? Your parents would discover the deception sooner or later."

"But we will be!" Lionel insisted. "I think not, Lionel. * * * I am very fond of you and there are several things to recommend you for a husband, among them being what I took to be the evidence of wealth on the part of your father when I saw him at the office. Money doesn't matter, you know, and I've never had but very little. * * * Still, Lionel, I somehow can't imagine you and me as husband and wife. I'm afraid it wouldn't last any longer than * * * your first venture."

"You mean that you would leave me? For no reason at all? I don't believe it."

Jean laughed nervously. "We've gotten way off the course. Just now you're in trouble and you're asking me to help you. You told you mother she—your wife—would come back tomorrow?" And then, so suddenly that Lionel flinched, "All right. I'll do it. I'll make a fool of myself, but—if I make a mess of it the consequences are yours."

Lionel dropped on his knees before her chair and caught her arms eagerly. "You're wonderful! You're too wonderful, Jean! And if we make a go of it——"

Because he expected it, she kissed him, gently, and made him get to his feet. "There's no time for ifs, now, Lionel. We've too much to do. For one thing, we ought to rehearse if I'm to be able to say, 'Yes, Lionel dear' as if I meant it. Can you run up for an hour tonight?"

"Yes, of course, but," abruptly, "your roommate? Will she be in?"

"I don't know. Perhaps we'd better go somewhere."

Obviously this suggestion was more to his liking. "I'll be in front of the house at 7:30. When you hear the horn——"

"Never mind the horn. I'll be at the door waiting." She pulled his watch from his vest pocket. It was 8:45. "Look at the time, and we standing here as if we had all day. I've got to go to the factory."

"I'll take you. The car's outside."

But she shook her head. "You go to the office. I've some work to do here first." * * * She pushed him toward the door, and then went to the window to wait until he had driven off.

Presently she returned to her diary, and wrote hastily:

"I've done it * * * Lionel just dropped up full of trouble. * * * I'm an idiot for doing it, but I promised to pose as his wife while his mother and father are in New York. * * * We're going somewhere tonight to get used to the idea. * * * I must be mad. * * * Going to the factory now." * * *

Miss Trelling had come by the office and brought Jean's mail.

Among the letters was a broad envelop, distinctly male, and in it a small slip of note paper on which was written:

"Dear Jean:

"Why * * *"

"SANDY."

She tore it into small pieces, and flung the bits into a wastebasket.

Why, indeed! There were a thousand whys she could put to him, and for better reason. Did his note mean that he still believed Marcia the innocent and charming young woman he had taken her to be? Hadn't he even bothered to investigate the charges she, Jean, had made against Marcia in their last stormy session?

But then she refused to think any more about it. "I despise him!" she told herself grimly, and hoped fervently that she would never see him again.

The race with time continued. Jean had never seen a group so intent upon anything as were these young women. There was not much show of industry, only the staccato song of typewriters and the regular movement of hands; but the amount of work they did was astounding.

"Two weeks now," Jean thought, "and it will all be over. Two weeks and Jean Melba, of Kelsey, Conn., will be one of two things * * * Mrs. Phillip Baldwin * * * or the girl who went looking for adventure, found it, and ended up exactly where she started."

Back in her room at the end of the day, Jean was almost overcome with weariness. More of spirit than of body. But Mollie's arrival shortly after 6 cheered her. Mollie was almost her old self, talking incessantly, and occasionally laughing at her own exuberance.

Jean watched her get out of one frock and into another and thought she saw the evidence of another of Mollie's "weighty dates." But she was due for a shock.

"Well, honey," said Mollie presently. "I've found where the brute lives and very soon he'll be hearing the saddest little story of his career."

"You mean * * *" Her husband, of course. Then: "I'm glad, Mollie. But try to be fair to him. Why don't you suggest a new start? However, you felt about marriage before, there's a good reason for it now. And you might, * * * she thought of what Lionel had said to her that morning, * * * "and you might make a go of it * * *"

Mollie smiled, tolerantly. "I won't laugh at you, darling. You mean well. But I'm like Shakespeare: I never repeat. One attempt was enough. Just between us, too much! * * * Is that clock right?"

Jean turned and looked at the clock. It was 6:30. She jumped to her feet and caught up her hat and coat. Mollie was just about to go out the door. Now she stopped and stared at Jean curiously.

"What's the excitement? You got a date, too?"

"Yes," Jean smiled; "he's waiting outside in his car. Why not let us take you to where you're going?"

Mollie snapped off the light and locked the door.

"Every little lift appreciated," she replied. "Think your boy friend won't mind?"

"Of course not." The color rose in Jean's cheeks. "Only he isn't my boy friend," she added. "He's one of my two bosses, and an awfully nice young man."

They walked down the stairs arm in arm and out to the sidewalk.

A machine was standing by the curb. Jean recognized Lionel just getting out on the opposite side. He came around the machine and bowed, a little stiffly, Jean thought.

She held out a hand to him, smiling. "I want you to know my roommate, Lionel * * * Miss Wilder * * *"

Lionel said quietly: "I * * * I've had the pleasure before, I believe * * *"

Jean turned quickly and saw Mollie smiling sardonically. "Oh," she said, surprised, "I didn't realize you two * * * knew each other * * *"

Mollie's smile increased. "We don't," she said slowly; "not very well, that is. This, Jean, is * * * my husband."

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE CARE OF MILK.

(Bureau of Dairy Industry.)

The consumer must share with those who produce and handle milk the responsibility of keeping it sweet and pure until used. It must be kept in a clean, cool place, free from undesirable odors and put only in vessels scrupulously clean.

The care of the refrigerator plays an important part in the keeping quality of milk stored in it. It should be inspected at least once a week and thoroughly cleaned at regular intervals.

Skim milk, although lacking in fat, contains practically all the proteins, sugar and mineral matter of the whole milk and is especially useful in cooking and combining with other foods.

Condensed, evaporated and dried milk may often be used in place of fresh milk when the latter is not available. For feeding children these preparations may not, however, entirely take the place of fresh milk, and should be supplemented by fruits and vegetables.

The fat in cream and butter is very thoroughly and easily digested and carries with it relatively large amounts of vitamin A.

Soups, beverages and desserts made chiefly of milk are appetizing ways of serving it, especially for persons who do not like to drink plain milk.

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

THE family names "MacRay," "MacRea," "MacCraith," "Magraw," and "Magrath" are all derived from the same Celtic source, and mean "the son of Raith." "Raith" was an old personal name meaning "grace," "fortune," and "prosperity." However, it has been found that in a few cases "MacRae," "MacRay," and "MacRea" mean "the son of Ray."

The family name "Ray" is derived from several quite different sources. When it is of English origin, it means "the roe," being derived from the Anglo saxon "ra" or "rah" with that meaning. This name was very popular in England in early days since it was considered to be of a highly complimentary character. It will be recalled that it was once a common custom to display the pictures or images of animals before private dwellings, as well as before inns and taverns, as a means of identification. Thus, the family name "Ray" often means "he who lives at the signs of the roe." Sometimes "Ray" is of French origin, and means "the king." In such cases it was first given as a nickname to a proud person or to one who had taken the part of a king in a pageant. "Ray" has also come down to us from two Celtic sources, according to which it may mean either "he who lives at a plain or level," or "the gray or brindled person." Finally, "Ray" sometimes stands for "Wray." A certain Reginald le Raye and a Nicholas le Ray are mentioned in the hundred rolls.

The family name "Wray" (often confused with "Ray") is found in the earliest English records. It is ultimately of Scandinavian origin, and its full significance is "he who lives in the nook or corner." A certain Thomas del Wra is mentioned in an English register of the year 1379.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—The movies, of all art, forms and industries, offer women the greatest number of opportunities. At least twenty vocations are available to women in motion picture studios.

Positions ranging from actual supervision of productions (a rank just above directing) to needlework in the wardrobe departments may be filled and are being filled by women.

In between are such well-paying occupations as story reading, fashion designing, millinery, publicity, camera portraiture, and their various branches, not to mention acting and scenario writing.

LAURA HOPE CREWS

A very responsible position in Hollywood is being capably handled by a former actress, Laura Hope Crews, who didn't have to start at the bottom of the movie ladder.

She was on the stage for 30 years, and came here about two years ago to coach Norma Talmadge. Then she coached Gloria Swanson, and helped write and direct "The Trespasser."

Now she is editorial adviser for pictures made by Pathe. It is her job to watch the "woman's angle," to try to inject into every film story something that will have a distinct appeal to members of her own sex.

Ann Lost.

Miss Crews suggested the play "Holiday" as a vehicle for Ann Harding, but Miss Harding felt that it was not her type of story.

Miss Crews was certain it would be Ann's biggest success and offered to bet her $50 it would be. Ann accepted and, of course, she lost.

In the majority of cases the way to these various positions for the ambitious woman or girl untrained in movie methods is through the secretarial or stenographic departments. Dorothy Arzner, the only active woman director, started as a stenographer.

Back at Cameras.

Girls trained in shorthand reporting can aspire to becoming script clerks on the sets—the girls who jot down voluminous notes as the various scenes are played so that no anachronisms will appear in later scenes.

Script clerks, in turn, can hope to become film editors, or cutters, and from cutters they can become directors or scenarists.

Dinner Dance-Planned For Russian Exiles.

Unusual Russian entertainment and dancing will characterize "A Night in Little Russia," to be given Tuesday evening, December 16 at 9 o'clock at the Little Russia Restaurant. The dinner dance is being given for the benefit of the Russian exiles now in Sofia, Bulgaria. Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie is chairman of the committee, and the patronesses are women thoroughly familiar with conditions in the East and near-East.

Mrs. Mark Bristol, one of the patronesses, was in the near-East when her husband was admiral of the fleet there. Mr. George Tench Marye, another patroness, is the wife of the former Ambassador to Russia; others are Mrs. Charles James Bell, who has been interested in Russian relief for many years; Princess Cantacuzene and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, who was chairman of the first Russian relief.

The other patronesses whose names have been linked for years with this work are Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Sydney Cloman, Mrs. Charles Denby, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock and Mrs. J. Thompson Wailes.

Mrs. L. E. Feldman has been working with Mrs. Imbrie to raise funds for the relief of the 250,000 refugees in Bulgaria. The benefit dinner dance is a part of this great philanthropic work. A special Russian dinner will be served. There will be music and dancing. Special Russian entertainment will be brought from New York to assist. Those who attend the dinner will also be entertained by Serge Abagoff, the dagger dancer; Asia Dalskay and Urei Istomin, gypsy singers from Kousnetzou's Russian Opera, and the Little Russia Balalaika.

Drawing North and South 500 Miles Closer Together

The tablet pictured was struck in bronze to commemorate the extension of air passenger service to Atlanta, Miami and St. Petersburg services will begin on January 1st. Over 10,000 miles of daily flying will then be covered by 40 planes of the mail and passenger schedules of this Company. The new links of Eastern Air Transport will join a great network of national and inter-national airways — including the Southern Transcontinental to the Pacific Coast, connections with West Indies and Latin America, and service over the Eastern Seaboard via New York and Boston to Canada.

Eastern Air Transport has flown the United States mails more than 3,000,000 miles, with a notable record of efficiency. In addition to 24 mail planes, a fleet of 16 new and luxurious passenger planes is fully equipped with precision instruments, latest scientific improvements and controls. An organization trained by experience in every detail of air transport, covers the entire extent of this Company's lines.

Eastern Air Transport contemplates its business under the opinion that public service demands the highest factors of dependability and comfort. This opinion dominates the operations of this Company. Representatives and agencies will be glad to outline the advantages, economy, convenience, cleanliness and enjoyment of travel via E. A. T. lines.

AVAL STILL HOPES TO CREATE CABINET

rench Senator Planning to Do Without Help From Radical Socialists.

AYS HASTE IS NEEDED

Paris, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Senator Pierre aval, charged by President Doumergue to form a new cabinet to replace the defeated Tardieu ministry, reported to the president tonight that e still hoped to succeed despite setacks he had met with during the ay.

After a conference with Edouard erriot, former premier and a radical ocialist leader, Senator Laval made a tatement which was interpreted as eaning that he would assemble a binet without aid of the radical ocialists, the chief stumbling block far. This followed a meeting of e radicals.

"In view of the apparent deadlock parties," he said, "and the evident ferences of opinion between the nate and the Chamber of Deputies, is most important that the governnt be formed as soon as possible." This interpretation was bolstered the fact that M. Laval announced also had arranged a conference th Andre Tardieu, the premier erthrown last week.

It is considered that no French binet would have much chance thout M. Tardieu, but the fact that insists on at least one member of e rightist group—which has always cked him—being included has used the opposition of the radical cialists. On the other hand, the ht group, led by Louis Marin and lding nearly 100 seats in the chamr, has insisted on two cabinet portlos or one minister and two undercretaries of state.

The attitude of the two groups ade it extremely improbable that M. val could secure any wide concention of parties in his ministry and litical observers felt tonight that, e Tardieu, he must omit the radical cialists from his calculations and m a ministry, much like that of his decessor, leaning on the center and derate right elements.

WORK'S RADIO BRIDGE GAME

Four of America's most brilliant bridge players met in the third of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge games, heard yesterday afternoon from Station WRC. This famous quartet consisted of Miss Rosamund Vahey, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. William C. Ryan, of San Antonio, Tex.; William J. Wall, of Ottawa, Canada, and R. R. Richards, of Detroit, Mich., all of whom have won repute as teachers, writers, lecturers or championship players of Auction and Contract.

Their hands were: Miss Vahey, Dealer, South—Spades, A, K, Q, 9, 5, 2; Hearts, K, 8, 4, 2; Diamonds, 9; Clubs, K, 9. Mr. Richards, West—Spades, 3; Hearts, A, Q, 3; Diamonds, A, K, J, 10, 8, 6; Clubs, A, Q, 7. Mr. Wall, North—Spades, J, 7, 6; Hearts, 10, 9, 6, 5; Diamonds, Q, 3; Clubs, 6, 5, 4, 3. Mrs. Ryan, East—Spades, 10, 8, 4; Hearts, J, 7; Diamonds, 7, 5, 4, 2; Clubs, J, 10, 8, 2.

Although Miss Vahey, South, held a conventional opening bid of two Spades in her six-card suit headed by Ace-King-Queen, she opened the auction with one Spade, evidently because she had the King and three small Hearts and would have welcomed a Heart take-out by her partner should her partner have strength to make such bid. No doubt she also planned, in case her partner took her out in No Trump, to rebid the Spades, expecting North to rebid No Trump if really strong in it and weak in Spades.

Mr. Richards, West, had the strength to double South's Spade bid informatorily, but with only three Hearts and three Clubs, it was clear that he should play his long, strong Diamonds; and there was no need for him to disclose his general strength unnecessarily. Therefore he neither doubled nor preempted, but bid only two Diamonds. North and East passed, and South went to two Spades. West bid three Diamonds, North and East passed, and South went her limit in bidding three Spades. Mr. Richards, West, advanced to four Diamonds, which held the bid. South dared not go further in the face of Mr. Richards' strong bidding and her partner's silence, for fear of a double.

Mr. Wall, North, led the Jack of Spades, the highest of three cards of his partner's suit; Dummy, East, played the 4. Miss Vahey, South, so as to be able to continue Spades in case her partner's Jack was a singleton, overplayed with the Queen; Mr. Richards, West, played the Trey; Miss Vahey continued with the King of Spades; Mr. Richards, Declarer, ruffed with the Jack of Diamonds; North and East followed suit with the 7 and 8 Spades.

Declarer, to trick three, led the Ace of Diamonds; North played the Trey, Dummy the Deuce; and South the 9. To draw the last adverse trump, Mr. Richards next led the King of Diamonds; North played the Queen; Dummy the 4; South the Deuce of Spades.

Mr. Richards then led the 8 of Diamonds over to Dummy's 7. North discarded the 9 of Spades, since he did not wish to disclose his Club weakness to Declarer; South discarded the 5 of Spades.

Declarer, to trick six, led Dummy's Jack of Hearts. Miss Vahey, South, holding King and three small Hearts, could with propriety have played small, but she covered with the King, hoping thereby to make a high Heart good in her partner's hand. Declarer won with the Ace; North played the 6. Mr. Richards continued with the Queen of Hearts; Mr. Wall, North, played the 5; Dummy the 7; South the Deuce. Mr. Richards next led the Trey of Hearts; North played the 9; Dummy ruffed with the 5 of Diamonds; South played the 4 of Hearts.

To trick nine, Dummy led the Jack of Clubs. With the 10 of Clubs in Dummy, Miss Vahey, South, was placed in an almost hopeless position; but having only two Clubs, it was clearly her duty once more to cover with the King. She did so, and Mr. Richards won the trick with the Ace, Mr. Wall, North, playing the Trey.

Mr. Richards then placed his cards on the table, claiming the rest of the tricks with his two trumps, the Queen of Clubs in his own hand and the 10 in Dummy. He scored 42 for tricks, 80 for honors and 50 for a small slam. At Progressive or Duplicate he would also have scored 125 for game in one hand.

In commenting on the play of the hand, Mr. Work marked as the notable feature the clever establishment of entries in Dummy's hand by Mr. Richards. So that Dummy's 7 of trumps would be an entry, Mr. Richards made his first ruff (trick two) with the Jack. Ruffing with the 8 would have been as effective in producing a Dummy entry; but there was a remote possibility that Mr. Wall, North, had no more Spades, and if so, it was important to shut out a possible winning with the 9 of trumps.

After the adverse trumps had been drawn, Mr. Richards put Dummy in with the trump 7 and then led the Heart Jack, choosing the Heart finesse instead of the Club because, whether it failed or not, he could put Dummy in again with a trump on the third Heart round and try the Club. If Mr. Wall, in the North, had held the King of Hearts, Mr Richards would have trumped his own winning Heart on the third round so as to lead the Jack of Clubs from Dummy. The lead of the Jack of Clubs assured three Club tricks if Miss Vahey, South, held the King, which Mr. Richards felt was probable in view of the bidding.

Had the hand been played at Contract, the Dealer, South, would have bid two Spades, showing six tricks, three of which were high-card tricks, held by the bidder. West would have bid five Diamonds. Of course, five tricks were not assured with his hand, but he had a holding which with a little help from partner would produce game; and partner might be able to render that help and yet not be strong enough to bid.

Mr. Work admitted that with East's hand, he himself would not raise West's bid to a small slam, although that slam actually was made. He called attention to the fact that when, with all the cards in view, you know that a slam can be made, it is easy to say that a slam should be bid; but that double-dummy judgment very closely resembles an opinion on the stock market by a "3 o'clock" broker. He closed his comments on the bidding with this bit of advice: "Do not weep over slams which were not bid but could have been made by getting all the breaks; save your tears for the hands in which you bid for a slam, but do not make it."

Mr. Work closed his talk by giving Questions 5 and 6 in his Bridge Handicap series. These questions are based on the following hands: SOUTH (Dealer) holds—SPADES, A, 10, 6; HEARTS, J, 6; DIAMONDS, 5; CLUBS, A, Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 3. NORTH (Third Hand) holds —SPADES, K, J, 2; HEARTS, 9, 8, 4; DIAMONDS, A, Q, 10, 9, 2; CLUBS, K, 7.

South is the Declarer playing a Club contract (at Contract Bridge five Clubs), West has bid Hearts, and East has passed whenever it was his turn to declare. West, tricks one to three, leads the King, Queen and Ace of Hearts. East follows suit.

5. Which card should South play on trick 3?

6. Which cards should Declarer play from his two hands on trick 4?

These questions will be answered by Mr. Work during the sixth radio game.

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

Enter the Villain.

BRR-RRR-RRR! There's a villain pursuing Betty! He has warned her that he stops at nothing. And naturally Betty is all agog. He is a friend of her girl friend's brother, and the brother has warned her, too. Isn't it just wonderful? The teamwork, I mean. Can't you see the villain and his boy friend cooking up the tales that have Betty wide-eyed. Listen in:

"He is different. Dark and very quiet. He says he stops at nothing. My girl friend says he makes her think of a beetle. But I am just crazy about him. He goes with her brother and they work in the same place. Her brother says not to monkey with him as he is dynamite. Once he told me he hated women. He said he trusted one once and never again. I do not know what he meant. He is assistant clerk and is 26. At night he studies. Always studying. He says you have to "get somewhere."

"One night he asked me if I ever read anything besides love stories and the next day I received a book about the French Revolution. I could not even pronounce the names. Sunday he came to the house. He said "Go get the book." And there he sat for three hours reading the darn book to me instead of taking me out. Then he starts asking me what he read. I told him I was thinking of the date I had and not what he was reading. He said 'I see.' And he left. Next day my friend's brother told me not to monkey with him.

"He came back in about a week. And now he comes every Sunday. He will not come evenings. Says he has to get up early. Don't you hate that? He has just got me nowheres. I asked him if he liked me. He said 'Like you—what does that mean?' Why does he come to see me? He never even holds my hand! One night I took hold of his. He said 'Women are like monkeys, they have to be holding on to something all the time, and anything will do.'

"When he told me about stopping at nothing was once we were to a movie. The wife in the picture was cheating all the time. I asked him what he would do if his wife ever did that way and he said if any woman he cared for, wife or no wife, did like that she would find he stopped at nothing. All night I could not sleep.

"I would like to marry him. Or some one just like him. Do you think he would ever marry me? Would I have to read and all that? He reads and reads. When he sees some of the true story magazines around he has a fit. He says anybody's mind is just like dough, it never amounts to anything till you give it some yeast to start it going and then nothing can stop it. All things like that he tells me. I like to listen to him, really. And watch him. I could watch him forever. He looks sad, but not in a dumb way. I asked him what was a Red? He told me all about it and said not to call them Reds. Then he asked me why I did not work or do something so I would grow up. He always acts as if he liked me, but did not want me to like him—or maybe the other way round. I do not know. When I ask my girl friend about 'm she says he gives her the creeps.

"If you can tell me something I would appreciate it. Does he sound like dynamite Or do you think he likes me a little?" BETTY.

And we imagine he likes Betty, but is wondering how on earth a man who loves to study could ever be happy ever after with a little girl who stopped thinking when she left High. If Betty is wise she will indeed study and read and be something more than a bundle of prettiness, with a brain that makes a serious young man think of a baton of dough that no one had thought to drop any yeast into Betty! Love is just mentalities in tune. Go to night school, study history, read. Drop in the yeast before the vallain escapes.

LINDSEY'S COUNSEL SEEKS WITNESSES

Rev. Eliot White, Manning oFe, Tells of Daughter's "Companionate" Pact.

TRIAL SET FOR FRIDAY

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Counsel for former Judge Ben. B. Lindsey, of Denver, sought today to enlist witnesses who saw him leap onto a table Sunday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and demand a chance to answer Bishop William T. Manning's attack on companionate marriage.

The witnesses will be asked to testify in the jurist's behalf when he is brought to court Friday on a charge of disorderly conduct. The bishop has been subpenaed.

White Backs Lindsey.

Meanwhile, the Rev. Eliot White, rector of Grace Episcopal Church and an opponent of Bishop Manning on the companionate marriage issue, disclosed that two months ago he officiated at his own daughter's marriage, which he called companionate because it was preceded by an agreement with the bridegroom that they would "postpone the advent of children."

His daughter, Shirley, 22, was married October 18 to Chester C. H. Eucker, 28, of Roselle, N. J.

"Judge Lindsey is merely trying to formulate a code of marriage which shall take into account that which many women of clean thought and sensible minds really advocate," Mr. White said. "He deserved to remain in the cathedral, and not to be taken out by police and detectives."

Manning Leaves Services.

Bishop Manning, who has been on the verge of illness, attended dedication services of St. Bartholomew's Church today, but departed because of an indisposition before the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, one of his severest critics in diocesan matters.

Dr. Norwood suggested to his congregation a prayer for forgiveness for "all our bickerings, personal jealousies and overcritical attitude toward one another."

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

TWO Washington favorites are having their fling on the boards this week—Miss Helen Hayes and Frederick Perry.

Miss Hayes, a Washingtonian by birth, has her new play well in hand at the Belasco. It came here after a three-day session in Wilmington, Del., which is fast becoming the try-out town of America.

Mr. Perry, having assumed almost every role known in the successful concoction of crime plays, returns to the National Theater as the foreman of a jury. His ardent friend and admirer, Dr. Ralph Graves, lays the palm at the feet of the thespian and says, "This is the best performance of a long and distinguished career."

The House of Frohman is responsible for the production of the new Helen Hayes play, "Petticoat Influence," by Neil Grant. It means that Mr. Gilbert Miller is in town again. His last journey was here with the ill-fated "Marseilles," the work of Marcel Pagnol, which is now resting peaceably in the limbo of theatricals—Kane's Storehouse. However, there is rumor of a revival. It is said that Otis Skinner, having looked upon the play before it was snatched bodily from the New York stage, thinks of having it rewritten and hopes to take "Marseilles" out on the road next season.

When Katharine Cornell was here not so long ago, in "Dishonored Lady," she expressed a desire to portray the character of Elizabeth Browning. Now comes word that Mr. Guthrie McClintic, the star's husband, is on his way to London to get the script of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." This is the dramatization of the lives of Robert and Elizabeth Browning. Incidentally, Miss Cornell closes her current tour with "Dishonored Lady" in Boston on the twentieth of this month. So she will be able to start rehearsals on the new play as soon as her husband gets back from Europe.

Negotiations are now going on between Mr. Harry Henkel, manager of Ford's Theater, in Baltimore, and Mr. S. E. Cochran, manager of the National Theater in this city, to the end that Washington may have a look at W. C. Fields in "Ballyhoo," the musical comedy launched in the Monumental City on Monday night. The scribes seem to like it, and Ford's Theater is doing a rushing business. Of course, whether Washington sees the new work of art rests upon many contingencies. There are the booking agents to be considered; this, that, and the other thing—and way for a comedian in New York.

From Mr. Wallace Munro, the sage of theatricals, it is learned that the Christmas present par excellence will be the presentation of two good seats to John Drinkwater's play, "Bird in Hand," which Mr. Munro is heralding as one of the greatest pieces of theater ever dashed off by the erudite English author. "A 'Bird in Hand,'" says Mr. Munro, "is worth two in the bush—and two theater tickets to 'Bird in Hand' are worth more than almost any other present of equal price that could be given a wife or a sweetheart." The husbands will get a bird-in-hand necktie, the new style taking the place of the four-in-hand.

Booth Tarkington, having recovered his eyesight, has gone to work again for the theater. His latest play is called "Colonel Satan," and Mr. George C. Tyler, producing for the Erlangers, will cast McKay Morris, the former Fort Myer boy, in the title role. The play is scheduled to open the night after Christmas in Columbus, Ohio, and Mr. Tyler writes that he hopes Columbus will discover the great American drama.

Some day the Maude Adams rumors will be spiked and put at rest. It is now said that Philip Merivale has been selected as leading man for the star on her return to the stage; that as Mr. Merivale is now engaged in another play the Maude Adams return engagement is being postponed until Mr. Merivale is Mr. Mer-available.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"THE FARM BOY'S REVOLT," AN UNEMPLOYMENT ERA DRAMA.

PELTON was country-born. He had spent all his life in the wide open spaces. His father owned one of the biggest fruit farms in the State. He was known as the Apple King of Calabash County. Pelton had been raised among apples. There wasn't much he didn't know about them.

• • • •

From the time he was able to work he had been employed by Old Man Petticombe on the apple farm. It seemed to him that he was in a small world entirely surrounded by apples. And he was getting pretty sick of them.

• • • •

Pelton wanted to do something bigger and better. Most of all he wanted to get away from the country and go to the big city where he could see life and where there were big opportunities. And where, he hoped there were no apples. Old Man Petticombe scoffed at such ideas. All the Petticombes had been apple kings. His father had originated the famous "Silver Bell Giant" and the "Petticombe Golden Dawn" apple. His grandfather had been one of the pioneer apple growers. And Old Man Petticombe had Pelton's lifework all cut out for him. He wanted him to carry on the family tradition.

• • • •

Pelton had other notions. He wanted the bright lights of the metropolis. He yearned for excitement, action, romance. He wasn't quite certain just what business he wanted to get into, but he was very positive that it would be a business in which apples figured in no way whatsoever. Apples were out of it. He was sick of them. He hated the smell, the feel, the taste of them. Bah!

• • • •

ONE day just before the apple harvesting season set in in earnest Old Man Petticombe found a note. It read:

"Dad: Couldn't stand life on the apple farm any longer. Have run away to the city to seek fame and fortune. Will get in touch when I make good. PELT."

• • • •

Old Man Petticombe didn't hear anything more of the boy for some years.

One day Old Man Petticombe came to the city on some business. Apple business, obviously. As he came up out of the subway downtown his eye caught a shabby figure stamping in the cold to keep warm. There was a box at his feet. Old Man Petticombe was about to shift his gaze when he observed something familiar in the movements of the youth as he reached down into the box. He looked intently and came closer. Yes, it was Pelton.

The young man at this instant saw his father and turned away, pulling his old cap down over his eyes. But it didn't work.

"Hello, son," said Old Man Petticombe, choking a little. "What're you doing?"

"I'm in business for myself," said Pelton, smiling rather wanly.

"What kind of business?" asked Old Man Petticombe.

"The kind you always wanted me to be in," replied Pelton. "Apples!"

DO I CARE?

Do I care, sir, if this State falls,
Or that State raises tariff walls?
Or factions in Brazil rebel
Because their coffee does not sell?

Am I concerned if in far Spain
They suffer from a lack of rain;
Or just because of Old Jupe's touch
In Germany it rains too much?

Do I fret if the queen of Abyssinia has a twelve-pound baby?
Do I care if toward its Kulaks
The Russian "Reds" are acting too lax?

BORDER COMEDY.

The train had crossed the Canadian border into the United States and passengers had been asked to leave their bags open for the customs men. Mr. Blank opened his and placed two quarts of rye on top and a $5 bill under one bottle. Then he went to breakfast. When he got back he found that the customs men had made their visit. In his bag were two additional bottles and this note:

"Taken from the d— tightwad across the aisle."

IT DOESN'T MEAN ANYTHING.

"I have two automobiles, you know," the gentleman was explaining.

"Two?" repeated his friend, in some surprise and wondering why the fellow was boasting.

"Oh, it isn't that I can afford 'em," he explained. "I just can't find anybody to buy one of 'em."

GUNMEN broke into a New York insane asylum the other day and stole six inmates. This would seem to be fair warning to our penal institutions that they had better take out burglary insurance.

ROBBERIES DESULT IN 10 INDICTMENTS

Number Largest in Many oMnths; Three Named in Three Bills.

2 LISTED AS FUGITIVES

Ten persons were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on charges of robbery, three of them being named in three distinct indictments.

Heading the list are John R. Martin, 30 years old; Clyde M. Fisher, 20 years old, and Vincent Delcher, 18 years old. Each is named in three indictments in which robbery is charged. They are described by the police as "the boy bandits." Joseph A. Cross, 18 years old, another member of the reputed gang, is named in only one indictment.

The bill in which the four are charged alleges that they held up Robert Groce, a groceryman, about midnight, November 22, at the point of a pistol. The prisoners are said to have followed the groceryman from his store at Fifteenth and A streets southeast and to have forced him to surrender $125.

Filling station robberies figure in the two other indictments against Martin, Fisher and Delcher. One charges the holdup of a station at Fifteenth and D street southeast, November 28, and the holdup and robbery of a station at 2715 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, the same night.

More Accused of Robbery.

Philip Sharp, Earnest Holmes and Robert Sharp, Negroes, are named in an indictment charging them with the holdup and robbery of Robert Lee, on South Capitol street near N street, the night of November 23.

William H. Bell, alias Tom Thumb, and Joe Brown, alias Red Top, are indicted on a charge of robbery in connection with the holdup of Dina Wollstein. They are said to have entered a store at 441 Delaware avenue southwest, and to have relieved the proprietor of $8.

George Reed was indicted on a charge of robbery in connection with the snatching of a pocketbook from Pauline Block, of 2307 Calvert street northwest, November 26.

The number of persons implicated in robbery indictments is said to be the largest in many months.

For the first time in the District, the grand jury indicted two persons on charges of escape from a Federal penal institution. The law making such offense a felony was passed last May 14. Both indictments are in connection with escapes from the National Training School for Boys and involve Austin Fearell, 16 years old, and Herman Norman, 18-year-old, Negro. Both have been recaptured.

Manslaughter Charge.

George Warren Graham was indicted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mary Kierman, November 23, on Rhode Island avenue near V street northeast. The woman was hit as she crossed the street with her brother-in-law, Harry B. Heiberger, who was injured.

Charges of forgery and uttering are contained in an indictment returned against James J. Powers. The man is alleged to have cashed American Express Co. traveler's checks to a total of $400, which William Hurworth, of Butte, Mont., had reported having been stolen from him at a New York Hotel. Powers was apprehended in Palm Beach, Fla., and returned.

Capt. Frank Giannoni was indicted on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the reported stripping of electrical fixtures from a boat moored near his converted subchaser, Anna.

Fiscal Relations Group Reaffirms Funds Stand

The committee on fiscal relations of the District, made up of representatives of trade and civic organizations, vote yesterday to reaffirm its position on a petition drawn up last spring, in which a larger contribution to the District from the Federal Government is asked.

The petition, signed by leaders of the organizations represented on the committee, will be submitted to the congressional committee on fiscal relations. The District committee is made up of representatives of the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and the Federation of Citizens Associations. Theodore W. Noyes is chairman of the committee.

TOY FUND OF POST NEARS $1,000 MARK

faced the possibility of awaking on Christmas morning with empty stockings, no Christmas trees, no candy and with dreams of Santa Claus shattered. All this has been changed by the wonderful response to The Post's plea for funds with which to furnish these unfortunate children with some of the "goodies" which go to make Christmas a real success.

The fund is rapidly nearing the $1,000 mark. That amount will buy a lot of toys and candy, but the amount ought to be doubled between now and December 21. Every child deserves a "good break" at Christmas, for the boys and girls are not responsible for conditions which have made it impossible for their parents to furnish the things they desire.

Remember, the Christmas joy for these children will be furnished through their own parents wherever possible, as The Post believes it unfair to have the mothers and fathers sit by while strangers deliver to their youngsters presents which they are unable to provide.

Send in your contribution today and make some family happier on Christmas. Every dollar will help a lot and even the pennies, nickels and dimes of children soon mount up to sizable sums which can furnish much happiness for other less fortunate boys and girls. The Gift Box is located in The Post lobby for all who care to give, and The Post Toy Fund Editor is ready to receive your check or cash. Let's put the idea over the top in a big way!

Traffic Revision Bill Found Faulty

Commissioners Plan to Complete Work on Measure Today.

The District Commissioners and Corporation Counsel William W. Bride spent another afternoon discussing the wording of the redrafted traffic bill yesterday, and planned to complete the revision today.

The new measure was given the approval of Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, earlier in the afternoon, but when it reached the Commissioners a few words were found to be still at fault.

As explained in The Post yesterday, the revised bill is expected to retain the joint board, while taking away some of the specific provisions formerly ascribed for joint action in case of conflict. Even under the revised bill the District Commissioners are thought to have taken much of the authority away from the Utilities Commission.

Lots to Be Condemned For School Purposes

Seven lots, comprising a tract adjoining the Harrison School, Thirteenth street near W northwest, are to be condemned, that the land may be acquired for school purposes, according to an order adopted by the District Commissioners yesterday.

The lots are Nos. 94, 95, 96, 97, 98 and 100 in square 235, and have brick tenement houses for colored on them.

GAS FUMES END LIFE OF STUDENT WRITER

Suicide Is Declared Member of Leading Family in Macon, Ga.

MOVED HERE RECENTLY

Martin Calhoun Burghard, 26-year-old lawyer and student writer of Macon, Ga., was found dead yesterday morning, in his gas-filled room on the fourth floor of a house on Massachusetts avenue, near Fourteenth street northwest.

Burghard, a member of a prominent Georgia family, had been in Washington only a short time. He recently failed in an examination for the foreign service, it is said, and had taken a room in the boarding house while seeking employment. He was found on the floor of his room shortly before noon yesterday, by Edward Pierce, 14 years old, an employe of the house. A heavy blanket was wrapped about his head, and a tube from a gas jet on the wall was pouring its fumes under the cover. Dr. S. Schwartzback, of Emergency Hospital, who was summoned to the scene, said he had been dead for several hours.

A number of notes addressed to his family in Georgia, and one giving an explanation of his act addressed to a friend, Oscar Strackbein, of 1900 H street northwest, were found on a table in the room. Strackbein declared that he had talked to Burghard about 9 o'clock Monday night, and he appeared to be in the best of spirits. The contents of the note left to the friend were not disclosed. A will found with the letters, named Strackbein as beneficiary.

Burghard was a graduate of Mercer University in Macon, and was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Shelves of books on philosophic and political subjects were found in his room. He had been attempting recently to earn a living by writing short stories and poetry, according to other tenants in the building. He had told Strackbein on Monday night that he was "writing something which he would show him pretty soon." The typewriter on which the explanation of his suicide was written was found neatly in its place when police arrived.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frances N. Burghard, of Macon, Ga., a brother, August Burghard, jr., of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and two sisters also of Macon. Police last night notified them of the tragedy.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of death by suicide.

Early Shopping Found To Avert Old Confusion

Washington is taking its Christmas shopping early and quietly, according to reports reaching E. D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association. Mr. Shaw states that the change from the old-fashion hustle and bustle and added labor for store and postoffice employes to a quiet, smoothly moving shopping season has been noted throughout the country.

Reports from several cities this year indicate that a substantial volume of gift buying started as early as the second week in October and reached a fair volume during November, Mr. Shaw said. The shopping season started earlier in the larger cities than in the smaller, probably because of the danger of postal congestion in the larger centers, Mr. Shaw added.

How Old Are You?
Gloriously Alive At 45
My Friends: Correct Your Eating Faults and Lose Your Fat With Kruschen Salts

Yes: I'm forty-five today—built like a race horse, my friends say—and I know I feel 10 years younger than I did three months ago—and I'd hate to tell you how much fat I lost with Kruschen.

I call Kruschen Salts the "magic salts" because when I was fat and wretched, despondent and half sick all the time—it took only one bottle that I bought for 85 cents at my druggist's to liven me up—put ambition and energy into me—make me feel years younger and with the help of a change in diet show me how to lose the fat I was so ashamed of.

Cut out pastries and desserts—go easy on potatoes, cream, cheese, and butter—eat lean meat, chicken, fish, vegetables and fruits and never fail to take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Peoples Drug Stores and every other drug store worthy of the name in the World sells Kruschen Salts—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—not much to pay for buoyant health.—Adv.

INGRAM UNWORRIED AS BATTLE WITH ARMY NEARS

Magnates Fail To Rule on Lively Ball

Barnard Is Reelected; Draw Plans for Draft Parley.

Record Attendance in National, But Profits Are Less.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The American and National leagues opened their annual conclave today by drawing up the battle lines and naming committees for the arguments with the minors tomorrow over the ..dangerous .. and ..complicated problem of the draft.

The American League reelected Ernest S. Barnard president and Treasurer of the American League for a period of five years, named the new board of directors, and solved minor problems without disposing of the questions of the lively ball and the increasing home-run output. Then the league named Barnard, Frank Mavin, head of the Detroit Tigers; Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, and L. C. McAvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns, its draft committee.

The National League, after a similarly routine session, chose Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates; William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, and Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, as the league representatives in tomorrow's discussion with the committee of nine from the American Association, International and Pacific Coast leagues.

Griffith Named One Of Four Directors.

The four American League directors chosen today were Clark Griffith, of Washington; Phil Ball, of St. Louis; Frank Navin, of Detroit, and Connie Mack, of Philadelphia.

The National League elected Sam Breadon, of St. Louis; Sidney Weil, of Cincinnati; Frank B. York, of Brooklyn, and L. C. Ruch, acting president of the Philadelphia Nationals, to its new board.

William Harridge was reelected secretary of the American League for five years and Navin vice president for a one-year term.

No indication of the stand the major leagues would take tomorrow in the draft conference came from the meetings and there was no intimation that the break between the big leagues and the minors could be healed. All player dealings between the majors and the five nondraft minors ceased December 1.

Fail to Rule on Zoning Or Lively Ball.

The National League magnates, meeting in regular session while the American League owners gathered in a preliminary session to the regular meeting late tomorrow, failed to reach any conclusions on the highly controversial problems of the promiscuous home run and the lively ball, subjects slated for bitter argument.

John AA. Heydler, president of the National League, announced after the session, that zoning of the parks to restrict home runs, an idea favored by several owners, was not even discussed.

The meeting adjourned after hearing Julian W. Curtis, president of the company manufacturing the present National League ball, explained its manufacture. The subject of the lively ball will be brought up again at another meeting of the league following the draft discussion tomorrow.

Heydler announced that the National League went through its greatest season in 1930, but failed to show the profits of previous years, although the league attendance record was broken.

"Despite the Nation-wide depression, the fifty-fifth season of the National League was its best," he said. "Constantly increasing expenses of operation, however, kept half the clubs from making real profits."

The total attendance in figures for the season were 5,500,000, he said, a half million better than the 1929 season, and 136,000 above 1926, the best previous year in the league's history. Chicago led in home attendance with 1,463,674. Brooklyn played before 1,000,100 fans at home, exceeding 1,000,000 for the first time. New York proved the best road team, playing before 850,000 away from home.

Exceptionally good weather and a close race brought about the new records, Heydler said. Only 67 games were postponed because of rain all season. The league used 61,740 baseballs, another new record.

A discussion of the playing rules in the National League meetings brought no changes. A rule was passed permitting only uniformed players on the field during practice before league games.

HARVARD COACH

EDDIE CASEY.

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The rhythm and precision of the better football teams as they step off their evolutions have been mentioned as the secret of their success, and if it be true that such things count so much in football, it seems unfortunate that Mr. Ned Wayburn, the dancing master, never went in for coaching. Mr. Wayburn should achieve the rank of wizard mentor in very little time and presently find himself well up in journalism, a member of some all-America board, and with attractive pickings at his command.

His syndicate manager and promoter might be invited to sit as an honored guest among the university officials and distinguished alumni and to address them on idealism in sport as sometimes happens at university football banquets nowadays. He might, in short, find himself a big fellow in the game.

Heroic Performances of Chorus Girls Go Unsung.

I do not know by just what right, except the right of extreme gall, his syndicate and exploitation man would sit among the faculty and high alumni at the family jollification of the university and address them. But then I am not very progressive and the extension of the prerogatives of coaches and their managers has gone too fast for my appreciation.

Perhaps if Mr. Wayburn were to take up coaching now, by the end of his first successful season the coaching business would have progressed so far that his exploitation man might take over the university banquet and even the university itself as a private racket, splitting the profits with the coach on a 50-50 or 60-40 arrangement. There seems to be no limit to the prerogatives of coaches nowadays, save the nerve of their personal managers, and this, apparently, knows no limits.

In the matters of rhythm and precision, Mr. Wayburn and others of the dancing profession doubtless could give all the football coaches now in the game primary lessons.

There is no back field in the country that would not look stupid and clumsy compared with a third-string unit of lady tap-dancers coached by any one of a dozen instructors whose practice fields are the vacant stages of Broadway theaters on off-afternoons, and the rehearsal halls and the loft rooms in the Forties. The young ladies execute twenty steps to one by any back field using the most intricate shifts known to the game, and they do spinners and criss-crosses of the most amazing intricacy without missing an assignment. Yet, these performances arouse no excited essays in the papers nor tributes to the wizardry of their coaches because the ladies and also the gentlemen of the ensembles have been doing such things as the merest routine of their work for generations.

Chorines Do Not Have Training Table, Either.

This long, earnest toil to teach a football team to run through innocent maneuvers without bumping into one another does not reflect much credit on the efficiency of the coaches or the alertness of the athletes when their work is compared to that of the lady athletes of the musical comedy companies. The ladies are generally quite young, unless my eyes deceive me, and they are required to hurl themselves hither and thither with great enthusiasm in figures of the dance the mastering of which be-

Casey Named Harvard's Coach

Former Star Back to Succeed Horween as Head Mentor.

Sampson, Columbia, and Tickman to Be Assistants.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 9 (A.P.). Edward L. Casey, Harvard's all-American half back in 1919 and back field coach for the past two seasons, today was promoted to the head coach's berth for the Crimson's 1931 football season.

He succeeds Arnold Horween, coach for the past five years. Horween's teams won 21 of their 40 games, including the last 3 clashes with Yale.

Casey's promotion will be officially announced at the Harvard football smoker at the Harvard Club, of Boston, on Friday night.

Arthur Sampson, now back field coach at Columbia, will rejoin Casey here next fall as supervisor of the Crimson's ball carriers. They worked together when Casey was head coach at Tufts, the position he held until he returned to Harvard five years ago as freshman coach.

Edward H. Bradford, who has been end coach for several seasons, will again act in that capacity and Walter A. Cleary, assistant under the retiring "Duke" Dunn, former Michigan line star, will return as line coach. He will be assisted by Benjamin H. Ticknor, 1930 varsity captain and all-American center. Victor P. Kennard has been reappointed kicking coach and Edward L. Farrell, the Harvard track coach, has again been named as football trainer.

Casey, during his playing career, was under "Tad" Jones at Exeter and Percy Haughton at Harvard. He entered the Navy in 1917. The late Walter Camp, who picked Casey for his second all-American team in 1916, gave him a place on his first all-service team.

Casey started his coaching career at Mount Union College at Alliance, Ohio. He served there for two seasons and then moved back East to Tufts, where he served as head coach for three seasons.

N. Y. U. Will Reengage Meehan for Three Years

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Announcement that Chick Meehan has been reengaged as head football coach ta New York University under a new three-year contract is expected at the annual dinner in honor of the team on Thursday night.

Penn Paper Admits Grid Harmony Lack

Philadelphia, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania, the students' daily publication at the University of Pennsylvania, in commenting on the football situation at Penn, said in an editorial today:

"We are not releasing news when we say the players did not work with the coaching staff this year. Nor is it news when we say that some of them did not train."

Junedale Lady Bird First in Field Trial

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Dr. Frank Leahy's Junedale Lady Bird, a Boston entry, took first place today in the competition of the Continental Field Trial Club of America. Bell the Devil, owned by Raymond Hoagland, jr., Redbank, N. J., came second, and Dr. Leahy's Junedale Mary was third. There were 22 entries.

Rumson Farms' Goldie, owned by Hoagland, won first place in the members' stake. Farm Wood Pinky, owned by Uno M. Fleischmann, New York, was second, and Miss Jersey City, entry of W. H. McNaughton, Jersey City, was third.

The Pointer Field Trial Club will start its member stakes tomorrow.

14 Midwest Gridmen Named for Jan. 1 Game

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Coach Robert Zuppke, of Illinois, today announced the names of fourteen football players who have accepted invitations to play on the Midwestern eleven in the annual Dixie classic at Dallas, Tex., New Year's Day. Zuppke will coach the team and will be assisted by Milt Olander, member of the Illini staff.

Players who have accepted invitations are: Ends—Casey, Wisconsin; Rogge, Iowa, and Fogg, Michigan State. Tackles—Bodman, Illinois; Buttner, Purdue. Guards—Christman, Purdue; Stears, Purdue; Vanyo, Ypsilanti Normal, Michigan. Centers—Bultman, Marquette; Ridler, Michigan State. Half backs—Kissell, Purdue; Hichman, Butler; Jenavoid, Iowa. Full back—Deig, Marquette.

Florida Urges Later Grid Seasons in Dixie

Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—An amendment to the by-laws of the Southern Conference, to permit institutions to begin their football schedules at a convenient time after the opening of school and to continue ten consecutive weeks, will be proposed by Dr. J. Tigert, president of the State University, he said here today.

Dr. Tigert's proposal would be aimed for the benefit of Southern schools which under existing conditions must play some of their games in September and October. Climatic conditions, he said, make this very uncomfortable. Dr. Tigert contended the football season now ending the first of December was adopted because of climatic conditions existing in the North.

GRAMPP TRIES OUT.

Hank Grampp, Reading Keystone pitcher and former worker in the bullpen for the Chicago Cubs, is trying out with the Reading Bears' professional basket ball team. He had previous experience with several New York teams.

Unique All-American Mentions Notre Dame

St. Louis, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Here's a new all-American football team nomination.

Head Coach Al Sharpe at Washington University here, his two assistants, Gale Bullman and Johnny Davis, and James Gould, mid-Western football official, went into a huddle today and came out with the following selection:

First team—Notre Dame's starting line-up.

Second team—Notre Dame's "shock troops."

Third team—Notre Dame's third stringers.

Honorable mention—The rest of Rockne's squad.

DEHART SAYS W. & L. POST IS OPEN

Duke Coach Has Not Signed; Generals Deny Report.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Jimmy Dehart, now finishing out his last year as head football coach and athletic director at Duke University, is, by his own statement, still a free agent.

Coach Dehart returned late today to his home here after a business trip to Goldsboro and was advised of newspaper reports that he had reached an agreement with athletic officials at Washington and Lee University to coach there next year.

"That is absolutely wrong," he said. "I have been devoting all my time to other matters and have given my plans for next year very little consideration." He denied also that his assistants, Tex Tilson and Eddie Cameron, had reached any similar agreement with the Washington and Lee officials, as was reported.

Cameron is expected to remain at Duke next year as basket ball coach under the regime of Wallace Wade, who is to succeed Dehart.

No Coach Named, Says W. and L. Sports Chief.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Dec. 9.—Scorning the idea that Washington and Lee had named a football coach to succeed Eugene Oberst, Capt. R. A. Smith, director of athletics, this afternoon denied rumors that negotiations have been carried on with James Dehart, who ends his coaching regime at Duke this season.

"We haven't named Jimmy Dehart or any one else as coach of our football team for next year," Smith said. "The athletic council, in whose hands the selection of a new coach rests, hasn't even had a meeting since it was announced last week that Oberst will not be with us next year."

Dehart left Washington and Lee several years ago to take the Duke coaching job, and when he left there was general regret in the Washington and Lee camp. Whether he has any thoughts of returning to Lexington are unknown.

SQUADS CUT DELAYED AT CENTRAL

Coach Coggins Waiting for Advisory Marks.

BERT COGGINS, basket ball coach at Central High School, besides knowing his basket ball, knows his Centralites. Coggins has wisely decided not to make any move toward singling out a special group from his squad as worthy of further attention other than the conventional preseason routine until the beginning of next week, when marks for the second advisory are announced.

Fearing a return of the holocaust of poor grades which did much to cripple Central on the gridiron, Coggins is taking no chances on having players upon whom he has placed special time and attention removed from the floor because of scholastic ineptitude.

Twenty-five Candidates Seek Berths.

Yesterday Coggins put a group of about 25 through the motions. Among the men on the floor were Pinckney, DeLisio, Deveau, Morgan and Gibbons, who just put their football uniforms in storage. Deveau appears to be a natural player and was used in several games last year before going ineligible.

While Coggins showed no particular discrimination yesterday in assembling several shadow-playing teams, the combination of Rice, Swift, Berger, Broadbent and DeLisio looked the best of the bunch. Rice and DeLisio are veterans from last year's line-up and seem to have their positions as center and guard thoroughly in the bag. Swift, a freshman, is going to be heard from before long.

This quintet scrimmaged against a team of former Central players, with Nee and Brommick in the line-up and more than held its own with the alumni.

Coast Coaches Approve Athletic Commissioner

Los Angeles, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—A proposal for a commissioner of athletics for the Pacific Coast Football Conference received the approval of coaches at the annual meeting today and was delivered to faculty representatives for a final decision.

The proposition of a commission, such as rules the Big Ten, had been defeated on numerous occasions by failure of the coaches to agree. What action the faculty representatives might take was doubtful.

Battalino Gains New Favor As Chocolate Fight Nears

La Barba's Body Punches Proved Cuban's Vulnerability; Featherweight Champion Trains Blows on Ribs of Partners.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The "Achilles heel" of Eligio Sardinias, discovered by Fidel LaBarba, has convinced the experts that Christopher (Bat) Battalino, featherweight champion, has almost an even chance to defend his featherweight title successfully against the Cuban flash in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Until LaBarba, the rugged Italian collegian from the Pacific Coast, belted Eligio, other wise known as Kid Chocolate, so roughly about the body that the belting bomb bomb faded into defeat, the faithful could scarcely conceive of a 126-pounder capable of whipping the sensational "keed." But LaBarba's recent victory, pounded out by wa yof Chocolate's midsection, disclosed the weakness that Battalino, a mediocre champion, may follow to advantage.

Chocolate, in training, has shown no liking for body punishment while Battalino has done little else than train his batteries on the ribs of his sparring partners.

The hunch players are backing Battalino because three Italians—Labarba, Tony Canzoneri and Petrolle—scored the three most surprising upsets of the indoor season. Labarba whipped an uncrowned champion in Chocolate, Canzoneri knocked out a genuine titleholder in Al Singer, lightweight king, in two punches, and Petrolle outclassed McLarnin, considered the best of the welterweights.

Battalino has experienced some trouble in making the class weight limit and still has a couple of pounds to carve from his slim frame. Chocolate is a natural 126-pounder.

PLEBES GAIN IN ARMY'S WORKOUT

Use Navy Plays and Find Holes in Cadet Varsity Line.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—With the entire corps o fcadets and an improvised band along the sidelines, the Army football squad went through one of the hardest scrimmages of the season today in preparation for Saturday's charity game against the Navy.

During the defensive part of the scrimmage, the plebe team put on Navy plays with considerable success. Johnson, plebe half back, who is short and stocky, repeatedly found holes in the line and bored through for substantial gains.

On the attack, Coach Sasse again experimented with the number one back position. Sasse used Prentzel and Glatly in the position. A new formation made its appearance on the field in the drill. Coaches said it had been designed for use against Notre Dame, but weather conditions prevented its use.

Coordination Goal In Last Hard Drill.

Today was spent in polishing up the team's weak spots and it is expected that the lats hard practice tomorrow will be given over to obtaining coordination.

SCTn..gfSll.elsethis2tl lo m m m

Ed Messinger, right end, joined the injured lits today with a shoulder injury received in Monday's practice. Trainer Wayne Hauck expects to have him in condition by Saturday.

At the close of today's drill Coach Sasse said: "The Army will need its full strength Saturday but will not have it. We will go into the game more seriously handicapped by injuries than for any other game this season."

PEEWEE GOLF TAKES AUSTRALIA.

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Hundreds of miniature golf courses are now operating in every Australian city and every state, so greatly has the craze caught on.

HOCKEY FANS BEAT NEW RULE.

Seattle, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—A new rule in the Pacific Coast Hockey League that prohibited offensive players from crossing the blue line ahead of the puck caused such a howl among customers that it has ben abanadoned.

GRIMES LOOKS OVER FARMS.

Burleigh Grimes is figuring on becoming a gentleman farmer when his pitching days are over. The Cardinal twirler recently looked over farms near Noblesville, Ind., with a view of investing in some Hoosier soil on which to raise purebred horses and cattle.

Carideo Selected as Outstanding 1930 Gridman by Veteran Group

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The board of directors of the veteran athletes of Philadelphia, has singled out Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's quarter back, as the outstanding football player of hte year.

The veteran athletes organization holds an annual dinner at which it awards trophies for some outstanding performances in the various fields of sport. The dinner will be held January 31.

Len Macaluso, Colgate full back, Eastern intercollegiate high scorer, will also be honored as well as the Notre Dame and Colgate teams. The Ramblers have been selected as the national champion football team and Colgate as the outstanding team of the East.

Others to be honored are Charles Gelbert, jr., shortstop of the St. Louis Nationals, the Philadelphia Athletics as the base ball champions of the world, the St. Louis Nationals as the champions of the National League, Cornell as the intercollegiate rowing champions, and Penn Athletic Club crew as the international rowing champions.

Middies Drill To Band's Music

Four Teams Practice With Vim as Regiment Watches.

Best Back Field Will Start; Kirn Is Worn From Plunging.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—"Navy Bill" Ingram, who gained his name through five years of coaching football at the Naval Academy, professes not to be worrying a grea deal about the charity game with the Army at New York on Saturday.

"It's just another game, and we are preparing as we would for any other team," he said today as he pulled off his togs after a strenuous afternoon with his charges.

"We'll give 'em a battle."

Nevertheless, the Naval Academy is making preparations in far from "another game" spirit. Four teams were on the field today, and they went through the scrimmage with a vim to the accompaniment of cheers from the midshipmen grouped in the stands and music from the band.

Smooths Blocking For Offensive.

Ingram put his first-string men through a skeleton scrimmage, using nothing but tackles and ends against them in an attempt to smooth their blocking for the plays to be sprung against the Army style of defense.

Ingram is planning to use his best back field to start the game, with Joe Bauer at quarter back, Lou Kirn and Johnny Gannon at the halves and Oscar Hagberg at full back. It was this combination he used today and alternated it with another having "Rusty" Williams at quarter, Joe Tschirgi and Tommy Hurley at the halves and Jack Campbell at full back.

Weak spots in both back fields are worrying the Navy mentors. Kirn, midget 152-pound battering ram, is worn down with the burden of line-cracking all season, and is suffering from a broken great toe and a deep gash across his face.

Bewail Lack of Replacements.

Hagberg, heaviest of the back field men, has been in and out with an injury all year. Hurley, Campbell and Williams lack experience under fire.

Navy Bill and Rip Miller, former Notre Dame guard who is line coach, both are satisfied with Byng and Steffanides at the wings, Lou Bryan and Big Bob Bowstrom at the tickles, Gray and Underwood at guards and Tut Tuttle at center. But both coaches bewailed that there are few replacements.

Rockne to Broadcast At Army-Navy Game

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne will aid Ted Husing in broadcasting this Saturday's Army-Navy football game over the Columbia System, it was announced today.

The famous coach of Notre Dame is to make occasional comments on the play and between the halves is to give a critical resume of what has happened with a forecast of what may be expected in the second half.

Tennessee Condemns Own Early Practice

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Assembling of freshmen football candidates before the opening of school last September, a violation of Southern conference rules, was condemned by the University of Tennessee today through its athletic council.

By doing so, requirements of the executive committee of the conference were met, and university officials consider the matter dropped.

In a statement issued through Prof. N. W. Dougherty, athletic director, the university said, "the act was without the knowledge or consent of the University."

TELEGRAPHIC SHOOTS.

Twenty-five telegraph target matches have been arranged on a tentative schedule for the University of Kentucky rifle team.

AUBURN LOSES EIGHT.

Eight members of the Auburn football team will be lost to the varsity squad by graduation this year.

DR. SERMON TO COACH.

Dr. R. R. Sermon will be head coach in basket ball at North Carolina State College this year.

COACH SIGNS AGAIN.

Capt. John McEwan, Holy Cross football coach, has signed a new three-year contract.

FIRST WIN IN 9 YEARS.

Los Angeles, Dec. 8 (A.P.).—Whittier College this year boasted the first victory over Pomona College in nine years of football competition. The Whittier Poets took their opponents, 33-6.

ALL PLAYERS ON MARKET.

Baseball interest isn't being allowed to die by Fred J. Voss, jr., president of the Bridgeport Eastern League Club. In the course of keeping local fans informed, Voss made it known last week that the Bridgeport Club is ready to sell every player on the 1930 roster, that John (Hans) Lobert will be back as manager in 1931, that six towns along the Atlantic seaboard are anxious to replace the four clubs that dropped out, that the split-season for 1931 is out of the question, and that the schedule will be cut from 168 games to 154, and perhaps 140.

FOOTBALL IS FATAL TO 13 IN 1930, INCREASE OF ONE

High Schools Hardest Hit By Deaths

No Major College Figures in Fatalities on Gridiron.

Insurance Companies Put No Extra Levy on Gridmen.

FATALITIES SINCE 1905.

1906	11	1913	5	1925	20
1907	11	1914	13	1926	9
1908	13	1915	15	1927	17
1909	13	1917	12	1928	18
1911	11	1921	12	1929	12
1912	13	1923	18	1930	13

No tabulations were kept in 1910, 1916, 1918, 1919, 1930, 1922 and 1924.

THIRTEEN football players were killed during the 1930 season. This is one more than the total last year. Eight of those who died were high school players, four were on college teams and one was a member of an independent club. The average age was 18 years, while the average last season was 17.

None of the major colleges of the country lost a player through death, although many were injured, some so badly that they were unable to take part in the major games of the campaigns. It is noteworthy, however, that such universities as Yale, Harvard and Princeton in the East, and Notre Dame and others in the West did not have any fatalities.

Football experts believe that the new types of suits worn by the players have done much toward eliminating serious injuries. Helmets are made better now than they formerly were and the padding in the suits is more scientifically designed and placed.

Game Today Harder, Says McEwan.

According to Capt. McEwan, coach of the Holy Cross eleven, the game is just as hard—in fact, harder—than it ever was, but the major teams have seen that every man was in a thoroughly hardened physical condition before he entered a game. Tackling is more decisive than in the past, but this, too, has brought a reduction in injuries.

While this year's total in deaths is one more than last season, it is not alarming. There were 18 fatalities in 1928, 17 in 1927, and only 9 in 1926, but there were 20 in 1925.

Insurance companies have not placed an extra levy on football players, so the game can not be considered a hazardous occupation. It seems to be much safer than hunting, for example, although it is impossible to strike a true average, as there is no way of learning how many hunters and how many football players there are; but it certainly seems true that, in proportion, more hunters than football players are killed.

Baseball Most Dangerous Of Summer Sports.

No sport in which personal contact is an important element is free from injury. Baseball, soccer and other games have their fatal injuries. Last October 19 a soccer player, 19 years old, was kicked in the head in a game on the Coast and died of a fractured skull.

Of the summer sports baseball is the most dangerous, according to figures compiled by the Fidelity and Casualty Co. of New York. Baseball was blamed for 807, or 18 per cent of last summer's injuries, with swimming second and wrestling third.

Tennis produced 211 injuries, as compared with 562 for swimming and 287 for wrestling. Golf produced 164, while ping pong resulted in only 3.

Freak Injuries Are Few.

Freak injuries were at the zero point this year. Last season there were several, such as a grandmother, playing with boys, receiving a broken leg. A second fatality was reported at McKeesport, Pa., however. A high school player was killed there this season, while last year a former school player, helping to prepare the team for its big game of the campaign, was killed in a scrimmage.

One college, Monmouth in Illinois, had a double fatality this year, the center and star full back dying. The center wore a shoe that was too tight and caused poisoning and the full back died of injuries.

In the main, the fatalities were due to broken backs and fractured skulls.

Census Quintet Signs Former Brown Star

One of Brown University's most brilliant stars of the past, George E. Walsh, of Portland, Me., has been signed to play with the Census Enumerators and will appear with Earle Moser's crew against Army War College Saturday evening at Immaculate Conception gym.

Walsh, who spent two years with the Brown varsity, as well as several seasons in scholastic and independent ranks in New England, is powerfully built and may be used either at center or guard by the Census pilot. He stands 6 feet 1 inch, and is as fast as lightning.

Dinner to End Season For Eastern High Squad

Eastern High School's football season will come to a gala close Thursday night at 6 o'clock, when the annual football dinner gets under way at the school.

Eastern's grid squad, starting from scratch in early fall, rightfully classified by the press as little above Business High in caliber, grew stronger all year and caused the major upset of the season by swamping Central and going on to hold Tech even in the first half of the final game.

Fourteen Lincoln Park gridders will receive one of the coveted "E" insignias for their season's work after the football dinner. They are the eleven regulars, Davis, Campbell, Chalkley, Shorb, Wolf, Taylor, McAboy, Wells, Corriden, Wade and Palmer; and the two prime substitutes, Calevas and Sansbury. Manager Woolard and Mades, a regular, who was injured in early season.

Eastern will elect a football captain at the dinner, abandoning its practice of appointing a captain before each game.

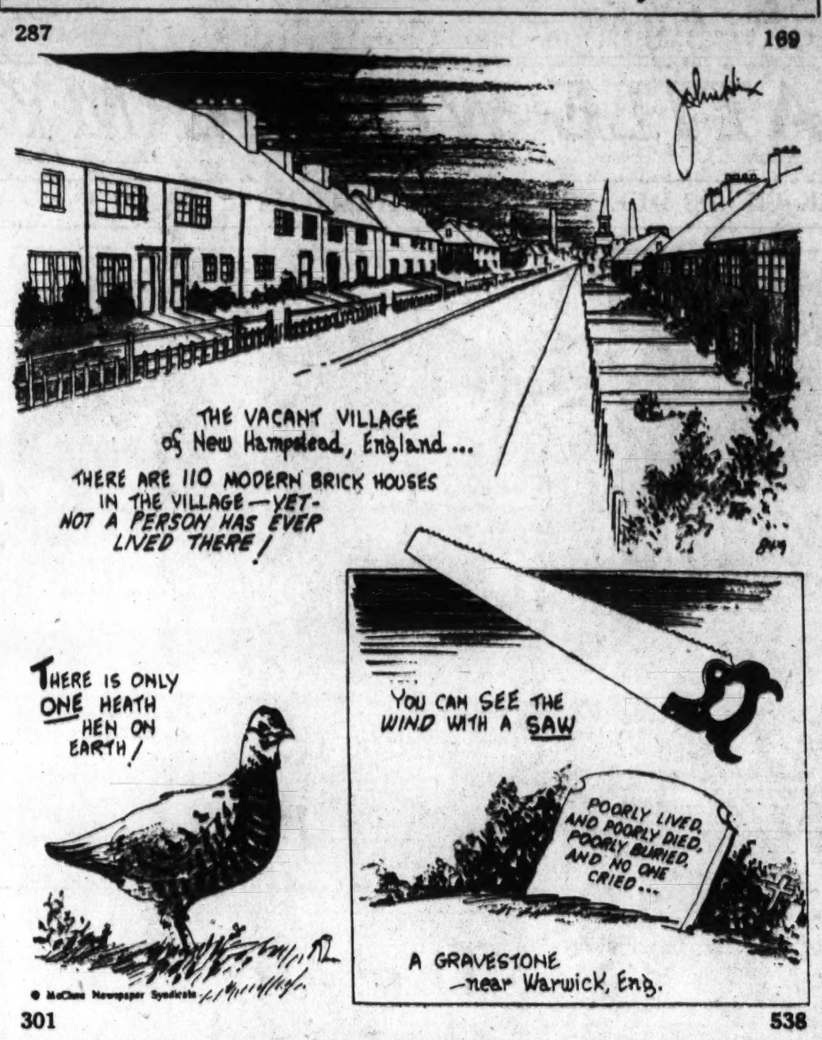
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THE village of New Hampstead, England, came into being in 1927, erected to accommodate coal miners in the nearby vicinity.

But when the job was finished the engineers found that laws from an adjacent town restricted them from disposing of the sewage as they had planned. The town was left without an outlet for its sewage system. Until engineers solve that problem New Hampstead will remain untenanted.

Have you ever seen air? You've probably noticed quivering waves rising from a road on a hot summer day. But have you ever seen air on a saw? Heres' how: Just take an ordinary saw and, holding it with the toothed edge upward and across the wind, squint along the edge. You will see the same quivering movements, which is the wind passing over the saw edge. Try it.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE feature at Jefferson Park today is an allowance race for 3-year-olds, at six furlongs, with six horses making up the smallest but classiest field on the program. The track is fast. CURTSEY, a cast-off of the J. E. Widener stable which won in an old-fashioned betting c up at Laurel, seems to be the solid horse in this field.

Admiral Grayson's filly, PANDA, which has been scratched a time or two since running second, should be the contender. SKIRBO, a beaten favorite, should be in the money. ALL UPSET would be dangerous if the track should become muddy before post time. CURTSEY has beaten better fields than this one, as was the case at Laurel, and was backed down from 7 to 1 to favoritism, notwithstanding several thousand dollars of "come-back" money was dumped into the mutuel pot.

FIRST RACE—A large field of 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings opens the card, with a half dozen possibilities included in the field of eighteen eligibles. Twelve is the limit in overnight races other than stakes, with the others on the eligible list, to start according to rotation as scratches occur. GUIDE LEFT, which was second in two races at Bowie, looks like the best of the field LITTLE COVENTRY, second in his last start, has a chance and should be the contender. FLAGG PORTER has been showing good form in these maiden races, and will figure in the race. He would have a better chance in the mud, but bids fair to leave the maiden class before he becomes a 3-year-old, the first of the year.

SECOND RACE—SIMON KENTON, second in his last start, is best in the second race with PERFECT ALIBI the one he will have to beat. The two are well matched, and the latter was in the money last out, but against weaker opposition. SIMON KENTON had to encounter AGAPANTHUS may be the sleeper in the race. If in best form, he would be dangerous. He came near to being of stake horse caliber on New York tracks a year or so ago. This is a sprint of six furlongs.

THIRD RACE—The third race is for all-aged horses. FAVORIT II appears to be the surest winner on the entire card, but he will be at a close price. He scored in his last start, and should have an easier race in this than in his former start. NEGODALE may be the sharpest contender. At Empire City he won the same race twice, the start being declared unofficial the first time, when the field was lined up at the barrier and he won the official start also. ELIZABETH BOLLA is almost sure to be among the contenders.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth race is over the mile and a sixteenth route, with SPANFLOW, second in his two last starts, probably best. This horse engaged in steeplechases earlier in the year, but in Maryland started in flat races a few times and ran well, and has improved since going to New Orleans. LILLIAN T. has plenty of speed, and probably is the one to beat. BOSKY may improve over his last race against Kadiak and should not be entirely ignored. But he seems to be a mudder.

SIXTH RACE—FAIR FOLLY, selected to win the sixth race, which is made uncertain by the large number in the race. She has early speed and with only 105 pounds, should have the race in hand for 6 furlongs and may never be caught. MY LAVA probably will be the favorite, and will be a dangerous contender. HAZEL DENSON also has a chance and should hold third money.

SEVENTH RACE—SPURRIER was scratched the other day and will start in the seventh race today. He has been coming around to best form, and will have a good chance to take the curtain event. KING KELLY will be well backed, and should be second. while GRIFF W. always has a chance in this kind of field at the distance. He is far down on the eligible list and may not get in.

Dr. Councilor to Talk At Tech Grid Banquet

Dr. Homer J. Councilor, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church and father of Harry Councilor, noted Tech athlete of several years ago, will be the principal speaker at the Tech football banquet to be held at the school on December 18.

Among the invited guests and speakers are Curley Byrd, Clark Griffith, Maj. John D. Kilpatrick, Maj. David Brewster and J. Kip Edwards.

EAGLES POINT FOR GAME.

The Skinker Bros. Eagles, 150-pound grid team, will practice tonight at Reservoir Field in preparation for Sunday's game against the Iroquois A. C.

The Iroquois gridders are 150-pound champs of Alexandria, and are expected to give the Eagles their sternest opposition of the season.

Jack Johnson Trains Griffiths for Bout

Chicago, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Gerald Ambrose (Tuffy) Griffiths is taking boxing lessons in preparation for his match with William Stribling at the Chicago Stadium December 12—and from no less than Jack Johnson, former champion of the world.

Jack O'Keefe, Griffiths' manager, has obtained the 52-year-old Negro former titleholder to teach the tough one the more intricate defensive maneuvers.

JAMES RIDES 2 JEFF PARK WINNERS

Pilots Rain or Shine to 10-Length Victory in Feature.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, La., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—R. J. Moore's Rain or Shine, a hot favorite, easily won the Scooter Lowry Purse, a 6-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds, which featured the race card here today. Uncle Matt was second, ten lengths behind, and Guide Right third.

Rain or Shine, ridden by the apprentice jockey, Eugene James, paid $5.20 for a $2 ticket. The winner carried 116 pounds and stepped the distance in 1:12 2-5. All races today were run in good time, as the track was lightning fast.

Rain or Shine in Front All the Way.

The field of seven got away to a good start, with Rain or Shine taking the lead. James kept him going at top speed and in a furlong was three lengths ahead of Uncle Matt, which held on gamely to the top of the stretch, where Rain or Shine drew away to win galloping by ten lengths. Uncle Matt beat Guide Right a length for the place.

H. G. Redwell, the Baltimore turfman, scored his first success of the meeting when his colors were carried to vicotry by Justiciary in the opening event, a dash of 6 furlongs. Petabit was second and Falmouth Belle third. Justiciary paid $63.60 for a $2 ticket.

Buddy M. threw his rider and ran away a mile before the start and was eased up in the running. Justiciary broke fast, went around field, closed with a great rush and was winner by half a length. Petabit saved second money by a head over Falmouth Belle.

Second Victory of Day for Jockey James.

Jockey James rode another winner in the third race with La Dentelle, which paid $12.20 for a $2 ticket. Bride o' the Wind was second and Marette third. La Dentelle raced Marette into defeat and drew away to win by a length, while Bride o' the Wind, closing with a rush, beat Marette half a length for the place.

Oxford-Cambridge Draw.

Twickenham, England, Dec. 9 (A.P.). The Rugby football game between Cambridge and Oxford, which is the English equivalent of the Harvard-Yale football game, ended in a draw here this afternoon, both teams scoring three points.

BRITISH COLT ARRIVES IN MEXICO

Challenger II, Sold for $125,000, Pointed for Rich Stake.

Special to The Washington Post.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Dec. 9.—The mighty British racer, Challenger II, $125,000 son of Swanford-Sword Play, and star of the Branncastle Stable, has detrained here, along with ten stable mates, at the Agua Caliente Jockey Club siding, after a flying trip from the Bowie, Md., race track, ready to take part in the coming 82-day winter meeting that starts Christmas Day.

Every blue blood in the string, which is jointly owned by W. L. Brann and R. S. Castle, shipped in perfect form. They were in charge of Trainer Royal Roberts. General Manager Jimmy Crofton had made special preparation to put the royal Englishman and his equine companions in one of the finest stables on the course and it was all ready when they were led off the train. They left Bowie the night of November 28.

Challenger II's ten stable mates are Swatter, b. c., 3; Overhead, b. g., 3; St. Christian, b. m., 3; Molasses Jane, b. m., 4; Betty Beth, br. f., 2; Blueberry, ch. f., 2; Briar Bunny, b. f., 2; Boom Boom, ch. g., 3; Graceland, b. g., 4, and Bidable, b. h., 4. There was also a lead pony.

Jockeys En Route By Motor.

Jockeys Whitaker and Dobson, who will do the riding for the stable, are coming through by motor from Bowie. Trainer Roberts, by the way, did not get off with his charges as he sauntered off the train at Yuma to get a cup of coffee and the train sauntered off and left him there. So he had to take the next train. However, Assistant Manager Tommie Gorman took charge of unloading for him.

Challenger II was bred by Lord Derwar and upon the demise of that celebrated British sportsman, the estate disposed of the turf champion to the American turfmen for the above stated sum. He shipped to this country in perfect style, and stepped off the boat in splendid health, sound as the proverbial dollar. Furthermore, he has flourished on American soil, climate and oats.

Challenger II is considered, by expert horsemen, as a very serious threat for the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, which will be run on March 22. It is very likely that he will be established second choice to Willis Sharpe Kilmer's great Sun Beau in the "future book," which Zeke Caress will make on the big race.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RAIN OR SHINE, $5.20, $2.60, $2.40; UNCLE MATT, $5.40, $3.60. GUIDE RIGHT, $3.00.

RAIN OR SHINE was much the best. He took an immediate lead, opened wide gap and won galloping. UNCLE MATT was well up to the lap of the stretch, where he ran out, but no need to be driven. GUIDE RIGHT broke fast and lacked early speed. He closed a big gap in the stretch. SAND FIDDLER broke well, but dropped right back. He finished gamely. THEO ROCHESTER stopped badly. JOAN K. had speed for five furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles (first division). Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:54½. Off at 3:54½. FINNIC WAS UNDER stout restraint for the first mile, moved into lead on turn and won nicely in hand. VANQUISH moved very fast on inside, saved ground and was next best. BETTY BUX opened wide early lead, but weakened badly final furlong. BOOM ran a much improved race. NURSERY RHYMES had speed for seven furlongs, then tired as if short. TORPOINTER had no mishap.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles (third division). Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same

NEW C. U. COACH FORESEES "FAIR" COURT SEASON

Fighting Team Is Promised By Gagnon

Center to Fit in New Style of Play Is Being Sought.

Six Holdovers, Much New Talent Is Available.

This is the third of a series of articles dealing with prospects of local college basket ball teams.

By JACK ESPEY.

IT has been two years since the basket ball team was anything to shout about at Catholic niversity, but, even though uncertainty exists as to the prospects for this season, the Brookland students somehow have gotten the idea that the coming season is to be a successful one.

This feeling is due in no small degree to the presence of a new coach and new material. There is new hope, revived spirit, and renewed confidnce. As yet, Coach Chick Gagnon, who took over the duties formerly handled by Fred Rice, has not picked a regular line-up. He has more than a dozen capable players, but has not had enough time to conclude who are the outstanding five.

Only six of the squad are holdovers from the 1929-1930 squad which lost 10 of its 22 games. The other group is composed of last year's freshmen and upper classmen who heretofore have not tried their hands at the court game.

Gagnon, former Holy Cross basket ball star, has been studying his material most minutely. Though the first game is but six days off, he feels certain that he will send forth a presentable starting team, but he makes no predictions concerning the results.

Gagnon is one of those taciturn fellows who has to be caught in a corner with no possible escape in order to extract a statement. He is modest to an extreme and over-willing to concede the strength of his opponents. Hence his refusal to forecast just what the Cardinal courtmen will accomplish in games won and lost.

Here's how he sizes up Catholic University's prospects:

"I have some pretty fair material which is taking hold of instructions satisfactorily, nad I think that we'll have a fair season. By that I mean that we'll play fighting basket ball and will give any team a run for its money.

"I'd rather not do any talking now, since we haven't played a game yet, but if you must know, I don't feel fearful by any means.

"We have a good nucleus with Joe Walsh, Bus Sheary and Lou Spinelli, who ought to play a lot of good basket ball. The rest are not far behind them in point of ability and they all want to make the team. With such fine spirit, we might do most anything of a creditable nature."

Walsh, Sheary and Spinnelli seemed destined for regular positions in the new Cardinal quintet. Walsh, one of the top talented basket ball players the Brookland schoor has had during the past two yeras, remains in his old position at forward. Sheary is performing as one of the guards, while Spinnelli si being tried at center and guard.

Throughout the unsuccessful 1929-1930 season, Walsh stood out brilliantly. He scored more than one-third of Catholic's point total, 179 points to be exact. He was seldom held safely by an opposing guard.

Sheary and Spinnelli were valuable cogs in the strong freshmen team, which won 15 of its 18 contests. It was said last year that this pair would have ousted members of the varsity had they been eligible for the intercollegiate team.

Thus far, Gagnon has not found a center that is suitable in his style of play. He is looking for a pivot man who combines speed and defensive strength. The crop of center candidates includes besides Spinnelli, Pete Kane, a senior; Hugh Flynn and Jim Hanley, juniors, and Jack Herlihy, sophomore.

RULE C—

The center man in Gagnon's system must cover much of the court. He also must be able to reach the enemy's territory ahead of his mates so that he can form the pivotal point of the attack at close range. Gagnon teaches a close range shooting game; shots from without the 15 foot mark are taboo.

Johnny Oliver, one of last year's mainstays, is battling to retain his forward berth with Ed Darowish and Rocco Biasi furnishing the opposition. In a similar position is Bill Reilly, whose guard assignment is threatened by Fred Guarnieri, Johnny Ambrose and Joe Myers.

ELDBROOKES SEEK GAMES.

The Eldbrooke basketers are looking for games with unlimited teams. Call Hank Duryee at Cleveland 5982.

40 TRACKMEN REPORT.

Forty men answered the call for indoor track at Manhattan College, New York. This is the largest turnout Coach Peter Waters has had since 1924.

BOSTON HAS SOCCER HOPES.

An application of Boston to rejoin the American Soccer League will be considered at the next meeting of the league, December 15, in New York.

GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL.

The Turkish government is going to manage sports in the country because of poor results shown by athletes.

DEROIT QUITS FARM.

Detroit is pulling out of Fort Smith, in the Western Association, and home interests may take over the franchise. If not, it is likely the club will be transferred to some other city. Okmulgee and Bartlesville, in Oklahoma, and Jefferson City and Sedalia, in Missouri, are mentioned as possibilities.

V. M. I. MEETS THREE NEW GRID FOES

King, Kentucky and Georgia Added to 1931 Schedule.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 9.—King College, University of Georgia and University of Kentucky are new foes on the 1931 football schedule of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, announced tonight by C. P. Miles, director of athletics. The three new adversaries replace Roanoke College, Vanderbilt and North Carolina.

V. P. I. again will play nine games, for three of which the site has not been definitely chosen. It is understood, however, that Miles Stadium, home field of the Gobbiers, will be the site of at least one of the three undecided contests with old conference foes.

Davidson at Blacksburg For First Time.

A game with Davidson, October 10, will bring the Wild Cats to Miles Stadium for the first time.

The schedule:

September 26, King College, at Blacksburg, Va.; October 3, University of Georgia, at Athens, Ga.; 10, Davidson College, at Blacksburg, Va.; 17, William and Mary College, at Richmond, Va.; 24, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, Ky.; 31, University of Maryland (place undecided); November 7, Washington and Lee University (place undecided); 14, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.; 26, Virginia Military Institute (place undecided).

16 Basket Ball Games Listed for Poly Team

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 9—Sixteen games, including 11 with Southern Conference foes, are listed on the 1931 varsity basket ball schedule at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The season opens in a game with the University of Virginia at home, January 17, and runs for five weeks.

Eight of the 16 games are with out-of-state teams, with North Carolina aggregations looming large on a schedule which lists more contests with distant foes than any V. P. I. court schedule in years.

The schedule:

January 17, Virginia, at Blacksburg. 21, N. C. State, at Raleigh, N. C. 22, Wake Forest, at Wake Forest, N. C. 23, North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, N. C. 24, Davidson, at Davidson, N. C. 28, V. M. "Five" Eleven Beats Miller Midgets, 27-19

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 9—The Fives, representing the Charlottesville School for Boys, ended their football season today by defeating the Miller School Midgets, 27 to 19, in a hectic contest witnessed by the student bodies of both schools.

The mountain lads fought valiantly throughout. At half time the score was knotted at 13-all. Smith and the O'Neill brothers starred for the victors, while Mayo and F. Critzer led the Miller attack. During the season, the Fives amassed 532 points against 123 for opponents.

Cumberland to Stage Valley Track Games

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 9.—The 1931 track meet of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League will be held at Cumberland, Md., May 16, it was decided at an executive session of all schools belonging to the league, held at Handley High School here.

John D. Zentmyer, Hagerstown principal, was elected president; Mr. Strine, Waynesboro principal, vice president, and Garland R. Quarles, Winchester, superintendent, secretary-treasurer. Following the election of officers, the track trophy for 1930 was presented to a representative of the Waynesboro (Pa.) High School, and the football pennant for 1930 was rehwarded to Hagerstown High School for the second consecutive year.

The following tentative 1931 football schedule was adopted:

October 10—Waynesboro, at Winchester; Columbia, at Hagerstown, 17, Martinsburg, at Waynesboro, 24, Cumberland, at Winchester, 31, Martinsburg, at Hagerstown; Waynesboro, at Cumberland.

November 7—Cumberland, at Martinsburg; Hagerstown, at Winchester, 14, open, 21, open, 26, Winchester, at Martinsburg; Hagerstown, at Waynesboro.

.22 Caliber Rifle Team Will Invade England

For the first time in the history of international match shooting, a team of .22-caliber rifle shooters from the United States will pit its skill against an English team on a British range next July. Announcement of the decision to send a team to England was made yesterday by the National Rifle Association, with headquarters in this city.

While small-bore matches have been held for some years past between English and American teams, they have been conducted on the cable plan, each team shooting on its own range and cabling the scores to the other team. The match that has been arranged for next July, however, will be shot by both the American and English teams on the British national match range, Bisley, England.

The American team to compete against the English shooters will consist of not less than fifteen members. Ten will be shooting members and two will be alternates. The other three members of the team will be the team captain, team coach and adjutant.

Fascists Training For Winter Olympics

Swarthy sons of sunny Italy, with an eye to Olympic winter sports at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1932, are taking to the snow and ice of the Alpine regions with the same spirit which they showed during the World War.

Skiing and skating, hitherto almost unknown sports in Italy, are rapidly taking the place of the country's favorite soccer games.

Hockey, entirely unheard of until last year, has been greedily seized upon by young Fascists who have always felt their inferiority in winter sports.

A good number of skiers, almost all members of the Fascist university group, have been selected for training with the Royal School of the Alpini, Italy's crack mountain soldiers, far up on the heights at Clavieres.

The first of March an elimination will take place, and the best of the group will represent Italy at Lake Placid.

Penn Five to Dedicate Wisconsin's Field House

The University of Wisconsin is making elaborate preparations for the dedication of its new field house, a function which will take place on December 18 when the Pennsylvania quintet invades Madison. This will mark the formal opening of the building, which will accomodate 8,000 spectators. In the past the general public has been practically barred from watching the Badgers in action, as the old armory gymnasium accomodated only 2,200, a quota which was usually absorbed by the students.

The new field house will have a vast maple floor, which was built in sections and brought to the building ready to be put together. The floor is large enough for two complete courts, which will permit Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, Wisconsin cage coach, to have four teams practice simultaneously. For games another court running lengthwise will be used.

N. C. U.'S FIVE IS ALMOST READY

Squad Fast Rounding Into Shape; Needs Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 9.—After much drilling on fundamentals, the University of North Carolina basket ball squad is fast taking tangible form, and Coach Jim Ashmore is anxious to uncover a practice game or so for his boys, since regular games do not start until January 8.

Coach Ashmore is building his first team around four veterans from the small number of lettermen returned from last year—Capt. Artie Marpet, senior and all-State guard last year; Sandy Dameron, senior center; John Edwards, junior guard, shifted from forward and center, and Tom Cleland, senior forward. Wilmer Hines, leading scorer with the Frosh last year, but better known as a tennis champion, has been seeing most service at the other forward.

Neiman and Green Missed.

The Tarheel mentor has been handicapped by the fact that two eligible letter forwards, Dave Neiman and Johnny Green, failed to resurn to college. The other big losses from last year were Lacy Harper, 78-inch center, and Billy Brown, guard, both of whom finished their eligibility period.

In the face of such heavy losses, Coach Ashmore's work has netted good results. Quite a few of the numerous sophs and reserves have been showing promise, and in practice scrimmages, during which many subs and combinations were tried, the squad has begun to show a certain degree of polish.

The close of football season releases Tom Alexander, letter guard from last year; Earle Beale, star freshman center of 1929; Jimmy Moore, reserve forward, and others. These, however, will have to work quite a while before catching up, since the other candidates have been working four weeks on the fundamentals of a slightly new style of play that Coach Ashmore plans to use this year.

Among the more promising sophomores and reserves who have been looking up are Smith, center; Hendlin, Markham, Longest, Hirsh, Moore, and Brooker, forwards; Kendall, Lineberger, Cohen, and Slater, the latter a converted forward, guards.

Navy Varsity, Plebe Mat Meets Listed

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis Md., Dec. 9—The 1931 wrestling schedule for the Naval Academy team, announced today by Commander Frederick G. Reinicke, graduate manager of athletics, reveals two new-comers, the university of Toronto from Canada and Northwestern University. Eight matches are carded.

The plebe matmen will engage in four meets also announced today. Both schedules follow.

Al Simmons Gets Buck After Years of Hunting

Al Simmons, Athletics' star outfielder and 1930 American League champion batter, proved this week that he can hit something besides home runs.

Hunting in the north woods, 250 miles north of his home city, Milwaukee, Al recently shot a good-sized buck, the first of his career. His hunting friends have named him "One-Shot Al" as he made the kill in one attempt.

"I've been coming here for years but this was my first kill," wrote Simmons, "It was just about as big a thrill as hitting one over the wall against the Yanks."

SEVEN TEAMS ON GRID AT TECH

First Three to Play and Practice on Other Elevens.

THE prevalent opinion that football is overemphasized finds no willing ear in the region of Second and T streets northeast, if Tech High School's gridiron plans for 1931 can be used as a basis behind the statement. Seven teams—no less—will Tech have in 1931, setting new high marks in the field of high school gridiron activities. This is all the result of Coach "Hap" Hardell's plan to use shock troops for Tech's grid engagements next fall.

Tech's first team next year in reality will be three teams. It is the idea of Hardell and Assistant Coaches Warren Spencer and Artie Wondrak to develop three teams as near as possible to a caliber par. The plan of campaign will be to start team No. 2. Toward the close of the first period team No. 1 will be rushed into the fray. All substitutes will be made from team No. 3.

Teams 4, 5 and 6 to Give Others Practice.

Teams No. 4, 5 and 6 will be used as automotive dummies to develop the team play of teams 1, 2 and 3. Some form of merit system will be worked out whereby players showing good form on the lower teams will be advanced up the line.

Team No. 7 will be the basest of the lot but still members of the Tech squad in general and eligible to improve their position in life by showing form superior to players on the teams above them.

Coach Hardell announced that he has no intention of further making a monarchy out of the high school series, but his sole intention in advancing plans for the formation of the giant squad is that the more players he uses in each contest the more experience his squad as a whole receives.

No Curb on Training Camps for High Elevens

It is very probable that no departure will be made next year in regard to curbing the preseason football training of Tech and Central High Schools, exponents for several years of the training camp idea used by the leading college teams.

Tech's regular early September stamping grounds is at College Park, whose facilities are obtained at slight cost, borne by the school itself. Central's grid team makes use of St. John's in Annapolis under similar arrangements as Tech's, and both teams have shown the result of this most logical system of getting the boys in shape for the rigors of the season.

The ethics of the question was debatable three or four years ago, according to the principal of a high school last night, but that era of thought has passed. The better condition of the boys when they returned from such conditioning resorts has consistently argued the necessity of this early training.

Whether Eastern, Western and Business will take advantage of the opportunities offered in training camps is a matter which as usual will be left up to the coaches.

First Pro Football Union in Germany

Germany's first professional football union has been established at Cologne, and, with the participation of some half-dozen west German teams, steps will be taken at once to establish relations with the professional unions in other countries.

It is expected that professional football will now make rapid strides in that country. Advertisements have already appeared in Berlin for first-class players for a Berlin team.

In west Germany twenty teams are expected to join the new union, and they will be divided into two divisions. Only the business manager will be a paid official, all the others being honorary.

FESLER ONE-MAN TEAM.

Columbus, Dec. 8 (A.P.)—Wesley Fesler was a one-man team for Ohio State this season. He started at full back in the first game, then went back to his regular post at right end and wound up doing double duty.

Return of Latona Boosts Court Stock at Western Light, Fast Team Being Built Around Star Forward.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE biggest boost Western High School's Basket Ball Team is likely to receive this year is the return to the fold of scholastically eligible young men of Anthony Latona. Tony shone for Western in his freshman year; dropped out of school in his sophomore year, went ineligible last year and, by some strange metamorphosis, has become one of the honor students this year and taken his rightful place as kingpin of the Western Team.

The lanky ambidextrous forward, who is also one of the ranking tennis players of Washington, is one of the best shots developed in the high schools of the District. His passing also looms as a threat, he being able to toss decisively with either hand.

Coach Moore Building Team Around Latona.

Tony is a right-handed tennis player, a left-handed baseball pitcher, and, on the basket ball court, finds it handy to use the full powers of ambidexterity.

Coach Cliff Moore has molded a fairly fast, fairly light team around the deadeye shooting of Latona. Western probably will stick to the tried and trusted five-man style of defense, having used that method in practice sessions against Alexandria High last week.

Coach Moore, however, is not entirely wedded to the five man defense system and keeps a finger on the zone defense idea by instructing his charges now and then in the mechanical technique of this style of play. It is a fairly safe bet that Western will stick to the five-man system and prep in the other defense play in case a losing streak or some other force makes visual the necessity of a change.

ANTHONY LATONA.

Western's attack will again follow conventional lines and will not have more or less system than any attack can have in the muddle of the battle for the ball beneath the goal.

Squad of 30 Seeking Berths On Court Team.

Western still has a large delegation of courtmen at work on fundamentals despite the proximity of the playing season. Fully 30 were active yesterday, but the bald-pated mentor has rather well defined ideas on just which of his charges will receive the call this year.

Thus far it appears that the regular line-up will be Yowell, center; Latona and Buscher, forwards, and Fox and Summers at guards. Excellent reserve material can be supplied by Amidon, Taylor and several others.

HARD GAMES FOR BLUES IN 1931

West. Md. Eleven Is Added to Ambitious Schedule.

HAVING just completed its most successful football season in a decade, Gallaudet College is already laying plans for the most ambitious gridiron schedule it ever has attempted. If present plans are consumated the Blues will play nine games next fall.

The program on the whole will cast the Blues against stronger opposition than any Gallaudet eleven has encountered since before the World War, when the Florida avenue school engaged such teams as Bucknell and V. P. I.

Western Maryland Add To 1931 List.

Outstanding of the 1931 opponents already lined up is Western Maryland, which Coach Teddy Hughes' team will meet at Westminster, Md., on an early October date yet to be determined. It probably will be October 10, the Saturday after Western Maryland plays Georgetown in Griffith Stadium.

Other opponents for the Blues will be Dickinson, St. John's of Annapolis, Pennsylvania Military Academy, Loyola of Baltimore and Shepherd College.

Gallaudet will open its season on October 3, but as yet it has been unable to secure an opponent for that date. It is said that because it has experienced a successful season, winning five games, tying one and losing one, Gallaudet is having difficulty completing its schedule with teams of its own class.

American University, an opponent on the 1930 schedule, will not be met next season. They would not agree on a date.

Gallaudet will lose only two of its 1930 regular players—Capt. Zieske, quarter back, and Hokanson, half back.

SHARE PRICES VARY LITTLE DURING DAY

Rails' Index Hits Four-Year Low, but Several Isues Rally Before Close.

U. S. STEEL UP SLIGHTLY

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Share prices fluctuated uncertainly and ended the day about where they started today, while bonds sagged further, grains held about steady, and bar silver dropped to a new low.

Rail equities were under considerable pressure during the early hours of trading, and the general level was depressed to a new low since May, 1926, as measured by the average price of 20 issues. Several recovered during the late trading, however, and the price average showed a net loss for the day of only 1-8 of a point.

The price average of 90 issues, including 50 industrials and 20 utilities ended the day unchanged. Trading picked up a little. Although the turnover was only 2,116,340 shares, it was the largest in about a fortnight.

Prices for Silver Drop.

The day's news was in the main again of a neutral hcaracter. Fresh heaviness in silver, which dropped 1 cent to 33 cents, which carried it below the bottom level of last June, was viewed in some quarter as a rather cheerless development, since some observers feel that general commodity price stability requires a good tone in the market for this metal, which is important to the purchasing power of the Far East, where it is used as a monetary base. Other nonferrous metals were very dull. Wheat and corn futures closed unchanged to ⅜ of a cent higher, the fromer grain reflecting a decrease in the world visible supply. Cotton futures eased slightly.

The carrier issues displayed a better tone in the afternoon, as rumors of early dividend reductions were generally discredited. New York Central directors meet tomorrow, and current earnings estimates indicate that the year's results will about cover the dividend requirements on the present basis. In any case, the company has large cash reserves.

Unfavorable dividend actoins by a few smaller corporations naturally were of adverse psychological influence. Richfield Oil and Sloss Sheffield Steel omitted the preferred payments.

Inquiries for Steel Gaining.

The unfilled tonnage report of United States Steel, to be published tomorrow, is expected to make a constructive showing, reflecting the more active inquiry from consumers reported of late. The weekly freight car loadings, however, will present an unfavorable aspect of the midweek statistics. Covering the Thanksgiving Day week, they naturally show a drop from the previous week, but also a wide decline from the like weeks of recent years.

Call money remained plentiful at 2 per cent, and a little was offered at 1½, although about $20,000,000 in loans was called. The United States Treasury announced that the amount of money in circulation increased about $168,000,000 during November, which was regarded as a seasonal gain reflecting holiday requirements.

The weekly condition statements of reporting member banks showed a decline of about $115,000,000 in time deposits, presumably representing withdrawals for hristmas shopping.

Support accorded leading industrials was regarded as encouraging.

Bethlehem Up Four Points.

United States Steel, General Electric, Radio and Standard of New Jersey closed fractionally higher. Eastman, orn Products and Allied hemical gained about two points and Bethlehem and American an gained about four points each.

Several shares sagged to new lows in the morning, then rallied to close a point or so higher, including New York entral, Atchison and American Water Works. Western Union sagged a couple of points to a new low, but closed 3½ points higher. ase, Johns Manville, International Telephone, American & Foreign Power and American Power and Light reached new minimum prices, but recovered partially. Rock Island dropped three to a new minimum, but was off ony threequarters of a point at the finish. hesapeake orporation and Lackawanna lost about two points. Erie(however, closed up three-fourths.

With the exception of Far Eastern, which were off with silver, foreign exchanges generally were firm. Belgian exchanges reached the highest level in months and sterling rallied a little.

BONDS AGAIN SLUMP AS TRADING EXPANDS

Speculative and Convertible Issues Once More Reach New 1930 Low Levels.

GERMAN LIST DECLINES

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—A heavy tone was again manifest in the bond market today. Liquidation covered a large list of domestic bonds, and while the highest grade obligations gave ground slowly, second-grade and speculative issues moved into new low ground for the year.

As on the previous day trading expanded and sales exceeded $11,000,000 for the first time in about a month.

Stock privilege issues were generally at new 1930 minimums and in some instances losses ranged as high as several points. Allegany Corporation 5s dipped 5 to a new year's low; Rock Island 4½s, 7½; Erie convertible 4s, 3¼, and International Telephone 4½s reacted 6. American Telephone 4½s moved the other way, however, to gain 3¼.

As in recent sessions the sharpest recessions among rails were in obligations of about a dozen railroads, notably Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Denver, Rio Grande & Western, Nickel Plate, Wheeling, Missouri Pacific, Southern, Seaboard, and Wabash. Virtually all obligations of this group moved lower. Pennsylvania 4½s, and the debenture 4½s, participated in the sag.

The sharp reaction in bonds of the International Telephone Co. influenced some selling in the utility group. International Telephone debenture 5s slipped off 3¼ and debenture 4½s, 1½. American Telephone debenture 5½s, one of the highest priced issues in the utility groups closed 1¾ and the debenture 5s of 1965, turned heavy. Brooklyn Union Gas 5s reached a new year's low. North American Edison issues sagged 1 to 2 points.

Short-term Treasury issues softened with the lower trend of domestic bonds, but Liberties were steady.

In the foreign section several European and Latin-American issues were liquidated. German bonds moved downward and this appeared to have influenced offerings of other foreign obligations. German International 5½s yielded 13¾ in a large turnover. Australian 5s of 1955 and 1957, yielded more than 2 points. There were large offerings of Italian 7s, which sagged ½ point and Polish governments were heavy. Peruvian and Bolivian governments were weak spots in the Latin-American section.

TRADE UNCHANGED, SAYS BANK SURVEY

Business Balance, if Any, Is on Favorable Side, View Held by Journal.

RIGGS BANK CLUB AIDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

This is the season when a slowing down of manufacturing activity customarily occurs to offset the expansion in retail trade and there's no evidence that business has slipped any lower in the cycle during the past month, but the balance, if any, is on the side of the favorable developments, states the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal in its monthly discussion of the condition of business.

The Journal states that extreme pessimism today would be as unwarranted as extreme optimism was a year and a half ago; that manufacturers and merchants, with the false upturn and subsequent reaction in business this spring still fresh in mind, will naturally move slowly in their commitments for merchandise or their expansion of plant facilities.

A joint meeting of the auditors section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association with Baltimore Chapter, National Conference of Auditors and Comptrollers, to which the local section is also accredited, will be held tomorrow night at the National Press Club. The principal speaker will be L. K. Sunderlin, chief of rules and regulations, Internal Revenue Bureau, who will discuss the income tax. The speech will be followed by a forum.

Imperial Ice Cream Dividend.

The Imperial Ice Cream Co. at a recent directors' meeting declared a 2 per cent dividend upon preferred stock, payable December 15, to stockholders of record today.

The declaring of this dividend from earnings follows an active year of construction and a program of expansion throughout its territories. The careful selecting and purchasing of profitable milk and ice cream companies during the past years has shown its effect upon the growth of the business. Wholesale and retail milk businesses have been established at a majority of its plants.

During the year a new plant has been completed at Harrisonburg, Va., which is looked upon as the most model dairy establishment in the Shenandoah Valley. Capacity of the Fairmont and Clarksburg plants has been doubled. Butter business has been added to all of the plants, and it is estimated that the product of over 7,000 cows is being purchased daily from dairy farmers.

Has Plants in Several States.

The Imperial organization now operates plants throughout the State of West Virginia and also has plants in Ohio, Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. The products dealt in are ice cream, milk, cream, buttermilk, butter, cottage cheese and eggs. The wholesale jobbing of candy has been extended to all plants.

Riggs Bank Club, social organization of Riggs National Bank, held its annual meeting yesterday at which Miss Esther R. Lau, secretary to Vice President and Cashier George O. Vass, was elected president, succeeding George H. Morris. Other officers elected were William Brooks, first vice president; Mrs. Elsie W. Boteler, second vice president; Miss Mildred Archer, secretary, and George M. Irelan, treasurer.

Those elected to the executive committee are Mrs. Lillian Bean, Andrew Dent, Peyton Fletcher, Howard Massey, Charles Strahorn and the following representatives of the bank's branches: L. W. Pendleton, jr., Dupont Circle; Kenneth Birgfeld, Park road; Mrs. Myrtle Wolfe, Seventh and U streets; William Hoeke, Farmers & Mechanics; Charles Hubbard, Northwest; John J. Donovan, Friendship.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Brokers in wheat went on a virtual strike today. Many flocked over to the corn crowd, general trading interest in wheat having been reduced almost to zero, apparently because Government-sponsored operations had permitted little or no freedom of movement. On the other hand, active commission house buying rallied corn briskly from price setbacks, associated with ideal weather over the corn belt.

Corn closed unsettled at yesterday's finish to one-half cent higher; wheat irregular, from one-fourth decline to one-half cent gain, with oats one-fourth off to one-fourth to three-eighths cent up, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents lower.

Commission houses showed a tendency to encourage corn future delivery business, on precedent days, when wheat price changes were few. The market seemed to be controlled generally by Farm Board rallies. A contrasting feature was the good-sized purchases of May corn on price declines.

Assertions were current that seasonal movement of corn had already passed the peak, and some Illinois reports indicated but little shelled corn was being delivered to elevators, the bulk being absorbed by feeders. Corn receipts here and at other primary centers declined as compared with a year ago. Chicago withdrawals totaling but 151 cars against 289 in 1929. Primary arrivals of corn were 1,126,000 bushels, compared with 1,356,000 bushels a year back.

The chief news to wheat traders was word that the Canadian growers' pool had dispensed with foreign agencies, and that Canada would trade abroad hereafter through ordinary commercial channels, a return to the method which prevailed before the pool was inaugurated. The new Australian wheat crop was estimated unofficially at 47,000,000 bushels under the last official forecast. Oats were firmed by the rally in corn.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 81-81¼; July, 81¼@¾; July, 72⅞-73; 74. Corn—December, 73, 74⅝; March, 76¼-78; May, 78¼-¾, 79½-80; July, 79⅞, 81½.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The Midland Steel Products Co. today declared quarterly dividends of $2 a share on accumulative preferred stock, 50 cents a share on noncumulative shares and 75 cents a share on common stock.

The Bank of New York & Trust Co. directors have declared a bonus of 10 per cent of the yearly salaries to all employes of the institution.

Cotton goods ruled quiet, today, with prices softer on gray and finished lines. Wool goods dematnd continued very light. Raw silk showed some easing in early cables and remained unchanged here. Silk goods were selling in moderate quantities. Hosiery production was being cut down sharply in some mills. Selling agents for rayon companies were of the opinion that current guaranteed prices represent the minimum for some time to come.

Silver reached a new low on the New York market today at 33 cents, a drop of a full cent since yesterday. The previous low was 33⅞ cents, reached last June 21. A steady decline has continued since November 1, due primarily to the weakness of the Chinese Exchange.

Raw silk futures closed steady: Sales, 2,230 bales; December, 238; March, 242; May, 241; open market quotations (100 day basis) Shanghai steam, extra B, 270; Canton, double extra, A, 14-16s, 190; Japanese, crack double extra, 285.

Full operations were resumed today at the Battle Creek, Mich., plant of the Oliver Farm Equipment Co., following resumption last week at the Charles City, Iowa, tractor plant of that company. Operations at the South Bend, Ind., and Springfield, O., plants have been resumed on a modified scale. The renewed operations followed refinancing of the company last week.

Increased production at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. factory here was announced today together with resumption of employment on a basis of eight hours a day, five days a week. The number of employes will not be increased at present but nearly all men on the pay roll will have full time work. They have been working six-hour shifts, four days a week. Officials said the lowest production of the plant during depression was 30,000 tires a day, which a decade ago would have been a "high peak." Under the new working schedule, production will be increased to 48,000 tires a day and 55,000 tubes. Inventories of finished products are in more favorable position than a year ago, and the upturn of production reflects the expected revival in demand for replacement tires as indicated by spring dating orders, the company said.

The Reichsbank report as of December 6, shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion increased 10,285,000; reserve in foreign currencies increased 12,122,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 42,504,000; silver and other coins decreased 4,267,000; notes on other banks increased 8,133,000; advances decreased 155,746,000; other assets decreased 20,510,000; notes in circulation decreased 161,681,000, other maturing obligations decreased 37,025,000; other liabilities increased 6,219,000. Total gold holdings 2,190,277,000. Rate of discount 5 per cent.

The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 36,650 barrels for the week ended December 6, totaling 2,229,350 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,628,850 barrels, a decrease of 37,150 barrels. Refineries representing 95.7 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 61.2 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average barrels. Daily average the previous run of crude oil to stills as 2,187,300 week was 2,246,300 barrels for refineries representing 95.7 per cent of their capacity.

National Electric Power Co. reports a gain of 23.8 per cent in October sales of load-bunding appliances by subsidiaries in 15 Eastern States. Total sales in October were $[illegible], an increase of $113,758 over October, 1929.

Directors of the Gleaner Combine Harvester Co. of Chicago, today omitted its quarterly dividend of 50 cents on its common stock due at this time.

Cliffs Corporation, Cleveland, declared a quarterly dividend of 65 cents on its common stock, placing the stock on a $2.60 annual basis against $4 previously. The dividend is payable December 20 to stockholders on record of December 10.

It was reported in Wall Street that the Rhodesian Kongo border concession plans to increase its capital to 2,000,000 shares, of which 550,000 shares would be used to acquire assets of Buwana M'Kubwa Copper Mining Co. and N'Changa Copper Mines, Ltd., N'Changa, the report said, would be acquired by a one for four share exchange.

Control of the New York Depositor Corporation, sponsors of trusteed New York City bank stocks, has been acquired by John F. Barry & Co., and John F. Barry has been elected president.

Buying in the copper market, both domestic and foreign, is quiet. A small amount of the metal is reported being sold in the domestic market, while in the foreign market special types of copper are being bought as they are required. Some copper is said to have been sold in the domestic market at 11 cents a pound, delivered, a concession of half a cent from the price established by custom smelters a few days ago. Producers, however, are holding the metal at 12 cents delivered, and Copper Exporters, Inc., continues to quote 12.30 cents, c. i. f. European base ports.

Sheet mills of the Sharon Steel Hoop Co. and the Empire Steel Corporation, in the Youngstown district, have resumed operations after a shutdown of more than ten days. The steel manufacturing average for the Youngstown district, however, was reported unchanged at 45 per cent.

The total value of building permits issued in 194 cities during November, a snort month with seven nonbusiness days, was $106,311,397, a decrease of 11.8 per cent from $120,594,780 for October, Bradstreet's reports. The figures also showed a decrease of 31.9 per cent from the $156,210,708 reported for November last year. For the 11 months to November 30 the total was $1,555,292,268, a decrease of 44 per cent from $2,779,816,956 reported for the like period last year.

Directors of H. R. Mallinson & Co., Inc., today deferred payment of the regular dividend on the company's cumulative preferred stock, payable January 1.

Cold weather during the last week of November caused a sharp increase in activity in the bituminous coal markets of the country, as compared to what was otherwise an uneventful month, Coal Age reports. Demand, however, was largely confined to domestic sizes.

Curb Review

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Curb stocks resumed their decline in an active session today and petroleum shares and a miscellaneous list of industrials dropped to new lows for the year, although there was some recovery toward the close.

Utilities shares were steadier and gave only a little ground during the morning when the lows of the day were reached and were the first to turn upward during the final hour, a few closing with substantial gains. Trading accelerated and the total turnover of 612,900 shares was the best in a fortnight.

Heaviness in the petroleum group was marked in Gulf, Humble, Standard Oil of Ohio, all of which registered new minimums for the year, and Standard of Kentucky, Standard of Ohio reacted 2¾ points, the largest loss in the group. Cities Service sold off ¾ during the morning but recovered to close steady. Standard of Indiana was firm.

Such leaders in the utility group as Electric Bond & Share, United Light & Power A, Niagara Hudson, and American Superpower gave ground stubbornly and closed only small fractions off from the previous final figures. Associated Gas A, which was very quiet during the early hours spurted under ahort covering to gain 2½ net. American Gas & Electric rallied 2⅛.

Several of the most active industrials lost a point or more. Driver Harris new reacted 2⅞ in a thin market, and A. O. Smith, an erratic issue, was depressed 7¾ to a new 1930 minimum. American Cyanamid B and Technicolor were among stocks that closed at the lowest level of the year. Deere, Fajardo Sugar, Mead Johnson, Dresser B were other soft spots. Newmont Mining rallied 2.

Investment and holding company shares were heavy during the morning but retrieved their losses near the close. Goldman Sachs dipped to a new low at 71⅛ off ⅜, but its net loss was only ⅜. United Founders and Pennroad were steady.

Auto Figures for Past Month Hit As Too Low

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The automobile trade, says Dow, Jones & Co., was inclined today to believe the revised estimate of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce on automobile production for November to be unduly conservative. This estimate placed the total output at 124,000 cars and trucks in the United States and Canada, the lowest in years.

The estimate was 20 per cent below that of October. Earlier, an estimate by the chamber put the output at 136,000 units, a decline of only 5 per cent from October. Wall street believes the final figure will be somewhere between these two estimates.

Havana to Get Daily Stock Ticker Service

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The complete stock ticker service of the New York Stock Exchange will make its first journey over submarine cables December 15, when the service will be enxtended to Havana, Cuba, to branch offices of Lamborn, Hutchins & Co., members of the exchange.

Previously, stock exchange quotations had been sent to Cuba only intermittently. Miami, Fla., has been the farthest point south to which the regular ticker service has been provided. Cuba will be the second foreign country to receive the stock ticker service. The ticker wires were extended to Canada a number of years ago.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—An early decline today in cotton, which carried prices into new low ground for the season on the near months, was promoted by relatively poor Liverpool cables and the continued weakness in the market for Egyptian cotton.

Offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying, and after selling off to 10.45 for March, the price rallied to 10.55, or within 2 points of yesterday's closing quotations. The demand was comparatively light, however, and the improvement was not fully maintained, with March closing at 10.47 and with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 6 points in response to the Liverpool showing and a continuation of the selling movement, which had been in progress here yesterday. There was also some Liverpool and Southern selling as well as further liquidation and the market continued to work lower until new December sold at 10.10 and May at 10.71, or 10 to 12 points below yesterday's closing quotations. This decline carried prices for new December and January contracts below the previous low records of the season, while March sold within 2 points of the low price and May within 6 points of the low price touched on October 8.

Trade buying increased around these figures, while there was also some covering and the market was steadier during the afternoon. Buyers were by no means aggressive in following up advances, however, and after recovering all but 2 or 3 points of early losses, the market reacted slightly under renewed selling. December sold up from 10.10 to 10.20 and closed at 10.15, while May advanced from 10.71 to 10.80 and closed at 10.76.

The continued weakness of Egyptian cotton in Alexandria seemed to be attracting increased attention today and was supposed to have been a factor in the Liverpool market. There was little further discussion of yesterday's Government crop figures. Additional December notices amounting to about 9,000 bales were said to have been issued, leading to some further near-month liquidation and switching into later months.

Liverpool cables said that hedging and general liquidation had caused the decline there and reported that business in cotton goods was checked by fears of lower prices. Exports today, 28,747 bales, making 3,467,347 so far this season. Port receipts, 36,007. United States port stocks, 4,168,546.

Advertisers discover

PLUS-VALUE of Vita-Minutes!

DURING the fresh Vita-Minutes of the morning . . . before the demands of the day have tired the mind . . . the advertising news of The Post makes clear impressions that last from morning till night.

Leaf over your business memoranda book to any busy day. The page will usually read something like this: 9:00 A. M. . . . Call meeting of department heads. 10:00 A. M. . . . Consider Mr. Carlson for new position. 10:30 A. M. . . . See New York Jobber's display.

You've set every one of these important business appointments for some hour in the morning!

Why? Because in the morning your mind is rested. It is keen, clear, alert. Impressions flash across your brain vividly—and stay there. You make decisions accurately—quickly—, during these morning minutes . . . minutes so vital in the day's work that they have been named Vita-Minutes.

It is during the Vita-Minutes that vivid impressions are also made in the minds of shoppers! They glance over the morning papers. They read the advertisements. They jot down the name of a store . . . an article. Later in the day they keep these business appointments with the merchants whose advertising message flashed a decision into their minds.

Wise advertisers have learned that The Washington Post reaches the homes of Washington in the early morning . . . during the Vita-Minutes . . . when the purchases of the day are decided on and planned for . . . when it is early enough for Vita-Minute reading to result in same-day sales.

But that's not all! They've also discovered a Plus-Value in Post advertising. For The Post not only reaches Washington families at a time when memos are being made and purchases planned. It reaches the right kind of Washington families. The families who go down town to buy, not merely to "look around". The families who decide whether a merchant's business shall be written in red figures or black.

The impressions made by The Post during the Vita-Minutes of the morning carry shoppers to the store of their choice in the afternoon.

The delivery trucks which stop at Washington doors today bring purchases planned during the Vita-Minutes of a day or two before.

Thus, Post advertisements gain a prestige which finds instant favor and preference with the thousands of women who eagerly scan its pages for shopping news every morning. If your message is not among The Post pages . . . you are losing this important double advertising advantage!

When the day's fray has jangled the nerves and fagged the brain, important matters are left until the following morning . . . and advertising messages find themselves outwitted by fatigue.
